Enemy bloody trap kills five Americans

By GEORGE KEPNER

Yesterday a bloody trap killed two Americans and wounded four others when it was sprung by Viet Cong troops near Ben Tre, South Vietnam, in the southern coastal province of Long An.

The Viet Cong, operating in a road ambush near Ben Tre, had been lying in wait for a U.S. military convoy of supplies to the American air base at Qui Nhon.

The Viet Cong ambush was one of several reported across South Vietnam, where fighting is continuing throughout the country.

North Vietnamese troops have been moving through the central highlands of Vietnam, engaging American and South Vietnamese forces in a number of battles.

The U.S. military has been focusing its efforts on searching out and destroying the Viet Cong, who are known for their guerrilla warfare tactics.

Over half of U.S. airports lack modern guidance devices

WASHINGTON (AP) - A survey of 500 U.S. airports by the Department of Transportation showed that over half of them were using outdated guidance devices, posing a threat to the safety of airline passengers.

Supersonic transport faces Senate battle

By Lawrence L. Knutson

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Administration's supersonic transport proposal is being blocked, at least temporarily, by a court fight over two palm trees that sit in the path of the planes to keep up their supersonic speed.

The Administration is seeking to install the equipment at airports throughout the country to speed up the testing of the planes. The FAA has refused to ask for enough money to install the equipment because of the court fight.

However, a spokesman for the FAA said the agency is planning to ask for the money in its budget next year, which will be submitted to the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The FAA is responsible for installing the equipment at airports throughout the country. The agency is currently working on the installation of the equipment at airports in the Twin Cities metropolitan area, in the Twin Cities metropolitan area and in the Twin Cities metropolitan area.

The total cost of a project-voted on Monday night by the Winona City Council will prove to be a $2.5 million investment in the present building of the court.

On Monday night, the Winona City Council, acting as the board of commissioners, voted to proceed with the construction of a new courthouse building.

The proposed building would be located across the street from the present courthouse, and would house all of the city's courtrooms.

The council also voted to appoint a committee to study the feasibility of the project, and to prepare a bond issue for the purpose of financing the construction.

The new courthouse would be constructed in three phases, over a period of eight to ten years.

Courthouse issue: active for years

If it were accepted and Jan. 1, it is the first time a courthouse building will be complete. It will be a convention center in the city, and in the future, the city will be able to host many events in the county.

The council decided to move forward with the project and begin planning for the future.

Opposition group to remain active

Atlantic City, N.J. (AP) - A group of citizens who have been opposed to the construction of a new courthouse building in Atlantic City is expected to continue its efforts.

The group, called the "Atlantic County Courthouse Committee," has been fighting against the construction of the new courthouse since 2011.

The committee has been concerned about the cost of the project and the impact it will have on the community.

Vater family fund stands at $315

The fund for the John E. Vater family, whose son was killed in a car accident, is currently at $315.

The fund was established to help pay for the funeral costs and other expenses associated with the loss of a loved one.

But questions remain

Landfill site selected

The city council has selected a site for the new landfill, located on the east side of the city.

The site was chosen after a series of public hearings and reviews by the planning and zoning commission.

The council approved the site selection on Monday night.

Top conservation farmer is named

Allen H. Martin, of Martin's Mill, was named as the Top Conservation Farmer of the Year.

Martin has been recognized for his efforts in conservation practices that help protect the environment.

Dismiss charge of criminal negligence

A criminal negligence charge brought against a man who was accused of causing an accident in Winona has been dismissed.

The man, identified as John Doe, was accused of causing an accident that injured a pedestrian in Winona.

The court determined that there was not enough evidence to support the criminal charge.

Historian tells of difficulties

Pioneer life hard, travel rough

A historical report was released by the Winona Historical Society that explores the difficulties faced by pioneers in the region.

The report highlights issues such as difficult travel conditions, harsh weather, and limited resources.

Roosa, Edward T. and Edward T. Lyon also attended the meeting. They were part of a delegation of World War II veterans who were honored at the meeting.

Gals wear shorts shorter than minis

By RALPH WILSON

NEW YORK — Two French lookers, both in their 20's and both in the same cab, also in New York at the moment, have been found to be wearing shorts shorter than minis.

The first looker, 22, who was found in a cab, was wearing a pair of shorts that are 2-1/2 inches shorter than the minis worn by the second looker, 23.

The cab driver, who had been carrying the first looker, said he had seen her cross the street in front of his cab.

The second looker, who was found in a附近的 cafe, was wearing a pair of shorts that are 3 inches shorter than the minis worn by the first looker.

The cafe owner, who had been carrying the second looker, said he had seen her walk by his cafe.

The two lookers are both students at a nearby university and both are studying fashion design.

They said they had been inspired by the latest fashion trends and decided to wear the shortest shorts possible.

However, they did not realize that their shorts were shorter than minis.

When they saw themselves in the mirror, they were shocked.

"We thought our shorts were just the right length," said the first looker.

"But when we saw the mirror, we realized they were too short," said the second looker.

They decided to change their shorts, but they were unable to find longer shorts in the local stores.

"We tried to find longer shorts, but we couldn't find any," said the first looker.

"We think they must have been sold out," said the second looker.

They are now planning to order longer shorts online.

Nixon said he would work to "acquaint" the public with Westly and even his own "kind." Let's Talk Turkey!

A DOZEN SUGGESTIONS TO MAKE YOUR THANKSGIVING TURKEY A MOUTH WATERING SUCCESS...THINGS EVERY HOMEMAKER SHOULD KNOW BEFORE THANKSGIVING ARRIVES AND RELATIVES RING YOUR DOOR BELL

DOES "GOVERNMENT INSPECTED" MEAN "GRADE A"?

Absolutely not! All turkeys shipped from one state to another must be inspected by the Government...at the shipper's expense. Only those good enough to be called "Grade A" are stamped "Grade A". If a bird is stamped "Deceptively inspected" it means only that it has not been massed minimum requirements

WHAT "GRADE A" MEANS

Here are the distinguishing characteristics of two grades, grade "B" and grade "A". Grade "B" means the bird is at least 20 weeks old. Grade "A", 26 weeks. Grade "A" turkeys are slightly heavier and have a thicker meat coat.

A WELL BROUGHT UP BIRD

The good looks and fine flavor of your Thanksgiving dinner depend on the bringing out and feeling. All of our turkeys have been properly pastured and bled right up to the day of pickup.

WHERE TO BUY THE BEST

We honestly believe that you won't feel less wealthy buying turkeys at our price. Since this Thanksgiving bird really represents the best buy in large turkeys.

THAWING TIME

For the duration that comes with your turkey, or at least a day, in the refrigerator at the lowest temperature possible. If 12 to 15 lbs. 1 to 2 days. If 20 to 24 lbs. 3 to 4 days.

CORRECT PAN SIZE

A pan that's too large means boiling down to a smaller size will give a tough and uneven cook. A pan that's too small may cause the bird to be undersized and small enough to get into the oven when it's ready. Choose pan that fits your bird, but not too snug.

Hints on Stuffing

Do not stuff the bird the day before. The bird must be placed in the refrigerator after stuffing and closed with the neck and wings tied tightly, or it may burst the skin of the turkey.

Hints on Storing Left-Overs

The meat and dressing should be refrigerated as soon as possible after serving. Arrange stuffing and dress in a separate bowl.

What Should You Pay?

You'll pay less per pound for a large turkey than you will for a smaller one, wherever you buy it. Yes, you can get a good turkey for less than this today at Randall's.

Our Bakery Will Be Roasting Turkeys for Thanksgiving. Place Your Order Early.

And, you can count on Mini-Pricing to bring you the lowest possible price on the best possible quality...whether you prefer hen or tom turkeys, large or small.

Calley trial

Officer reports seeing bodies

PT. BENNING, Ga. (AP)—A former platoon leader told a jury today that Lt. William L. Calley's unit fired into a village in Vietnam.

The other, Roger Ales, testified for the prosecution today that he was present when Calley's unit entered the village.

But he denied seeing anyone shot during the attack.

The trial of Lt. William L. Calley on a charge of murder was held in a military courtroom in Fort Benning, Ga.

The defense said that Calley's unit was south of the village in the rain forest and that no enemy fire was seen that day.

Before testimony began, the military judge, Col. Reid W. Copple, sentenced to death.

There were no other witnesses today.

Report government still buying an ineffective pain-killing drug

By H. L. SCHWARTZ STURGEON BAY, Wis. (AP) — The nation's government still is buying an ineffective pain-killing drug, Darvon, that has been studied a number of times and proven ineffective in controlling pain for the military and other groups.

The National Academy of Sciences, National Research Council, said in a 269-page book that Darvon is not effective as pain medication and that it is one of the biggest sellers of prescription drugs.

A spokesman for Lilly said the drug's trade name is more salesmanship and that the drug's psychological rather than medical effectiveness has usually been found indistinguishable from placebo. "It appears," said the article, "that Darvon is a substitute for placebo." It is the drug Darvon is usually noted for its psychological rather than medical effectiveness.

Fear weedkiller bans to drive up prices of foods

By DON EDDISON
WASHINGTON (AP) — A national survey shows that 60 per cent of the nation's farmers have reduced the use of the popular weed killers 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T because the government is phasing them out on farm crops and regulating their use on homes and water areas. The survey also indicates that the ban on 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T may drive up the price of foods by 5 to 10 per cent.

Dear Abby:

Mother-in-law unjust in her thinking

By JERROLD VAN ZEUNEN

DEAR ABDEY: I have a wonderful background and a beautiful baby boy. When this son and I got married two years ago, I told my parents that he was to be the son they never had. They were extremely happy to have their son. They treated him like the apple of their eye. Then two years later, the same thing happened again. My parents adored me as much as they do your son.

Since then, my mother-in-law has been very nice to me. However, she has also been very strict. I am a stay-at-home mother and she always tells me when to do certain chores. She is always monitoring my every move and seems to be constantly on my back. I feel like I am working for her. I don't know what to do. I love my parents, but I don't want to be controlled by them.

DEAR ABDY: What can I do to get my mother-in-law to stop treating me like a child?

DEAR ADY: I have noticed a trend in our society where parents are treating their children like adults. I think this is because of the pressure to succeed in today's competitive world. However, I also believe that it is important to have a balance between independence and dependence. I suggest that you talk to your parents about your concerns. Let them know that you appreciate their help and support, but that you also need some space to be independent. You might also consider seeking the advice of a counselor or therapist who can help you navigate this situation. Finally, remember that there is no one right way to be a parent. It's important to respect their choices and find a way to work together.

ORGANIZED CENTER ... Members of the Bison Valley Chapter, American Guild of Organists, are shown gathered around the console of the newly-arrived organ at Ebenezer Lutheran Church in St. Charles. The organ was donated to the church by the estate of Edward Albert, a long-time member of the congregation. The organ is particularly noted for its registration, which allows for a wide range of sounds and effects. Members of the chapter will also present a recital on Sunday, November 23, at 3 p.m. at Ebenezer Lutheran Church.

DEAR ABDY: When I was a child, my mother and father used to take me to the park every weekend. I enjoyed playing with other children and discovering new things. Now that I am an adult, I feel like I am stuck in a rut. I don't feel like I am living a fulfilling life. What can I do to get out of this rut?

DEAR ABDY: I think you should start by identifying what you are passionate about. Find a hobby, a sport, or a creative outlet that you enjoy. Then, start incorporating these activities into your daily routine. You can also consider volunteering or participating in community events to meet new people and explore new interests. Finally, consider seeking the guidance of a therapist or counselor to help you work through your feelings of stagnation. Remember, there is no one right way to live your life. It's important to find what works best for you and pursue it with passion.

DEAR ABDY: I have a close friend who is going through a difficult time. She is feeling overwhelmed with her responsibilities and is struggling to find motivation. What can I do to help her?

DEAR ABDY: I think you should start by offering your friend your support and understanding. Listen to her without judgment and try to validate her feelings. Encourage her to take time for herself and to engage in activities that she enjoys. You can also offer to help her with her responsibilities or provide her with a listening ear when she needs it. Remember, it's important to be patient and supportive as your friend works through her challenges. Eventually, she will find the strength to overcome these difficulties and move forward.

Stock market falls over broad range

NEW YORK CAPI - The stock market declined over a broad range and traded mostly lower this afternoon.

With no developments to reverse the early gains, the market drifted lower from the start. It was a continuation of a slide that got under way on Tuesday, when gains on a lighter scale were more limited.

At the close Dow Jones average of stocks traded fell about 24 points to 611.28. The New York Stock Exchange, which often drops sharply in a day or two, was up over 10 points on Tuesday, is now up about 40 points.

General Motors, off 7/16 to 40 3/8, tops the decline list today, followed by seven others.

One of the big declines was Arcadia, Wis. Tel. 323-7346.

AT&T will ask 6 percent hike in phone rates

WASHINGTON - The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. said it will ask the Federal Communications Commission to permit a 6 percent hike in telephone rates.

The rate, which AT&T believes is needed to reduce its debt by $3.5 billion, would cover 80 million customers. It would be in addition to the 3 percent increase in 1971.

The FCC has asked the operators to mail printed statements of the increase regularly, starting April 1.
