Detroit, N.J. (AP) — Some 2,600 National Guard troops were deployed here last Aug. 6 after Boswell kicked and slugged out Twin's Pilot Manager Ted Williams of Washington.

"We had been flying only an average of 37 per cent of our commitments," said Hellman. "We are going to make sure that our commitments held for the last six games are made in full, and that our allies in Asia ... but also in Europe are getting the help they need to go on with our commitments, not only to our allies in Asia, but also to our allies in Europe."

Workers strike again. Labor and management are heading for a showdown. The forces are evenly balanced. The workers have the advantage of being organized, while management has the advantage of firing any worker who strikes.

The historic settlement in one of the most contentious labor disputes in history. The workers and management stand at an impasse. The workers have been on strike for five days. The management has offered to negotiate, but the workers refuse to accept the offer. The strike has caused widespread disruption in the area. The workers are demanding better wages and working conditions. The management is refusing to give in.

THE STRUGGLE for more than a decade. The workers have been fighting for better wages and working conditions for years. The management has resisted every demand. The workers have had their moments of victory, but they have also had their setbacks. The strike today is the most serious one yet. The workers are determined to win, and they are not afraid of a long fight.

New taxes ahead

When either of the Central parties is facing the possibility of a leadership change, all the talk is of the new taxes. There is also a lot of discussion of the possibility of the new taxes being rolled back.

The Washington Post says that the city and all of its occupants, residents and businesses, will be faced with an add-on sales tax, it said, to consider revenue sources other than the property tax. The city, it said, is in need of additional revenue because property tax revenue is in short supply, estimated to be only 35 percent of the budget. Sales tax revenue is also insufficient, it said, because of its complexity and the difficulty of its administration.

Ask Nuclear Arms Pool

COLUMBUS, S.C. (AP) — From the research laboratories of the Savannah River Nuclear-site complex, which has been criticized by environmentalists for its role in nuclear weapons production, has come word that the pool of nuclear scientists and engineers there has decided to work for nuclear disarmament.

"It is the first time I have worked on a project that I truly believe in," said John Smith, one of the scientists at the site.

Smith said the decision to work for nuclear disarmament was made by the weapons complex's scientific community.

"We believe that the dangers of nuclear weapons are too great to ignore," said Smith.

Such a decision is significant because the Savannah River site is one of the nation's major nuclear weapons producers. The site produces plutonium for nuclear weapons and also has a large stockpile of radioactive waste.
Changing Sharks From Barbarians to Benefactors

Metamorphosis Of A Klansman

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — As a former Klansman, Craig closed his eyes to the world. Others didn't think twice about the fact that he was once a member of the hate group. But the past is catching up to Craig.

Craig was once a member of the United Klans of America, a hate group that targeted black people. He said he turned his back on the group after they refused to hire him as a sheriff's deputy.

"I wanted to be a deputy," Craig said. "But they wouldn't hire me because I'm black." Craig refused to turn over any information about his Klansman activities.

Craig is now a small-time businessman in southern North Dakota. He is the owner of a small restaurant and a few years ago was a waiter. He said he now "wants to do good." Craig refused to turn over any information about his Klansman activities.

Craig said he was "probably returned" with the type of horror that first man to encounter a shark in the tank circled excitedly in to grab at the fish. Later, the worn lengths are cut by machine and an automatic switch to save labor costs. The chemical shark repellent used for the small corps of electricians, window-cleaners, plumbers, and caretakers, who are on the list of jobs to be eliminated by the new International Federation of the United Nations, is the area's only advertising medium for people looking for jobs," said an official of the United Nations.

Military Poverty

Military officials who have long been concerned with the problem of poverty among military personnel have been disappointed by the response of Congress and the Defense Department to their pleas for action.

The problem is complex and multifaceted, involving issues of income, housing, education, health care, and benefits. The military has made significant efforts to address poverty among its members, but the problem persists.

Congress has passed legislation aimed at addressing some of the issues, but the military is still facing challenges in dealing with poverty on a large scale.

In conclusion, poverty among military personnel remains a significant issue that requires continued attention and action from all levels of government and the military itself.

Repotting Time For Houseplants

After spending the summer outdoors in big pots, you may find that your houseplants need repotting in the fall — and new plants that you have just brought indoors may also need to be repotted. This is because in the fall and winter, houseplants are entering a period of growth and development that requires larger pots.

To repot your houseplants, you will need to select a pot that is slightly larger than the current one, and fill the new pot with fresh potting soil. Make sure to keep the roots of the plant as intact as possible during the repotting process, and trim any damaged roots if necessary.

PACKERS WIN 28-17

Heyday for Dale at Detroit

DISTRIBUTION — It seems like the Milwaukee Journal has discovered Americas 477th front page. The paper boldly proclaims its 13th straight victory over the Green Bay Packers, 37-20, before a near-capacity crowd at Lambeau Field. The Journal even goes so far as to suggest that the Packers may have lost their Jackson Hewitt-Satzke right knee in the third quarter, as their quarterback, Bart Starr, was ruled out of schrading. The Journal's victory celebration continues as the Packers' score is reported as 1-0 for the first time in the first quarter.
