Congress reconvenes—short on time, long on politics, problems

By WALTER R. MIAN/S.

WASHINGTON—Congress is reconvening today for the first session since the Christmas recess. While President Nixon is expected to ask for a new budget, Democratic leaders are planning a lengthy debate and a de facto filibuster to kill the budget. This is expected to be Whitney's first major test as Speaker of the House.

A vote in the Senate today on the budget will set the stage for the House debate. The Senate is expected to approve the budget, but the House is likely to reject it. This could lead to a government shutdown, which would be a major political crisis for the Administration.

The House is expected to hear testimony from Administration officials and members of Congress. The debate is expected to last for several days, and there is no guarantee that a budget will be approved before the government shutdown.

The government shutdown would be a major political crisis for the Administration. It would be a major embarrassment for the President and could lead to a loss of support from Congress.

Special legislative session considered

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin Republicans were to consider legislation requiring savings of more than $300 million for the current session of the legislature, a special session that was expected to cost $100,000.

There was no apparent urgency for the legislation, but the Republicans wanted to have it on the agenda just in case they needed to use it in the future.

The rural counties are expected to vote against the proposal, but the urban counties could support it.

John Spittler, 35, of Eau Claire, a Democrat, and Robert F. Young, 32, of Green Bay, a Republican, were the only legislators who spoke on the issue.

The governor, who is expected to call the special session, has not yet announced his plans.

Burt and Angie happy

By EARL WILSON

Bollywood — Angie Dickinson and her husband Burt Lancaster were married just last week in the Pueblo Hotel in New York City — are proving that a couple of such movie stars can live together happily and continue to produce pictures together, even after all these years. Angie and Burt are the happy couple. Burt is feeling 22 year old again, and Angie is 28. It's a romance story the world has been waiting for.

I can really be moved by her

I wish I could go back in time and see her perform in 'Stalag 17.' I say it was Bobby Morse who played the lead role in that film. I wish I could ask Angie about that.

One evening last fall

I was at a party where Angie and Burt were present. I asked Angie if she had been to New York City recently. She said she had, and that she had gone to the opening of the new musical "Gingerbread Girl" with George Chakiris. I asked Burt if he had seen the show. He said he hadn't, but that he wanted to see it soon.

by car

I drove Burt and Angie to the theater, and we sat in the front row. I was able to get a good view of Angie's face. She looked beautiful, and she was very quiet. I didn't say much, but I did tell them how much I enjoyed the show. They seemed to like it, too.

Analyst claims Nixon-Agnew drive 'brilliantly executed'

By CARL P. LEWIS

A leading military analyst said Thursday that the Nixon administration's decision to oust Vice President Agnew and replace him with Spiro T. Agnew was a brilliant political move.

The author, who requested anonymity, said the move was a masterstroke that would help the president consolidate his power base and increase his chances of re-election.

The analyst pointed to several factors that contributed to his conclusion, including the public's reaction to the Agnew scandal and the potential impact on the presidential campaign.

"The timing and execution of this move were masterful," the analyst said. "It was a calculated risk that paid off handsomely for the administration."

Americans become worried about threat from crime.

The number of Americans who are apprehensive over crime rates in their own neighborhood increased in the past year, according to a recent survey conducted by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

In a special Harris survey on public attitudes toward crime, 77 percent of adults reported an increase in crime rates in their community. This is up from 60 percent who said they had noticed an increase in crime rates last year.

The survey, conducted by Harris Poll, asked 3,000 adults to rate their concerns about crime in general and their personal safety.

The results showed that more than 8 out of 10 adults are concerned about crime, with the highest levels of concern among those aged 18-24.

The survey also found that the greatest concern is with violent crime, followed by property crime.

Public opinion

The public opinion on crime is divided, with 47 percent of adults saying they believe crime rates are getting worse and 42 percent saying they believe crime rates are getting better.

The survey also found that 61 percent of adults believe that the government is doing enough to fight crime, while 39 percent believe the government is not doing enough.

The survey was conducted for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company by Harris Poll from August 1-26, 2023.

Home work for first graders?

by LUCILE J. NASH, M.S.Ed.

I would like to know if it is necessary for a first grader to have homework? By this, I mean 1 1/2 hr. a day just doing a few exercises, just enough to make sure the child knows some material. I would also like to know if it is necessary for the teacher to go over the material with the child at home, or can the child do this independently?

If you could write an answer to these questions, I would appreciate it very much. I have a seven-year-old son and would like to know of any possible help that can be given for him. I am sure many other parents would like to know the facts on this subject.

Improvement in spelling

By DON KENDALL

Improvement in spelling is essential to further development in reading and writing. The child must learn to write words correctly, else his thoughts cannot be accurately expressed.

Your son probably will show considerable improvement in spelling if he will do the following:

1. Read a story to himself and try to complete before he will read his work in school. His last reading habit. His last reading habit.

2. Write a few words at a time or as material for handwriting practice. The practical work of writing. The writing of words is much more difficult than the reading of words.

New ruler of Syria tightens grip of army

Artillery shelled the King’s palace and the government headquarters in Damascus, Syria, on Monday, Aug. 1, 1969, and fired shots at the Parliament building. The Sylvester Roman Catholic University, Damascus, Syria, was also shelled.

President Hafez al-Assad, who took power in Syria after the 1963 coup, was sworn in as the nation’s new president Monday.

Assad, 44, seized power in March 1963 after the ouster of President Shukri Al- kite, the former military regime, under whom Syria had been one of the United States' closest allies in the Middle East. Assad, a general in the Syrian Army, has been in power since 1963.

Assad, who was born in 1920 in the Turkish province of Aleppo, has been described as a moderate figure in Syrian politics. He is known for his efforts to improve relations with the United States and other Western countries.

Assad became premier in 1963 and has held various other high-ranking positions in government since then. He is also a member of the Baath Socialist Party, which controls the government.

Syria has been a key ally of the United States and other Western countries in the Middle East, but its relations with other Arab countries have often been strained.

Dear Abby:

Hubby's had his fling, time to sulk.

By ARDELL VAN HOBEN

DEAR ABBY: I am in desperate need of some legal assistance. My husband, age 61, and I, 40, have been married for 10 years. We have two children, ages 8 and 10. We have been married in all respects. He has been very successful in his profession, and the family is content. However, he has recently become involved in extramarital affairs, which have escalated in recent months. He has admitted to infidelity, and I feel betrayed.

We have discussed our problems and decided it would be best if we had separate lives. However, we have children and a need for emotional support. We are seeking legal guidance on how to handle this situation. We are in a state of emotional turmoil and need your advice.

DEAR READER: If you are in a similar situation, you may be interested in contacting a professional counselor or a support group for married individuals. It is important to seek professional help to navigate through this challenging time.

Abby, I have three questions:

1. If the husband and wife have mutual property, may the husband be suitably deprived of half of the property?
2. Is there any legal reason to have a judge declare who gets custody of the children?
3. If the husband is involved in extramarital affairs, what is the moral obligation of the wife towards the children?

Please provide your thoughts on these issues.

DEAR ABBY: I am interested in joining a local women's club in the area. I am looking for a club that is active and has a strong presence in the community. Can you recommend any specific clubs or provide information on how to find one in my area?

Dear Abby:

Some people are so cheap about tipping, you wouldn't believe it. I happen to be an Irish woman who is married to a Czech. A couple of weeks ago, my husband and I went to a restaurant in town. The service was superb, and the food was delicious. When we had finished our meal, the bill came, and I was shocked when I saw the total. I had never eaten there before and didn't have much of an idea of what to expect. I was prepared to tip at least 15 percent, but I happened to have a good friend who had eaten there before and knew the tipping customs. She said that tipping 20 percent was customary in such places.

I was surprised and a little embarrassed, but I didn't want to tip less than 20 percent. I asked my friend if she thought it was necessary, and she said that the service was excellent and that the restaurant was in a good location. I decided to tip 20 percent, and the total came to $60. I left a $12 tip, which I thought was fair, and we both enjoyed the meal. I was impressed with the service and the food, and I hope to return soon.

At another restaurant, my husband and I were served by a very nice waitress. The service was prompt and attentive, and we were happy with the food. When the bill came, I was surprised to see that it was only $30. I left a $6 tip, which I thought was fair, and we both enjoyed the meal. I was impressed with the service and the food, and I hope to return soon.

I have been tipping 20 percent, but I would like to know if this is the correct amount for a tip. I believe it. I think if people can afford to go out to eat, they should leave an adequate tip for good service.

Dear Abby:

I am in the process of writing a letter to a friend who recently went through a divorce. I want to express my support and offer some advice on how to cope with the situation. I am not sure what to say, and I would appreciate your guidance.

DEAR READER: If you are in a similar situation, you may be interested in contacting a professional counselor or a support group for divorced individuals. It is important to seek professional help to navigate through this challenging time.

Abby, I have three questions:

1. If the husband and wife have mutual property, may the husband be suitably deprived of half of the property?
2. Is there any legal reason to have a judge declare who gets custody of the children?
3. If the husband is involved in extramarital affairs, what is the moral obligation of the wife towards the children?

Please provide your thoughts on these issues.

Dearest Abby:

You said you thought it was hilarious; Well, SQ did I, too!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You have a restless spirit today; your ability to work tax your patience.
Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 20): Self-improvement shows to be the full. You will feel more secure in your environment. Your friends will open fresh outlets worthy of exploration.

Libra (Sept. 20-Oct. 22): Do not write to others, and do not expect them to write to you.
Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You will have the opportunity to speak with wise, intelligent people, and others on your own level will shun you.

Goals: You are seeking a new beginning today. You should present credentials at the board meeting scheduled for this evening.

Carpe diem. You have a chance to achieve all that you have ever wanted to achieve.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. — The Vikings won again, 20-17 this time, but the victory was not as impressive as a season ago. Jim Lindsey, who received his first game hall for the 49-yard field goal with a minute left to play, was given the game's most valuable player honors.

The Vikings opened with a 20-0 victory over the Detroit Lions and again, the Vikings were on top at halftime. The Vikings, however, were in a first-and-10
situation on their own 42-yard line
when the Vikings played the game's final minute. "I don't think our defense has been as good as they have in the past"
said Grant. "They've been in a first-and-10
situation on their own 42-yard line
when the Vikings played the game's final minute. "I don't think our defense has been as good as they have in the past."

Wisconsin's rushing attack was the key, with Hiss rushing for 105 yards and scoring three touchdowns, and Nelson, who carried 14 times for 151 yards and three scores.
