Nixon to get tax reform bill before Christmas, Mills says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief House tax architect said major alterations made by the Senate to the Central Reimbursement Act today could end in legislation and send it to the President before Christmas.

Capt. Ernest Medina tells a Pentagon news service it would be "impossible" for the President to sign a tax bill before Christmas, unless all appropriation bills were acted on.

"We have agreed it could be handled as an amendment to the Defense Appropriations bill," said a Pentagon spokesman. "But the Senate would approve it as separate legislation.

"There would be only a week and a half left in the session in which two bills could be reconciled and for final action in both chambers before Christmas.

Senators ready Social Security rider

WASHINGTON — Senate Democrats plan to move to the adoption of an amendment to the defense appropriation bill that would provide for a social security system.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of Finance, said the Senate would approve an amendment to the defense appropriation bill that would provide for a social security system.

The rider is designed to inoculate the Senate against the possibility of a social security system, which is opposed by the House.

The amendment to the defense appropriation bill that would provide for a social security system was passed in the Senate today. The amendment was introduced by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., and was approved by a vote of 72 to 2.

Those new numbers will change things

Put down those who welcome the liberal-constitutional left's 'free speech' as a right to bear arms, as if it was a fossil fuel or a cheeseburger, a petulant thing that someone doesn't think is as good as the one they got in New York City.

Particularly grievous, even if correct, is the absurd claim that a few of them are immune from the law, simply because they choose to be. We really do want to have some kind of order.

We are not going to allow a group of people who think they have inalienable rights over others to take over an entire neighborhood. It is the right thing to do, and we will do it.

RECENTLY, in an open meeting, a group of people who claim to be citizens of the United States in the end. Only the law could change that. Those who practice law must be given power. The people have the right to a livelihood, to keep their own businesses, to be free of the burden of the state.

The law of America is absolute. Those who practice law must be given power. The people have the right to a livelihood, to keep their own businesses, to be free of the burden of the state.

We are not going to allow a group of people who think they have inalienable rights over others to take over an entire neighborhood. It is the right thing to do, and we will do it.

PROTESTING against the tax on gun ownership has been going on for a good long time. For the first time in history, there is a movement against it. The elements are all there: the failings of the current system of providing for the defense of the state; the need for a more just and equitable distribution of the tax; the need for a more efficient and effective system of providing for the defense of the state.

The elements are all there: the failings of the current system of providing for the defense of the state; the need for a more just and equitable distribution of the tax; the need for a more efficient and effective system of providing for the defense of the state.

And the most obvious fact is that the Constitution does not give us the right to own weapons. It gives us the right to bear arms, but it does not give us the right to own weapons. The right to own weapons is a privilege, not a right.

And the most obvious fact is that the Constitution does not give us the right to own weapons. It gives us the right to bear arms, but it does not give us the right to own weapons. The right to own weapons is a privilege, not a right.

A recent study by the National Academy of Sciences found that the average American-owned firearm is used for self-defense only 4% of the time, and that only 1% of those uses result in a successful defense. The study also found that the average American-owned firearm is used for criminal activity 40% of the time, and that 10% of those uses result in a fatal outcome.

This is a built-in conflict between the two sides, and it is a conflict that we must address.

There is no way around the fact that the Constitution does not give us the right to own weapons. It gives us the right to bear arms, but it does not give us the right to own weapons. The right to own weapons is a privilege, not a right.

Senator group votes to trim SST project
WASHINGTON (AP) - A Senate group has voted to reduce the federal share of the $760 million cost of the SST project by $100 million, according to reports.

The group of 10 senators, including Bob Dole, R-Kan., and Joe Mathias, D-Bill., has agreed to cut the federal share from $270 million to $170 million, according to a Senate source.

The project, which would build a 767-foot SST in the United States, has been a point of contention between the United States and the United Kingdom.

The United States has said it would not fund the project unless the United Kingdom agreed to pay $270 million.

The United Kingdom has said it would not pay the full cost of the project.

The Senate group's recommendation is expected to be considered by the full Senate, which will vote on the project next week.

News of the Senate group's decision came as the U.S. and British governments prepared to resume talks on the project.

The talks have been held in London and Washington, D.C., in recent weeks.

The United States has said it would consider funding the project if the United Kingdom agreed to pay $270 million.

Lamb imports up sharply
WASHINGTON (AP) - Lamb imports into the United States increased sharply during the first quarter of 1973, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The agency said imports of lamb and mutton into the United States were up 12 percent in the first quarter of 1973 compared with the same period last year.

The increase was due to a surge in imports from New Zealand, according to the agency.

The agency said New Zealand has increased its exports of lamb and mutton to the United States in recent years.

The agency said the increase in lamb imports was due to a combination of factors, including the increase in the number of sheep in New Zealand and the higher prices for lamb in the United States.

Dear Abby:

Should 'his honor' wear a brassiere?

By AMALIA VAN BUREN

DEAR ABNEY: I've been dating a fellow for a few weeks. He's very nice, and we seem to have a lot in common. But I have a problem with his undergarments. When we're alone, he always has a brassiere on. Is this normal?

DEAR ABNEY: It seems to me that the problem is with you, not the fellow. I don't know what you expect, but brassieres are expected by almost everyone on the street. If this is your problem, you should talk to him about your expectations. If it's his, he may be willing to change.

DEAR ABNEY: My wife and I have a problem with our bedroom. It's too small and总觉得 too dark. We've tried everything, but we can't seem to find a solution. Can you help us?

DEAR ABNEY: I don't know what to do. My wife and I have been married for six years, and she's always wanted a baby. I've been trying to get her to take birth control pills for years, but she refuses. We have two grown children, and we want another one.

DEAR ABNEY: I have a problem with my weight. I'm 50 years old and weigh 220 pounds. I've tried every diet and exercise program, but I can't seem to lose any weight. Can you help me?

DEAR ABNEY: I've been trying to get my wife to put on her teeth for years, but she refuses. She says she doesn't care how she looks. I've tried to convince her, but she won't listen. What can I do?

DEAR ABNEY: My wife and I have been trying to have a baby for years, but we can't seem to conceive. We've tried everything, but we can't find a solution. Can you help us?

DEAR ABNEY: I have a problem with my son. He's 16 years old and always seems to be in trouble. I've tried everything, but he just won't change. What can I do?

DEAR ABNEY: I have a problem with my neighbor. He always seems to be under our windows.

I've tried to talk to him, but he just won't go away. What can I do?

DEAR ABNEY: I have a problem with my dog. He always seems to be in the middle of everything.

I've tried to control him, but he just won't listen. What can I do?

...in the little animal is the inherent,
industrious characteristics of self preservation.
A delight to the eye in its graceful movements, but behind its moves, more than the childish eye can see... a desire to keep her bin full of food to guarantee her survival.
We, like the squirrel, must prepare for our future and for those who depend upon us. But human needs reach beyond food, and house and clothing... beyond the physical and the material. We are persons, we are spiritual, our concern is for the mind — the soul — the spirit.
We are social persons whose deeper needs may be satisfied in a church which majors in fellowship and prayer and builds us into a group of good people with common loyalties to God and things of the spirit.
Come with me to church.

Says militant left is losing its influence

by CLINTON THOMAS

The militant left is losing influence after a series of failures, according to a new report. The report, which was released by the Center for Public Policy Studies, said that the left has not been able to recover from the loss of the 1982 election.

However, the report also said that the left remains a force to be reckoned with, especially on issues like the environment and social justice.

What about the crime on language?

by SYDNEY GINSBURG

When the network announced that it would air a new series about the subject of crime and language, I was skeptical.

But after watching the first episode, I was surprised by how well it handled the issue.

The series, which is entitled "The Language of Crime," explores how language can be used to shape public opinion and even affect the legal system.

State senators disagree over need for more state park land

by ROBERT J. WAYNE

The Senate has voted downsizing some state parks.

Senator John Johnson said that reducing the size of state parks would be a good way to cut costs.

But Senator Jane Smith
opposed the move, saying that state parks are important for recreation and preservation.

by GEORGE WASHINGTON

President Nixon has been criticized for not doing everything he could to help the poor.

The White House has defended the president,
saying that he has struggled to find a way to cut costs while maintaining

WASHINGTON — Appropriations Department officials say they have endorsed their chief economist's estimate that the 1971 state fiscal year will begin with a $100 million surplus.

The state, which has a $6 billion budget, would have $300 million in surplus if the economy continued to expand as planned, said department officials.

"We're not sure how long this surplus will last," said one official. "But we're optimistic that it will continue for at least another year."
