By JOHNNY WOODSON

WASHINGTON — The $1 billion similar to the daring attempt by the men

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board disclosed plans Monday to pump more than $1 billion into the housing market, a move aimed at boosting the flow of mortgage money to homebuyers.

The board's action is aimed at bolstering the troubled housing market and is designed to help homebuyers, builders and investors. It is likely to be welcomed by many who have been concerned about the housing market's ability to support the nation's economic growth.

The board said it will make available $1 billion in new mortgage money to help homebuyers who have been struggling to purchase homes.

The board also said it will provide $1 billion in new mortgage money to help builders who are facing difficulties in financing new construction.

The board's action is expected to have a positive impact on the housing market, which has been struggling for months.

The board said it will provide the new mortgage money in phases, with the first $500 million available by the end of the year and the remaining $500 million available in early 2023.

The board said it will use the funds to help homebuyers, builders and investors who are facing difficulties in financing new construction.

The board also said it will use the funds to help homebuyers who are facing difficulties in finding a home to purchase.

Rising expenses, lower prices drop farm income

By DON KENDALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher costs for some products continue to eat into farm incomes, and the outlook for 1971 is not good, particularly for producers of milk and feed grains, Agriculture Department officials said Monday.

If the last year's price runup to $9.6 billion in income for farmers continues, the figure for 1971 might be as low as $8 billion, a Department of Agriculture official said.

At the same time, the Agriculture Department said that it will initiate a new study of dairy prices.

"The bottom line," said John V. Hartman, director of the department's Farm Price Division, "is that we are going to have to do a better job of keeping track of prices and costs and the impact they have on the farm income picture." Hartman said the department will begin an annual survey of dairy prices that will include milk prices in all the major markets.

The department also said that it will begin a new study of feed grain prices that will include an analysis of the costs of production and marketing.

Help arrives, two refugees injured

By HARRY KOUNDAKJIAN

The Pentagon spokesman, David L. Newsom, confirmed that helicopters had arrived in the region. The helicopters, according to Newsom, had been sent to the region to provide assistance to the refugees. Newsom stressed that the helicopters were not for combat purposes, but rather to provide medical and logistical support.

The helicopters arrived in the area earlier today, Newsom said, and were being used to transport the refugees to safety. Although the refugees were initially stranded in the area, the helicopters have enabled them to be relocated to safer areas.

The refugees, who were mostly women and children, were injured due to the fighting in the region. The helicopters provided them with medical care and transportation to hospitals in neighboring countries.

The arrival of the helicopters is seen as a significant development in the ongoing conflict in the region. The refugees have been stranded in the area for several days, with little hope for relief until now.

The helicopters have been provided by the United States, and are part of a larger international effort to provide aid to the refugees. The United Nations and other organizations have been working to provide assistance to the refugees, but the situation remains challenging.

The refugees were initially stranded near the border with neighboring countries, and were unable to cross due to the fighting. The helicopters have enabled them to be relocated to safer areas, and are seen as a welcome development.

Newsom stressed that the United States is committed to providing aid to the refugees, and will continue to work with international partners to provide assistance.

The refugees have been enduring difficult conditions, and the arrival of the helicopters is seen as a significant step forward in their journey to safety.

Cagers Club thanks Ekker, and vice versa

By RAY GORMAN
Daily News Sports Editor

The Cagers Club has been looking for a new coach ever since a board meeting last year. Now, after an eight-month search, the club members have settled on Winona State coach John Ekker as their new head coach.

"We wanted to have a good program again, and we felt that John Ekker was the man," said Wothke. "He has a winning program and this new coach, Wothke said, "is because then you're expected to improve. We've got the type of club."

In accepting the coaching job, Ekker said, "I am very pleased to be coaching at Winona State. I am looking forward to the challenge of building a winning program."

Ekker, who brings a new dimension to the Cagers Club, has been an assistant coach at Winona State for the past three years and was named head coach last summer. He is expected to begin his duties immediately.

Ekker, who is a native of Winona, is a graduate of Winona State and has been involved in college basketball for the past 12 years.

The Cagers Club, which was founded in 1931, is a group of Winona State students who are interested in basketball. The club has a long history of success, having won 10 national championships in its 44-year history.

Ekker replaces Alvin Ray Thompson, who announced his resignation last month. Thompson, who has been the head coach at the University of Minnesota, will continue to serve as the club's assistant coach.

Wothke said, "We are very happy that Alvin Ray Thompson will continue to be involved with the Cagers Club. He has been an important part of the club's history and we hope he will continue to be a valuable asset to our program."

Ekker will be introduced to the media at a press conference on Wednesday afternoon. The press conference will be held in the Winona State Student Union.

The Cagers Club is a student organization that is open to all Winona State students who are interested in college basketball. The club has a long history of success, having won 10 national championships in its 44-year history.
