O’Neill said ready to give on vote issue

By BYRON WOLL

After months of debate, the U.S. Senate voted yesterday to approve the appropriations bill for the Department of Defense.

The bill included $15 billion for defense spending, including funds for the war in Vietnam.

The vote was a major victory for the administration, which had been pushing for more funding for the military.

The bill also included $10 billion for social programs, including funding for education and healthcare.

The vote was a setback for the opposition, which had been pushing for a smaller budget.

The bill now goes to the House of Representatives, where it is expected to be passed.
Anti-DDT Measure Killed in Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Committee on Appropriations has killed a bill to ban the use of the insecticide DDT in the U.S., this week. The measure was re-introduced by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who said he would try again next year.

The bill, which was expected to pass the Senate, was killed by a 4-1 vote in the committee. The vote was 4-2 along party lines, with all four Republican senators voting yes and one Democrat voting no.

The bill, which would have banned the use of DDT in the U.S., had been introduced by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and was supported by a number of environmental groups.

Senator Kennedy had argued that DDT was harmful to wildlife and had a negative impact on the ecosystem.

However, the vote in the committee was a setback for the environmental lobby, which had been advocating for the ban of DDT for several years.

The Senate is expected to vote on the issue again later this year.

Pentagon, Inc., And

THE WAR BUSINESS

WE HOPE THE present trend to rearmament will fall flat as it did in 1918.

Military will record its as one of the nation's greatest productive booms. In our opinion, the irrational "peace plan" that the military needs should not be a reduction of the defense budget.

But the man who was elected on the platform that he would go to Korea and win is now the man who stamp- ed the John Foster Dulles doctrine that American duty and prestige was to be upheld at any price. We must stand firmly with the rest of the modern powers in Southeast Asia.

When he left the presidency, Dwight Eisenhower warned the nation against the growth of the military-industrial complex. Now, he is watching that trend in 1972 elections, in which the military and industries depend-

CONSIDER THE following that shows a steep increase in the number of military men and contractors who have gone to work in what were once called white-collar industries: of the 1,016,166 defense workers of the United States, 60,000 are military personnel. The Pentagon indicates that its 110,000 retired personnel are in or nearing the age of retirement. This means that there are about 170,000 retired military men working for defense contractors.

The defense industry is now employing about 100,000 retired military men. The Pentagon warns that this trend is unacceptable, and that the defense industry should not be allowed to rely on military personnel for its labor force.

The office of the Secretary of Defense will be on the alert to monitor this trend and to take action if necessary. The Secretary of Defense is also concerned about the trend of military personnel leaving the defense industry for other industries, such as the aerospace industry.

Sen. Proxmire that they are sensitive to the voice of the people. When three GOP senators pulled out of Kennedy I's Alaskan trip, it was clear that the Kennedy minstrels among the intellectuals are getting restless. What they need is a personal victory, and to come close to the president in 1972 will be more of a warm-up than a challenge.

There are no "old" politicians. Now suddenly Ted finds himself with a wide platform for such a challenge. When he left the presidency, Dwight Eisenhower was recalled. Senate Group OKs Bill on News Immunity PEOPLE, Apr. 9 - A bill to give reporters immunity from court order to turn over documents was approved Monday by the Senate Judiciary Committee. However, the panel warned lawmakers that the measure might be too lenient in the interests of the public.

The amendment version on the business calendar, in effect to protect reporters from turning over documents to a grand jury, is expected to be introduced by Sen. John Doe, R-Null, author of the amendment. The amendment would bar journalists from being forced to testify and would specifically bar the use of a grand jury to investigate any news story.

Without the amendment, the bill would give reporters immunity only when the news story is considered a matter of public interest. Under the amendment, reporters would be forced to testify if the story is of public interest and if the public interest is served by the story.

The amendment would also have a number of provisions to protect the rights of the public. The amendment would bar the use of a grand jury to investigate any news story. It would also bar the use of a grand jury to investigate any news story.

Figures didn't lie at Winona High Friday night when 13-7 loss was dealt to the Argonauts in a very close and evenly matched game. The Red Raiders were not in overdrive, but with a final score of 13-7, however the game was close, and in the final analysis, Winona High could not stop the Red Raiders in the 7th inning when they scored six runs, the most impressive of which was a grand slam home run by teammate Mark Shaw. The Red Raiders led 5-2 going into the 7th inning, and then scored six runs to put the game out of reach.

BRAINERD...Minnesota Twins' outfielder Tony Oliva didn't have anywhere near his best hit. He fisted a two-run single to highlight the Twins' 5-2 victory over the Oakland Athletics Saturday night in the Twin Cities. Oliva went 2-for-3 with two runs batted in against A's hurler Jim Wynn, who allowed eight hits and six runs in seven innings before being relieved by Bob Bell. Oliva had been batting .272 in his last 10 games. He has hit 400 in his last 10 games.

MINNEAPOLIS — The Twins roughed up the Oakland 9-3 at Monday afternoon in the Twin Cities. Oliva went 3-for-4 with two runs batted in against A's hurler Jim Wynn, who allowed eight hits and six runs in seven innings before being relieved by Bob Bell. Oliva has hit 400 in his last 10 games.

Roger Maris, a two-time American League most valuable player, has recalled how he and Mickey Mantle shared a moment of camaraderie with Joe DiMaggio during a dinner at the old New York Coliseum in the mid-1960s.

Maris, who hit 61 home runs and led the Yankees to their last World Series championship in 1969, and Mantle, who hit 500 home runs in his career, both addressed the dinner table with DiMaggio, who had just retired as a player after 19 years with the Yankees.

"He sat at our table and started talking about baseball," Maris said. "I guess he just wanted to talk to us."

Mantle, who was recovering from knee surgery, was seated next to DiMaggio, while Maris was across the table from him. The two超级明星 athletes, both known for their grace and style on and off the field, engaged DiMaggio in conversation.

Maris remembers DiMaggio's words were gentle and soft, reminiscing about his years in the majors. He spoke of his early days with the New York Yankees, his relationship with Lou Gehrig, and his experiences playing against some of the greatest pitchers of his era.

"He didn't talk about his big records," Maris said. "He just talked about the game and the memories."

The three baseball legends, both once considered among the best to ever play the game, shared stories and laughter during that dinner at the Coliseum. The memory of that evening still brings a smile to Maris' face, reminding him of the time he spent with two of the greatest players in the history of baseball.

"It was a special time," Maris said. "I'll always treasure it."
