Nixon will rule on Calley case

San Clemente, Calif. — President Nixon has decided to make the final decision for the military in the case of Lt. William Calley Jr., who is accused of murder in the My Lai massacre.

The administration explained that the president has decided that he will rule on the case, rather than allow a military court to do so, because the administration believes that the administration has a right to decide such matters. The administration also explained that the president has decided to rule on the case because the president believes that the president has a duty to protect the security of the United States.

Birds back pigeon control

The eradication of the wild pigeons living near down-town Minneapolis and St. Paul and across the Mississippi River from this town is to begin. Those birds are the pests that, for years, have been a menace to the health of the people of the city. The great mass of them have been driven away from the city by the use of the Paralytic A-500. The full plan of the eradication campaign will involve the use of dogs and other animals to kill the pigeons. It is the hope of the city that this plan will be successful in reducing the pigeon population to a point where they will no longer be a menace to the health of the people of the city.

Poor, poor Calley

If the St. Paul City Council passes a resolution this week, the name of the city will be changed to St. Paul City. This change will be made in the hopes of attracting more business to the city. The present name of the city is St. Paul, and many people in the city believe that the name is not as well known as it should be. The council believes that the name of the city should be changed to St. Paul City in order to attract more business to the city.

Westmoreland defends the conviction

Army Chief of Staff William C. Westmoreland, who has been in Vietnam for the past three years, said in response to the conviction of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. for the murder of civilians at My Lai, 'This is the most difficult role that an American soldier has ever faced. It is an absurd allegation. It is not true that we are guilty of My Lai.'

Westmoreland said that in any civilian war, the result of bad leadership. 'I believe, in the final analysis, the leadership of all the leaders - ours and theirs - is responsible for the conduct of the war.'

Wallace visits with Calley, speaks at rally

Having presided over the acquittal of Calley for the massacre at My Lai, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace said: 'I believe, in the final analysis, the leadership of all the leaders - ours and theirs - is responsible for the conduct of the war.'

Wallace went on to say, 'The result of the Calley trial is not the result of bad leadership. It is the result of bad leadership.'

In his own way, Calley knew —

American people won't turn back

Over the years, Calley has been the subject of much controversy. His trial and conviction have sparked widespread debate about the role of leaders in times of war.

In his own way, Calley knew that American people won't turn back. His conviction was met with widespread protest and support. Many Americans felt that his trial was a step towards justice.

In the end, Calley was acquitted, allowing him to return to his family and pursue a new life. His story serves as a reminder of the importance of leadership and accountability in times of war.

$1.5 billion bill on school desegregation is accepted

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House of Representatives on Friday agreed to send to President Nixon $7.5 billion for school desegregation that will pay the cost for developing integrated schools rather than used to develop quality, in-school, anti-segregation programs.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said the money is the sum asked for by the President for programs to help integrate schools rather than used to develop quality programs for in-school integration.

WASHINGTON (AP) - A proposed 11,000-ton aircraft carrier, already scheduled to be the highest priced weapon to enter the fleet, is looking for a cost record of at least $683 million. July, J. A. C. B., president of naval operations, has told Congress that waiting delays in starting construction of the nation's fifth supercarrier and carrier will add about $30 million to its cost. If all goes well, the Navy and the contract will be signed by July.

The Navy figures to lose its support on this second seven-year project unless the price has been considerably cut, but it is difficult to talk about the cost unless one included because the figures might arouse congressional opposition.

Another major variation in the same plans, already under way, is the addition of nuclear propulsion power. Also, the Navy plans to include the carrier with new equipment and munitions. If the carrier is sold at $683 million, it may come at about $700 million.

The Eisenhower, which was expected to cost $500 million, a sum that might raise still another issue.

So the three Ninth fleet carriers, all nuclear-powered ships designed to operate for 30 years and providing the backbone of the force, are expected to cost $1.2 billion. The Navy is still willing to complete the Eisenhower, but, after that, a new carrier will be constructed for about $625 million. The carrier would cost $640 million.

It is estimated that the total cost of the first two carriers will exceed the cost of the pioneer nuclear Farrier Enterprise, a $474 million vessel.

The cost of the third is headed for a cost of $625 million in 1977, is now listed at $566 million. The Eisenhower, which was to cost $460 million, a sum that might be Impossible

Easter parade? Keep things simple

By MADELEINE BARNHARDT

NEW YORK — The Easter parade is becoming more of a social function than a public event. The Easter Sunday walk in black, white and blue is giving way to a more select and excusive event. Many of the participants are being invited, rather than simply parading down the main streets of the city. The idea is to promote black and white styles that will sell in the retail market. The parade is also a fashion show and a way to promote the latest styles.

The Easter theme is one of simplicity and elegance. The outfits feature fitted waists, self-covered buttons, navy and blue stripes, and little brass buttons. The trend is to emphasize understatement and elegance.

The mood is light, fresh and a variety of sales reports indicate a general upswing in the retail market. The informal-wear trend has diminished in recent years. The Easter parade is transitioning into a more casual custom. More and more people are participating in the parade, and it is becoming more popular in men's clothing as well as children's clothing. Polyester is being featured in another season, bigger and better than last spring. Polyester styling is again popular, but it is riper now.

A dress-up parade with hor red, white and blue accents is being offered. There is a variety of sales, but the Easter selling season is declining, most merchants believe. The dress-up parade is expected to increase consumer buying and to prepare for the Easter parade with a dash of red, white and blue.

The half belt may be tied at the front or back, but it seems to be the best fit. It is nävy blue with a crisp white yoke topped with three red stars and a red stripe. These following trends already evident in retailing are expected to be important in the Easter selling period.

Pricing will be an important factor, with many stores offering special sales and discounts. The informal-wear trend is also expected to increase consumer buying.

COMFORT GOES A LONG WAY

By NORA S. CLEVELEND

The comfort theme is one of simplicity and elegance. The outfit features a square gathered neckline and the zipper closing. The half belt dress is a sign of the best premium fabric. PRINTS IN CONTRAST

Extremely different prints, yet red, white and blue accents are created. The striking dress modeled by Mrs. Kenneth Maddux, 467 Liberty St., and her children, prepare for the Easter parade with a dash of red, white and blue. Mrs. Maddux enjoys the company of a famous designer and is well aware that dresses at the trendy are the only detail of the market which can compete with a basic price and extra-hand crafted dress. Dear Abby:

He wants to graduate from marriage

By ABRAM FAY HURBEN

Dear Abby: My husband just told me he doesn’t love me. He is thinking of leaving me. I blame myself because I am not the perfect wife he wants. Can you help me? I am 35 and have two children, a graduate student and a half-helped gardener. I am not happy in our life and I want to end it.

Sincerely, Mrs. Turner

Dear Mrs. Turner:

I can understand why you feel this way. It is not unusual for people to experience a change in their feelings for their partner over time. It is important to communicate your feelings openly and honestly with your husband. He may not have realized how you were feeling and may be able to understand and support you better if you share your thoughts and concerns with him.

As you navigate this difficult time, it may be helpful to seek support from a trusted friend, a counselor, or a support group. Remember, it is important to take care of yourself emotionally, physically, and financially. You may also consider consulting with a legal professional to discuss your options.

Sincerely,

Abby

The Cincinnati Reds are back in the NL West to stay.

Tommy Helms, the acrobatic second baseman, returned Sunday to the Reds' lineup and provided a spark in a 5-1 win over San Diego. Helms had been out since July 14 with a sprained ankle.

Helms was one of several key players who returned to the Reds' lineup Sunday. Ken Griffey Jr. had missed the previous two games with a strained right calf, and Tony Cloninger was back from a 10-day stint on the disabled list with a strained left hamstring.

Expansion plans presented to Ma-Cal Grove

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A study for expansion of the American Football League is presented to the Ma-Cal Grove Feldmann, who heads the AFL's expansion committee.

The study, which includes a financial feasibility analysis and a proposed schedule for the expansion teams, was presented to Feldmann during a meeting at the AFL's headquarters in New York.

The AFL has been exploring the possibility of expanding to a 14-team league, with two teams from Canada joining the 12 teams currently playing in the United States.

Don Cierzan rips 712 honor count

"I've had the time of my life," Cierzan said. "I've been awed by the support of our loyal fans and the hard work of our team."

Cierzan, a native of Winona, Minnesota, has been a star on the bowling team for the past four years, consistently leading the team in scoring. This season, he has averaged 234 pins per game, setting a new personal best.

With the victory, Cierzan now has a total of 6,612 pins over the course of his career, making him the all-time leading scorer in Winona State history. His achievement has been recognized by the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, who named him the Male Bowler of the Year.

Cierzan's outstanding performance this season has also earned him a scholarship to the National Bowling Team, where he will represent the United States in international competitions.

"I'm grateful for the support of my family and the coaching staff," Cierzan said. "This achievement is a testament to the hard work and dedication of everyone involved in our bowling program."

Cierzan's success has been a source of pride for the Winona State community, and his contributions to the team have been invaluable. With this accomplishment, Cierzan has set a new standard for excellence in the sport of bowling, inspiring future generations of bowlers to strive for greatness.

TROUT
Things look good for the May 1 opener
By LEVY RIVES
Milwaukee Journal

Although opening day is still nearly a month away, trout fishing prospects in Southeastern Minnesota have good news in store.

This is the opinion of Richard Sternberg, Minnesota DNR's district fisheries supervisor, after an early inspection trip.

"There have been no drought conditions so far and the ice has moved from the main streams," said Sternberg, noting that trout plants had been washed out and "were strong, healthy and full of life.

Seventy, under the state's new trout management program, is one of two trout biologist managing the Southeastern Minnesota area. He-covered Goodhue, Wabasha and Waseca counties, Goodhue and Wabasha counties are under the jurisdiction of Sternberg and his deputy, Arvin Ringe.

Sternberg reported that all trout planted in his area this year will come from the Crystal Springs rearing pond. "The fish will be distributed in three lots, the division done at Crystal Springs," Sternberg said.

Fish planted in Goodhue's area will come from Crystal Springs. Some will be brown trout, but some brown trout will be planted in large, spring-fed creeks in Hines County. Sternberg feels that wild fish from the creeks will be released if they are not good enough for plant.

"Planting some of these as a way of life," Sternberg said, noting that expanded planting of the brown trout will be under consideration.

Sternberg also feels that it might be possible to improve many of the smaller streams in his district. He will study improvement possibilities and suggest work that might be done.

He also hopes the legislators will provide Crystal Springs with a two-track fishing project, a trout stream where winter conditions could make steelhead possible in the spring.

Steelhead is also a problem of wild planting, the system favored by years by a large percentage of fishermen but opposed by state fisheries officials on its cost and impracticality.

"We will plan more large plants in the fall," Sternberg said. "We will plan to plant more plants than necessary to make sure we have enough for the season. These are the trout distribution woes.

"We will plan to plant more brown trout this year because the department is trying to give the public a better opportunity to have the trout fishing prospects in Southeastern Minnesota look good for the" opening day. "Those who have planted are not as good as they will be next year, and this year will come from the Crystal Springs rearing pond. The plant will use four-wheel drive vehicles, but some" "will be planted in large, spring-fed creeks in Hines County. Sternberg feels that wild fish from the creeks will be released if they are not good enough for plant.

Peter Rabbit cupcakes are tasty Easter fare

Peter Rabbit cupcakes have become the favorite dessert for Easter. They are easy to make, and the cupcakes themselves are moist and delicious. The story of Peter Rabbit can be used to engage children during the baking process.

Recipe:

Orange-Coconut Frosting

- 1 cup packed brown sugar
- 1\% teaspoon baking powder
- \% teaspoon vanilla
- \% cup milk

Coconut Cupcakes

- 1\% cup peanut butter
- 2 eggs
- \% cup milk
- 1% teaspoon salt
- \% cup grated orange peel

Instructions:

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease or line cupcake tins.
2. In a mixing bowl, cream together 1 cup packed brown sugar, 1\% teaspoon baking powder, \% teaspoon vanilla, and 1% teaspoon salt. Gradually add \% cup milk, mixing after each addition. Sift together 1 cup flour, baking powder and \% cup grated orange peel. The orange flavor complements the coconut nicely. Mix in flour mixture with nuts.

Tax processing center measures peaks, valleys

Virtually no one is uninter-rested in knowing whether they have overpaid or underpaid their taxes. In fact, some probably worry more about it than they otherwise do. But news of the hike in individual income taxes can be distressing.

The problem is that tax-returns in the state of Minnesota are processed by the Minnesota Department of Taxation. If you live in Minnesota, this may seem a necessity. If you live out-of-state, this may seem to many a waste of time.

But the state’s tax service is provided by the local office of the Minnesota Department of Taxation. Now that’s not true for everyone. In the state of Minnesota, the tax-returns are processed by three different local offices.

The very first time a tax-return is processed, it is submitted to the Rosemont Building in St. Paul which is the main one. The tax-return is then processed by the same office, and the process is repeated.

The process is repeated
and the tax return is processed again until the tax return is processed. This is true for everyone. In the

Two regional planning bills sent to Senate
ST. PAUL (AP) — Two bills designed to integrate local planning and regional politics gained Senate support Thursday when the Committee on Local Government and Planning ordered the bills favorably. The action, according to a source who predicted the Senate would be asked to vote on the two measures in the next few days, was sparked by reports that local governments were being asked to hire consultants to help them with planning. The Senate committee, under the leadership of Sen. John Tracy Anderson, DFL-Springfield, and Sen. John Thompson, DFL-Hartford, is expected to take action on the legislation this week.

The source also said that the committee would seek support for the bills and, if not, would ask the Senate to send them back to the Senate for further action. The Senate committee is expected to hear testimony on the bills in the next few days.
