Nixon faces first civil rights test

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court has set a civil rights test for the Nixon administration, ordering it to defend its controversial policy of busing school children to desegregate schools.

The court's action came after a Justice Department lawyer argued that the busing policy was unconstitutional, citing recent court rulings that have struck down similar policies in other cities.

The court's decision is a major victory for civil rights groups, which have long argued that the policy is discriminatory and violates the constitution.

The court asked the administration to file a brief by March 1, 1969, and set a oral argument for April 6. The administration has 60 days to file a brief in response.

The case is U.S. v. L.A. City Schools, No. 29-69.

Tax reform bill reaches vote

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate has reached a compromise on the tax reform bill, clearing the way for final passage this week.

The compromise was reached after a fierce debate that included a series of amendments and a filibuster. The bill now includes provisions to cut the top marginal tax rate from 70% to 50%, and to phase out the inheritance tax.

The Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid said the compromise was a major victory for the administration and the business community.

In a conference vote on Wednesday, all but one of the amendments were voted down. The Senate is expected to vote on the final version of the bill on Thursday, and send it to the House for consideration.

In federal crime probe

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - Mitchell, a key figure in the infamous Watergate scandal, has been indicted on charges of perjury and obstruction of justice.

Mitchell, who served as the White House chief of staff during the Nixon administration, has been under investigation for more than a year.

The indictment stems from a 1973 meeting, held under the guise of a casual dinner at a Washington restaurant. During the meeting, Mitchell and others allegedly discussed a plan to disrupt the upcoming Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

Mitchell is expected to plead not guilty when he is arraigned later this month. He has been in the custody of the Federal Bureau of Prisons since his arrest last week.

Johnson visits White House

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson visited the White House on Wednesday to meet with President Nixon and discuss national security issues.

The meeting comes at a delicate time, with the United States engaged in a war in Vietnam and facing criticism over its nuclear weapons program.

Johnson and Nixon discussed the latest developments in the Vietnam war, as well as the administration's plans for the upcoming meeting with South Vietnamese President Thieu.

Johnson also expressed his support for the president's efforts to end the war, saying, "I'm with you all the way."

Battleground casualties rise sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) - The number of American casualties in the Vietnam war has risen sharply in recent months, according to new government figures.

The latest figures show that 5,624 American soldiers have been killed in the war so far this year, compared to 3,324 in the same period last year.

The increase in casualties is due to a surge in ground combat operations, as well as growing resistance from the North Vietnamese army.

The administration has announced plans to increase its military presence in Vietnam, but has faced criticism from some lawmakers and the public.

Administration team: Near organized crime breakthrough

WASHINGTON (AP) - The administration has made significant progress in its efforts to combat organized crime, according to top officials.

Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach said the government has successfully prosecuted a number of high-profile cases, and has disrupted criminal networks across the country.

Katzenbach said the administration's strategy is working, and that the country is seeing a decline in violent crime.

The attorney general said the government is also working to improve relations with law enforcement agencies, and to increase cooperation with other countries in the fight against crime.
Problems in securities industry — but they are being tackled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secret societies that have emerged in the securities industry are being tackled by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The SEC is investigating possible violations of the securities laws by brokerage firms and professional advisors.

The investigation is focusing on possible violations of the anti-fraud provisions of the securities laws. The SEC has also issued cease-and-desist orders to several brokerage firms.

The investigation is part of a broader effort by the SEC to address issues in the securities industry, including the use of unauthorized trading practices and the failure to disclose material information.

Gone in winter

There is no question that winter is the low point of the deer herd in Minnesota and Wisconsin, no matter how good the food or protective cover. It is the time of year when the greatest number of deer are killed by hunters and the percentage of those shot is highest. While some may kill a few deer in the autumn, it is the cold months and the next few weeks of the new year when the majority of the deer are killed. If you are serious about hunting deer, you must plan your hunt for this time of year.

Exaggerations in polling

In the political press coverage, it is often said that the American people are exaggerating their opinions to please their candidates. But do our people really believe that the candidates are telling the truth?

Diluted truth?

In a recent Harris survey, 60 percent of the people said that the candidates were exaggerating their views to please the American people. But the survey showed that 80 percent of the people said that the candidates were exaggerating their views to please the American people. Yet, 60 percent of the people said that the candidates were exaggerating their views to please the American people. This indicates a marked lack of trust in our political leaders and a general disillusionment with the political process.

Even more striking is the fact that 80 percent of the people said that the candidates were exaggerating their views to please the American people. This suggests a profound lack of faith in our political leaders and a general belief that the candidates are not to be trusted.

METHOD: Beat the eggs thoroughly, add the sugar and water, then beat again, sift flour with the salt and cinnamon, and beat into a smooth batter. Add the remaining flour to the egg and sugar mixture, then fold in the nuts and gumdrops. Spread thin in a greased and floured pan (use pans 8x13) and bake in a slow oven 325° for 35 to 40 minutes. While still warm, cool on a wire rack.

INGREDIENTS

2 C. flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt

1 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
2 C. brown sugar
1 egg
1 tbsp. shortening
2 T. butter
3 T. milk

2 C. chopped nuts
2 1/2 C. gumdrops

Ironing...a soft touch for your feet

Cherries and nuts add a festive touch to your ironing clothes this Christmas Eve, but ironing clothes correctly is just as important as being festive. Here are some tips to make ironing easier and more Effective:

1. Use the right iron:
   - Choose an iron that matches the fabric type you are ironing. For example, use a steam iron for heavy fabrics and a spray iron for delicate fabrics.

2. Use the right heat settings:
   - Set the iron to the correct heat setting for the fabric. Most fabrics have a recommended heat setting listed on the label. If not, use the lowest heat setting and increase as needed.

3. Iron in the correct direction:
   - Iron in the direction of fabric grain, not against it. This will help avoid creases and make the fabric look more polished.

4. Use the right ironing technique:
   - Use the appropriate ironing technique for the fabric and garment type. For example, use a gentle, soft touch for delicate fabrics and a firm, steady touch for heavy fabrics.

5. Iron from the back:
   - Iron the wrong side of the fabric to avoid damaging the right side. This will also help prevent creases from forming on the right side.

6. Use heat protect:
   - Use a heat protect pad or cloth to protect the fabric from direct heat. This will help prevent damage and make ironing more Effective.

7. Store your iron properly:
   - Store your iron in a cool, dry place. Avoid storing it in direct sunlight or near heat sources, as this can damage the iron or cause it to malfunction.

8. Clean your iron regularly:
   - Clean your iron regularly to remove any build-up or grime. This will help make ironing more Effective and prevent damage to the iron or fabric.

9. Use the right ironing accessories:
   - Use the right ironing accessories, such as ironing boards and clothes hangers, to make ironing more Effective and prevent damage to the fabric or iron.

Dear Abby:

Leaves young wife for grandmother
BY ARNOLD VAN HOOK

DEAR ABBY: It's easy to understand why a married woman of 45 just left her husband. Not that there was anything wrong, but how about a man that age who would base a beautiful 36-year-old with four married and two unmarried children of his own. The mother-in-law has been nagging him to get married again for three years. Whenever he decided to do so, his father talked him out of it. So he decided to do it. He has three daughters and a son. His father is no better than the mother-in-law. It's a question of money. To top it off, the son-in-law has a new car and a new house. How about a man that age who would leave a beautiful 36-year-old wife? Do you think she'll ever be allowed to date again? Do you think she'll ever be allowed to date again? Do you think she'll ever be allowed to date again? Do you think she'll ever be allowed to date again? Do you think she'll ever be allowed to date again? Do you think she'll ever be allowed to date again?

DEAR ABBY: We are a married couple with an audience of 200 at Kan-... County Fair. We were asked to speak on the topic of "How to Avoid the Humming Habit." We are supposed to do it for an audience of 200 people. We have been asked to do it for an audience of 200 people. We have been asked to do it for an audience of 200 people. Five of eight indicted in North Dakota charge politics

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Five of eight persons indicted Wednesday by a South Dakota grand jury for allegedly violating various state and federal laws in their unsuccessful bid to oppose the construction of an electric power plant have been ordered held without bond.

Company officials had not made an announcement of their decision, but the indictment charges that the company violated the state law by failing to collect the required permit and by failing to file the proper documents with the state.

The indictment also charges that the company violated federal law by failing to obtain the necessary federal permits.

The company has been ordered to pay a $50,000 fine for each violation.

Ford battling to wipe out air pollution

DETROIT (AP) — Henry Ford II said Wednesday that Ford will spend $25 million to install air pollution control equipment on its assembly lines.

Ford said that the firm will spend $5 million more to install the equipment on its assembly lines.

The company will also spend $10 million to install air pollution control equipment on its assembly lines.

Ford said that the new equipment will allow the company to meet the new federal air pollution standards.

One of the sources of pollution is the company's new power plant.

Dean Martins will divorce

BETHPAGE (AP) - Dean Martin's divorce suit was filed in state Supreme Court Wednesday, a day after his wife, Ann, 27, announced their breakup.

"It is painfully difficult for me to present you with the end of our marriage," the suit said. "My heart is broken and my efforts to save our marriage have failed..." he added.

The children have the option of living with either parent if a court order is not issued, but the children's wishes will be considered, he said.

The suit also includes a statement from the children, who are the only ones to have visited their father.

The court will have jurisdiction over the children's support, custody, and visitation rights.

SILENCE OF A SWISS BANK VAULT CAN BE 'GOLDEN'

New York Times News Service
WASHINGTON — A growing number of affluent Americans are discovering that the silence of a Swiss bank vault can be golden.

Under the secrecy laws of the Swiss bank, you may not even know that your money is being stored. You may have to jump through legal hoops to have access to it. But once you do, it can be worth its weight in gold.

A blank page is worth more than a blank check. It is often illegal to withdraw money from a Swiss bank account, even if you are the owner. The law requires that you prove your identity to a Swiss court, and that your identity is not a fraud.

But if you have a legitimate claim to the money, you can usually get it. The Swiss banks are known for their strict confidentiality. They will not disclose the source or destination of your money.

This is why so many Americans are flocking to the Swiss banks. They are looking for a place to store their money that is safe from government interference.

The Swiss banks are not alone in this. There are other countries where the banks are known for their strict confidentiality. Panama, for example, is known for its ability to keep the identity of its depositors secret.

But the Swiss banks are the best. They have been in business for over 300 years, and they have a reputation for being able to keep secrets.

So if you want to keep your money safe, you might want to consider opening a Swiss bank account. It might be worth its weight in gold.

Law allows boards to set dress codes

MADISON, Wis. — Gov. Warren P. Knowles' administration signed into a law this week which would allow local school boards to establish dress codes.

The measure was signed despite a decision handed down by the Wisconsin Court of Appeals last month which prohibited boards from imposing such rules on students.

The new law was widely supported by educators and local government leaders.

State Sen. John Usem, D-Madison, said the measure would allow school boards to make decisions on dress codes.

"The school board is the place where these decisions belong," Usem said.

The new law also requires school boards to hold public meetings before enacting dress codes.

County Welfare Building

Morale at the County Welfare Building was high after a decision by Gov. Warren P. Knowles to consolidate the building with the South Central Ministry.

The move was met with widespread approval by employees.

The new building will be located on the corner of South and Main streets.

The new building will cost approximately $1 million to construct.

MADISON — The new building will be ready for occupancy in the spring of 1980.

Local government leaders hailed the decision as a major step forward in the consolidation of county services.

"This is a great day for the county," said County Executive John Usem.

"It is a step toward a more efficient and responsive county government.

The new building will house the county's main office, as well as several other departments.

MADISON — The county executive will move into the new building in February, followed by other departments.

The Warriors also had a telling punch in the third quarter, hitting 24 of 47 while the Lancers shot 26 of 55. The day's melee; the rest of the way.

Sometimes the break in the second half and the two teams looked good and bad good, good. Sometimes it had a bad smell. The game's 10-point margin before the end of the second half was a start to the game. Tempo was possibly too quick, and the game became larger than it was.

The Norsemen, however, were too much for the Lancers, and in the second half, the teams scored a little too much. The game became larger than it was.

Warwick player of the week

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - For Leslie Groves, it was a big week in Arizona as he joined the National Football League for the first time.

Warwick picked up his second contract when he joined the Minnesota Vikings on Monday as he entered negotiations for a new contract. Groves is coming off a career year in Arizona where he was on the roster and played in several games.

"I'm excited to be here," Groves said in a phone interview. "I've been here before, so I know what to expect and I'm looking forward to contributing to the team."
