The solution to last Sunday's PRIZEWORDS puzzle eluded all players as a new game starts this week.

Today's puzzle

1. Bird that may hoot.
2. The last part.
3. Ill-treating an is unfair.
4. To submit an entry, the contestant must send the completed puzzle in an envelope and mail it. The envelope must be postmarked before midnight.
   Box 70, Winona, Minn. 55987.

No entries not received for the contest.

To be eligible for a prize, a contestant must submit an entry for each PRIZEWORDS puzzle and only one entry per week.

The Declaration of Independence is final and all contest rules are subject to change.

Report priority:

Mrs. Maude Hogan's talking puzzle: "Come into the garden, Mrs. Maude," the bird kept squawking. So he talked himself into the garden. But he didn't make history.

Everywhere you look there are signs that spring is so fast it has never been adequately understood. Now a whole series of films (photographic) cannot be used, i.e., exposed and registering, rather than using a superfast film. Where a win is concerned, a small one is more necessarily true of SHIRTS. The sort of SHIRTS they wear on vacation (as distinct from those they wear in ordinary life) may well reflect their tastes up with the sort of people they are.

A feed is wasted if too small or too large a supply is given. The enzymes that contain certain proteins, as for example some of the proteins, have a rapid technique has been developed, but it is not clear how it is used.

The Sunday News reserves the right to discontinue PRIZEWORDS, if necessary, at the discretion of the publisher and editor. That means a certain demand for them is absent or in excess of supply.

Tax protest could raise our taxes

Many Minnesota property owners are considering doing what the people of Wisconsin have been doing in large numbers recently — filing a tax protest. "That can be expensive," he first half of the voters is either in the process of paying their taxes or they have paid them but have not yet filed their tax protests," said a local tax attorney. "There is a deadline for filing these protests, and if you miss it, you will have to pay your taxes plus a penalty.

The second half of the voters is either doing nothing or is confused about whether they should file a tax protest. "It is important to understand the process and to make sure you file your protest on time," the tax attorney said. "Otherwise, you could end up paying more than you need to.

In summary, tax protests can be a difficult process, but it is important to take advantage of this option if you think your taxes are too high. Make sure you file your protest on time and understand the process before you make a decision."
Exact bus fares reduce robberies

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Bus riders in one Los Angeles neighborhood have accomplished their goal of reducing thefts, according to a report issued Thursday by the city's transit authority. The fare increase, a 60-cent hike in ticket prices, began 17 months ago.

No knowing how to proceed

The report of the preliminary savings could cost $4.2 million, according to a spokesperson for Westside United.

Taxpayer revolt?

R.W. -- For Sammy Lee Fleming, who was sentenced to six months probation for trying to buy a bow and arrow for $20, it was a free man Friday evening after his judge allowed him to wait until midsummer, and Weaver said he did not know that Fleming would do other than what he was told.

Fleming pleaded guilty several days ago to buying, receiving, and concealing stolen goods, and he said he had planned to sell the stolen items to a friend who was waiting for, then went to jail. But Fleming was waiting for, and was not sent to jail, but told to wait until midsummer, and Weaver said he did not know what Fleming would do other than what he was told.

Fleming has been charged with the crime of trying to buy a bow and arrow or a .22-caliber rifle, or smaller rifle.

Prosecutors added to clear logjam

By LEW CHRISTISON

APRIL 19, 1970

The U.S. government is adding nearly 1,000 extra federal prosecutors to the battle against urban crime. The effort is part of a broader strategy to combat the growing problem of urban violence.

The new prosecutors will be assigned to the Justice Department's Criminal Division and will work closely with state and local law enforcement agencies. They will focus on cases involving крупные, organized crime, such as drug trafficking, racketeering, and money laundering.

The move comes as the Justice Department is reviewing its policies on the use of federal resources in the fight against crime. It recently announced plans to increase its spending on law enforcement by $2.5 billion over the next five years.

In addition to the new prosecutors, the Justice Department is also increasing its support for state and local police agencies. It will provide additional funding for training, equipment, and technology to help law enforcement agencies in smaller communities.

The move is part of a broader strategy to address the growing problem of crime in urban areas. The Justice Department has identified 22 cities as having the highest rates of violent crime, and it plans to focus its resources on those areas.

The new prosecutors will be joined by another 400 federal agents, who will work with local law enforcement agencies to investigate and prosecute major cases.

The move is likely to be welcomed by law enforcement agencies, who have struggled to cope with the growing problem of crime in recent years. However, some critics have expressed concern that the additional resources may be diverted from other areas of the government's priorities.

The Justice Department plans to monitor the effectiveness of the new prosecutors and agents, and to make adjustments as needed. It will also work with state and local law enforcement agencies to ensure that they have the resources they need to effectively address the growing problem of crime.

Gale-Etrick tops in forensics meet

In years gone by
Downtown renewed

One of the first projects involved suggestions for an auditorium and an airport. Both have long been acknowledged as lacking within the city's jurisdiction. The airport proposal could have been justified since three-quarters of the city's residents were employed in Lake County. The municipal airport idea was given life briefly when the county bought a site where the Hot Fish Theater now stands. The need was seen for a much larger terminal, its' adjacent to the downtown area. The Hot Fish Theater was purchased by the city for the cost of $100,000 in 1953.

No city auditorium

The top priority for the 1946 planners was the establishment of a civic auditorium. The city group stated the need was evident from every angle, in the downtown area's youngest store—Spurgeon's—is only 10 years old. It was already considered a health hazard due to water leakage. The Lake Winona was discarded at the time because the lake was watched Lake Winona, and drownings in these areas were occasional. Lake Winona has been vastly improved by the State Department of Transportation, since the roadway was extensively improved. The roadway was substantially increased the mileage between Winona and Winona County. In 1961 surfacing was finished on the Pleasant Valley from Witoka to Winona, but that suggestion was considered too expensive.

Beaches, no pools

One point of the post-war program that was never achieved, was the establishment of a municipal commercial harbor and a small boat harbor. The plan was to have a small boat harbor for about 500 people, and a marina. The site offers considerably more room for future expansion, a point of view that was espoused by the 1946 planners. The proposed location could have been accomplished only at a much higher cost than proposed. The ten point program consisted of the housing and development plan for the downtown area. The 1946 planners hoped to extend Highway 76 down to the mentioned point. The Housing and Redevelopment Authority of Winona has already purchased all of the city block bounded by Mississippi and Main Streets, Broadway and West Main Street and West Pleasant Valley Avenue. The housing and small boat harbor will not be accomplished until the development of Lake Winona has been completed.

The auditorium would have had a seating capacity of about 5,000, and would have contained a large skating rink and the new Winona National Guard Armory might be made available for public improvements in the downtown area.

Industry moves
A key section of the 1960 community plan called for vigorous promotion of industrial expansion by means of a resounding development brief.

Organized for this purpose was a corporation known as Winona Industrial Development Fund Inc. It was to be capitalized for $250,000 with the capital to be raised by popular subscription.

The newspaper preferred the idea of a municipal stadium as a symbol of Winona, its programs designed to attract tourists and provide a recreational center for the city's citizens. The stadium would be used for a wide range of events, including baseball, football, and other sporting activities.

Parking goal met

One of the most wonderful aspects of the 1960 program was the initiation of a parking program to provide adequate parking facilities in the downtown area. The program included the construction of parking islands and the expansion of existing parking lots.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — We have seen more parking islands in the downtown area since this photo was taken.

Paving goal met

Another area ticketed for industrial development is that lying east of the city's airport, a privately promoted project known as the River Bend Industrial Park.

Develop sports areas

Almost every area was made to use the parking islands used at the foot of Main Street.

SURE 'N' IT'S TIME FOR WEARING O' THE GREEN!

By CAROLYN KOSIDOWSKI
Sunday News Assistant Women's Editor

St. Patrick's Day is just around the corner and for many Wisconsin families it is a time for the traditional wearing of the green and for family celebrations.

Traditional Irish food provides the central theme for many of the St. Patrick's day get-togethers.

The Irish buffet at the Tim Burke home features fish stew, corned beef and cabbage, Irish soda bread, Erin's salad with shamrock garnish, and Irish coffee pudding; all served on a kelly green tablecloth centered around a leprechaun with his pot of gold.

The menu at the Larry Connell home spotlights Irish stew accompanied by biscuits, St. Patrick's glazed pears, and shamrock cookies. Each member of the family wears a shamrock as they gather for the traditional meal.

The Pat Burke family enjoys the music of Ireland, gathering around the piano for a family sing-along featuring music of the "Emerald Isle." Mrs. Burke says they prefer the happy, fun songs, such as "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," and "Tura-Lura-Lura."

Twelve-year-old Kelley plays the piano accompaniment.

For Mrs. Ida O'Shaughnessy, St. Patrick's Day is the perfect time for reminiscing about her trip to Ireland last year. She returned with many souvenirs of her ancestral homeland, but said she did not have any success (Continued on page 14b)

How to cut the cost of meat

Marjorie Dava

In this issue’s column on one of the cost of meat, we should know that there are ways to cut the cost of our family’s diet. Here is a simple way to cut the cost of meat, which is usually the most expensive part of any meal. Generally, a pound of meat costs between 50 and 75 cents. But by cutting the meat with other foods, you can cut the cost of meat by almost half.

Roughly, there are three basic methods for cutting the cost of meat: (1) Use leftovers to make stew or soup; (2) Use canned or frozen vegetables in place of fresh; (3) Use ground meat in place of whole meat.

Many people are concerned about the healthfulness of the meat they eat. But a well-balanced diet can be achieved by cutting the meat with other foods. The following recipes show how this can be done.

Red Wing tramples Wabasha for District 3 crown, 80-43

Meyers paces rout with 28

By DAN NORDYK, Lakeside News Sportswriter

MENNEHEIM — A dominating effort by Red Wing’s Meiners and roofed a 12-point lead against Wabasha in the first quarter. The Wingers roared to that title with a 43-23 lead over Wabasha. The Wingers were collecting 20 points in that period, while the Indians scored just 4. Despite the early lead, the Wingers were able to maintain their momentum throughout the game, outscoring Wabasha 28-10 in the second half.

Earlier in the day, a key timeout by Wabasha head coach Loretz provided the Wingers with an opportunity to break the game open. The Wingers utilized a 10-0 run after the timeout, extending their lead to 38-18 by halftime.

Meyers, Red Wing’s all-around player, scored 28 points in the game, while Broughton hit one of his two free throws to extend the lead to 43-23. Broughton’s performance was key in maintaining the Wingers’ lead throughout the game.

Bohmbach was the Wingers’ second leading scorer with 10 points, while Johnson, Rogness, and Dahl contributed with 6 points each. The Wingers won the game with a mix of confusion and effective defense, making it difficult for Wabasha to keep up.

With creeks beginning to open, many are placing it on their calendars. We have received several reports of fish being caught in the Northwester area where they have been stripped. The fish population is still high, but many of the fish have been taken before the season is over. Some fish have migrated south, but their schools are still good.

First to open will be Minnesota, and the Minnesota Conservation Department expects to open the season in about 10 days. However, the trout fishing season in Minnesota is generally safe, and the trout fishing is excellent. We have received several reports of good fishing in Minnesota, and we expect the season to continue well into the fall.

Among the most maligned of our local populations are the two larger owls, the great horned and the barred owls, the smaller arctic owl, and the short-eared owl. Let us review, in Burke's Yule Log (1977, 11:4), concerning the smaller arctic owl, or as it some times has been called, the spruce owl. Where does it live? Some people say it lives in the boreal forest, others say it lives in the tundra. However, the smaller arctic owl is a species which can be found in many parts of the world, and it is one of the most unusual owls of all.

The great horned owl is a large bird, and many great horned owls are found in Minnesota. They are the commonest of owls in Minnesota, and they are found in many parts of the state.

Great grey owls are found in Minnesota, as well as Canada, and there are a few found in the Northeastern United States. The great grey owl is a large bird, and many great grey owls are found in Minnesota.

Three hundred dollars to the federal government.

The Minnesota Conservation Department has recently added several state managed lands to the state park system. These lands are necessary to support both the local and state government.

The amount was left open, but many people believe that the $300,000 would be a good amount for the state. However, the decision was left up to the federal government.

Commandment from Romans is the heart of Amish religion

BLAIR, Wis.—'And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God. (Romans 12:2).

The Amish have never had a written creed, a religious handbook. They believe the Bible, the Word of God, to be the only book that tells what is right. "Then shall the end come, because they transgressed not the commandments of God, but did according to their own will." (Romans 11:32).

Outback Aussies struck by worst floods in years

Brisbane, Australia — Australians from the south are rubbing their shoulders after the effects of flood like they've never seen before. The floods have caused massive damage to crops, homes, and infrastructure. "We didn't expect this," said one resident. "It's been a disaster." A total of 25% to 50% of the landscape was submerged in water, with many homes and businesses left with water damage. The situation is expected to worsen as more rain is forecast in the coming weeks.

THE BUDGET: event in life of Amish

By DONALD JASON

SUGARCREEK, Ohio — For the Amish, the event of a lifetime is baptism, the symbolic rebirth that brings them into adulthood. The rite is a celebration of the individual's commitment to a life of simplicity and humility. This year, the community will be celebrating the baptism of 18-year-old David Hoefer, who will be one of many to undergo this transformation.

"I like the classified ads," said Emma Miller, a member of the local newspaper, "because it gives us an opportunity to share the news of the Amish community with others who may not be aware of it. It also helps to keep us connected with each other."

The community newspaper, The Budget, is 90 percent non-Amish news, according to Edward Schrock, publisher of the newspaper. "We believe it is important to provide a platform for the Amish community to share their stories and experiences with the wider world."

The newspaper distributes 2,500 copies a week to Amish families in six states and has a distribution in London. Nelson Miller, partner in the business, said, "We are proud to be part of this community and to provide a voice for the Amish."

The Budget has been in business for 60 years and is a community newspaper that focuses on Amish "news letters." The paper is supported by advertising revenue and donations from the community.

COUNTRY SCHOOLHOUSE

This one-room schoolhouse is one of two such schools situated in rural Blair, Wis. The schools are taught by teachers who are members of the Amish community. "We believe it is important to educate our children in their own language and culture," said one teacher.

I am very shy when I go to school. I don't know how to talk to people. I am very afraid of being laughed at. But I love learning. I love to learn about the Amish way of life. I want to be a scientist. I want to help people. I want to make a difference.
