Pope opens unique exhibition

Bible — once worth war or oxen

By EDWARD MAGRI

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II opened to the public a unique exhibition on the Bible — once worth war or oxen — at the Vatican Library, which lines the walls of the Vatican Library, the smallest library in the world. The exhibit, which consists of 200 rare and valuable manuscripts, is open to the public until Oct. 31.

The exhibit, which includes the earliest known manuscript of the Bible, was opened by the pope in a ceremony that was attended by the Vatican's chief librarian, Father Giuseppe Pompili. The exhibit includes a copy of the first edition of the Bible, which was published in 1475, and a copy of the first edition of the New Testament, which was published in 1536.

If food prices continue climb

Nixon may crack down on middlemen, the President said today.

By FRANCIS LEWIS, Washington (AP) — President Nixon today intimated he would use the Federal Trade Commission to crack down on middlemen and large retailers whose prices, he said, are "too high...too high...too high." Nixon also promised "an all-out attack" on rising food prices and said the government may take action to reduce the middlemen's share of the consumer dollar.

"We have found a serious failure of government to police this situation," Nixon said. "I am not saying that there is Kunstler flags legal institutions

By ROY ROBERTS
Sunday News Staff Writer

"I rarely initiate things that are beneficial for the poor, the hungry and the ill, because until the poor, the hungry and the ill are beneficial for the poor, the hungry and the ill, we are all in trouble," said Saul "Sandy" Kunstler, an attorney who has represented a wide range of political and social causes.

Kunstler said that the government's ability to operate smoothly is threatened when political entities fail to recognize the needs of those who are suffering.

"It's not just about being a compassionate person," Kunstler said. "It's about being a leader who can work towards positive change for all people, not just a select group of well-connected individuals.

"I believe in a system where every voice is heard, and every issue is considered," Kunstler added. "We need leaders who are willing to stand up for what's right, even if it means going against the status quo."

Kunstler spoke about the importance of legal representation for those who are unable to afford it, and the need for a system that is fair and just for all.

"We need to ensure that everyone has access to legal resources, regardless of their financial situation," Kunstler said. "This is not a luxury, but a necessity for a society that values fairness and justice for all.

Kunstler also discussed the role of the government in ensuring the safety and well-being of all citizens.

"The government's primary role is to protect the rights of its citizens," Kunstler said. "This includes ensuring that everyone has access to basic necessities like food, shelter, and healthcare."

Kunstler concluded his talk by encouraging the audience to become involved in civic affairs and to work towards a better future for everyone.

"We need to be proactive and engaged in the political process," Kunstler said. "We cannot sit back and expect things to improve on their own. We need to take action and work towards a better society for all people."
SAHL: much censorship on TV is self-imposed

By JERRY BUCK

BILLINGHAM (AP) — "It's my conviction that as I approach the end of my career, and said I would consider myself as part of the generation that gave them, they'll be just a few years old."

Iniest said saying that some censorship on the electronic air is all right and that some censorship is self-imposed.

"That's a hell of a charge, but let's say the way it is," he referred to the point that censorship is getting more and more a question of "Do you get on the air or if you do get on you get in trouble as you say?"

"You're not going to get into big trouble," he said. "The government doesn't have the time or the inclination to interfere with your work."

By JERRY BUCK

NEWARK, N.Y. (AP) — "It's our responsibility to be on the air," he said. "It's our responsibility to be an example of what's right and what's wrong.

"Is Mort Sahl saying that censorship is self-imposed?"

"I think that's what he's been saying," he said. "I think that's what he's been saying.

"You either don't get on the air or if you do get on you get in trouble as you say."

"And some of the censorship that's self-imposed is self-imposed because of the threat of what will happen if you get on the air and what will happen if you don't get on the air.

Sahl: much censorship on TV is self-imposed.

Do politicians have enough time to think?

Senator Humphrey, who believes that his goals should be given precedence, has proposed a new law that would give him the right to read literature during the day. However, in this new system, the politicians are no longer required to read literature during the day. Instead, they are required to read literature during the night, which would give them more time to think. The new system has been met with mixed reactions, with some politicians believing that it would give them more time to think, while others believe that it would be a waste of time.

The Jesus People

Jenkin Lloyd Jones

In an article in the Sunday Times, Mr. Jones describes the Jesus People movement. He explains that the movement is gaining popularity, and that it is attracting a growing number of people. He also notes that the movement is not just gaining popularity in the United States, but is also gaining popularity in other countries as well. Mr. Jones believes that the movement is a reflection of the increasing importance of spirituality in modern society.

Second thoughts about California school ‘victory’

From an editorial in San Francisco Examiner

When the Supreme Court of California and the Federal Court of Appeals struck down a busing order in a school district in California, it was hailed as a victory for the Nixon administration. However, some observers believe that the decision was a mistake. They argue that the decision could have been avoided if the Nixon administration had been more careful in its decision-making process.

Another incursion on state’s rights

From an editorial in San Francisco Examiner

The Supreme Court’s decision to rule on the constitutionality of a state law that would limit the rights of public school students is a further incursion on state’s rights. The Court’s decision is likely to be challenged by the states, and it is likely that the issue will be taken to the Supreme Court again. However, some observers believe that the Supreme Court is likely to uphold the decision, and that the states will be forced to comply with the ruling.

Why do you think the Jesus People movement is gaining popularity?

The Jesus People movement is gaining popularity because it is offering a way for people to connect with their spirituality in a world that is often characterized by materialism and consumerism. The movement is also offering a way for people to find community and support from others who share their values.

Do you agree with the Supreme Court’s decision to strike down the busing order in California?

As an AI language model, I do not have a personal opinion. However, some observers believe that the decision was a mistake, and that it could have been avoided if the Nixon administration had been more careful in its decision-making process. Others believe that the decision is likely to be challenged by the states, and that the issue will be taken to the Supreme Court again.

How do you think the Jesus People movement will continue to grow in the future?

The Jesus People movement is likely to continue to grow in the future, as more people are looking for ways to connect with their spirituality in a world that is often characterized by materialism and consumerism. The movement is also likely to continue to grow as more people are looking for ways to find community and support from others who share their values.
Senate clean water amendments backed

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. — The Senate Commerce Committee has passed amendments to the Clean Water Act that would establish a national system of pollution control and enforcement for industries, municipalities and local governments.

The amendments, which were introduced by Sen. Robert C. Goodlatte, R-Va., and Sen. John D. Stennis, D-Miss., would require industries to develop pollution control plans and to report their progress to the Environmental Protection Agency.

In addition, the amendments would establish a national pollution control enforcement program to ensure compliance with the new plans. The program would be funded by a fee on industries that exceed their pollution limits.

The amendments were endorsed by the American Public Health Association, the American Assn. of Public Health Officials, and the National Assn. of City Health Officials.

The amendments would also require the EPA to establish a national water quality management program to coordinate the efforts of all levels of government in protecting and improving the nation's waterways.
Bangladesh: independent, recognized — broke

By ARNOLD ZETLIN
FINA'S 1971... It has been just a year now since the birth of the independent republic of Bangladesh. On March 26, 1971, the world's newest nation was born out of the partition of Pakistan. It was a nation created by the merger of East Pakistan and West Pakistan. East Pakistan had been part of Pakistan since 1947, but it had always been considered a minority province. The desire for independence had been growing for many years, and on March 26, 1971, the people of East Pakistan declared their independence and set up a new government. The new country was named Bangladesh, which means "land of the Bengalis." The capital was Dacca, which is now known as Dhaka.

The First National Bank of Winona

The economy has been one of the major challenges facing the new country. Bangladesh is one of the poorest countries in the world, with a population of over 100 million people. The majority of the population is rural, and agriculture is the main source of income. The country is also dependent on foreign aid to help fund its economy.

The First National Bank of Winona is offering installment loan department hours to aid those who need financial assistance. They provide loans to help people make improvements to their homes. Their loan department is open Monday through Thursday from 9:30 to 4:30 and Friday from 9:30 to 8:00.

The bank is located at 177 Main Street, Winona, Minnesota, and members are eligible for federal deposit insurance from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The bank is also offering specials on products such as cleaning supplies, deodorant, and toilet brush, which can be purchased with their installment loans.

Thomas Ramstad, the festival ran from Wednesday through Friday and featured many hands-on exhibits and activities. Students included a feature on Tom's experiences as a hobo, and a project on Tom's adventures as an inventor. A special highlight was the annual Tom Sawyer Day, observed on Sunday with a parade and a contest for the best hobo costume. Students also included the popular "Tom's Treasure Hunt," where they had to solve puzzles to find treasure hidden throughout the school. The festival concluded with a special performance of "Huckleberry Finn" featuring students as main characters.

April is a month of the year in the Northern Hemisphere. It is the second month of the year and is named for the Roman god of war. It is a month of new beginnings and growth, with the arrival of spring. The weather is typically mild and pleasant, with temperatures gradually increasing. April is also known for its festivals and events, such as Easter and Earth Day. It is a popular time for outdoor activities, including gardening, hiking, and sports. The month is associated with the color pink, and people often wear pink to express their affection for the month. In many cultures, April is considered a month of renewal and new beginnings.

RAINDROPS keep falling on my hat—so let them fall!

This is the year of the classic look in coats. Modern designers are bringing forth a collection of tailored men and women's, designed to express and one's individuality and peculiarities on the American woman.

So far spring and summer, women's accessories and coats will offer the promise of fashion that is practical, and feminine and yet that is not expensive.

Most of the coats are shaped around the bust and fitted, and tall and less volume add to this feminine statement.

Bright coats that are made to be worn over the coffee shop's window glass.

In the United States women do not have the flower habit as much as in Europe, but they do like to have arrangements in the house. The most popular are the arrangements made by the florists, and the arrangements made in the home.

The flowers used in these arrangements are usually tulips, daffodils, and hyacinths. These flowers are very popular because they are available all year round.

The tulip is the most popular flower in the world, and many people are beginning to grow them in their gardens. They are very easy to grow, and they add color and beauty to any garden. They are also very low-maintenance, and they are not expensive to purchase.

The daffodil is another popular flower. It is easy to grow, and it is very beautiful. It is also very low-maintenance, and it is not expensive to purchase.

The hyacinth is another popular flower. It is very easy to grow, and it is very beautiful. It is also very low-maintenance, and it is not expensive to purchase.

In conclusion, the tulip, daffodil, and hyacinth are all popular flowers. They are very easy to grow, and they are very beautiful. They are also very low-maintenance, and they are not expensive to purchase.
What makes a good leader?

DEAR ABBY: My student government class of Roosevelt High School is planning a formal luncheon to help raise money to be donated to the local library. I am wondering if you can suggest what qualities make a good leader. We are willing to pay a reasonable price for your advice.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

I am not suggesting that 100 percent of all leaders are of these qualities, but it is my opinion that they were more common among our leaders in the past than they are today. As you will see, my suggestions are not necessarily limited to the leader in office, but to leaders of any kind.

DEAR ABBY: I recently read an article in a newspaper where a professional writer offered a step-by-step process to help students prepare for the SAT. He suggested that you should:

1. Read comprehension
2. Math
3. Writing

I thought this was a helpful article and wanted to share it with you. What do you think of these suggestions?

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is getting married in a few weeks, and I wanted to give her some advice on how to handle the planning process. Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR ABBY: My father has recently been diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease. He has always been a very active person, but now his memory is failing. What can I do to help him cope with this disease?

DEAR ABBY: I recently read an article about the importance of resilience in leadership. How can I develop this quality in myself?

DEAR ABBY: My friend is planning an event for her company and needs help with the planning process. Do you have any tips or advice?

Peter Yarrow Interview

Peter Yarrow was a part of one of the most influential musical groups of the 60's, Peter, Paul and Mary. If they had three thousand fans in San Francisco, America, Bob Dylan's music would have earned them the accolades of the bygone era of popular music. They did phone home.

SE: Where, when do you make your home during the time you spend here in America?
PY: We have seven homes actually. New York has been home for the last four years. We have a house there. It's a lovely kind of setting to have in itself. Much, of the others, you have to be somewhere to be a hand-concept in St. Paul and all that Center City.

SE: Let's, when you say that's just a little bit of chaos. We spend a god deal of time there and we have a very small in Eagle Lake, Minnesota. I'm going to go to the... the room. Mary Beth is going to give birth in about August.

SE: I should mention that Mary Beth is the niece of Eugene

PY: He was my best man. And after the wedding I sang a song for him that was written for Mary Beth. We spent a good deal of time there. And this room is a part of a whole apartment between the two and people of will.

SE: That sounds very nice.

PY: That's like saying "Viva Zapata." Actually, we may... . ' whom you shared the kind of closeness that we shared.

SE: That was written for Mary Beth and me at our wedding. "The Whole Time He Was My Best Man." And after the wedding I sang a song for him that was written for Mary Beth. We spent a good deal of time there. And this room is a part of a whole apartment between the two and people of will.

SE: You mentioned that Peter, Mary and mother... . I keep hearing people that my music related together. But, in my own mind, I am a part of my family. Paul and I are part of a circle. I have a similar relationship in my albums... there is a whole interconnectedness in my music. I am a part of a different group. I am a part of a different group.

SE: In Willmar?

PY: Right, I remember the first time I was there I sang for the whole family. It was a family holiday celebration in our home in Willmar. And my sister was very dear to me in my family.

SE: I remember when I was courting Mary Beth I was really courting the whole town. She was very dear to me and I was well treated by her. And I think it was a good time.

SE: I don't think that's a little bit of chaos. I am a part of an organization and a group that has been really good to me. I am a part of an organization and a group that has been really good to me.

SE: I am mentioning that Mary Beth is the niece of Eugene. And I am mentioning that Paul, Mary and Mary Beth are part of this area.

SE: Sort of...

PY: Well, that's just a terrific place. We spend a good deal of time there. And we have a tiny cabin on Eagle Lake that... um... is going to be our Utopia this summer because Mary Beth is going to give birth in about August.
I grew up in Hiawatha Blvd., and a son is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Peterson. I have two sisters and two brothers, his favorite speaker award and last year in his father’s law office throughout the Northwest. I participated in basketball and three years and is caucus a law degree and enter government (YIG) program. He has two sisters and Peterson works part-time for a business meeting and proposed to his future wife.

Things are looking up for Coach Dan Moracco and his Winona High basketball team.

The Winhawks could not be in a better position for the Big Nine Conference championship.

Moracco had won the 1972-73 season, finishing third with a final record of 1-7 in Big Nine Conference play. His team's defensive performance was the key to their success this season.

In the 1971 season, Moracco had the Winhawks ranked at No. 5 in the Big Nine, but still managed to finish third with a 4-3 conference record.

The Winhawks will need to improve their offensive game to compete against the top teams in the Big Nine Conference.

Majestic birds celebrate Wildlife Week

By BUTCH HORN

National Wildlife Refuge

Imagine yourself watching a bald eagle high above the trees, diving into the water, then rising aloft to circle in the clouds. The thrill of flying like a eagle is exciting, but what if you were riding down the river on a canoe? This is the experience you can have at the Upper Mississippi River National Wildlife Refuge. Located on the north shore of the Upper Mississippi River, this 9,700-acre refuge is a haven for bald eagles and many other species of birds. The refuge offers a chance to see what this week's observance is all about.

A view through the binoculars showed an impressive sight. "We can't possibly count all the birds-in the area," said Les Banta, refuge manager. "The goal of National Wildlife Week has been to show the importance of wildlife and their habitats, and the Upper Mississippi River National Wildlife Refuge is a great place to see these birds in action." He pointed out that the refuge is home to more than 100 species of birds, including bald eagles, ospreys, and various species of ducks and geese. "These birds are an important part of the ecosystem, and we're doing everything we can to protect their habitat," he said.

Each year during National Wildlife Week, the refuge hosts a variety of activities to educate visitors about the importance of wildlife conservation. This year, the refuge is hosting a week-long bald eagle festival, which includes guided tours, workshops, and educational programs. "It's a great time to get outdoors and learn about the importance of protecting our wildlife and their habitats," said Banta.

The festival kicks off with an opening ceremony on May 16, followed by daily tours and activities throughout the week. Visitors can learn about the biology of bald eagles and other species, see live birds of prey up close, and participate in hands-on activities like bird watching and photography workshops. "We want to inspire people to get involved in conservation and to appreciate the beauty of our wildlife," said Banta.

And there's something for everyone, regardless of age or experience. "We have events for kids, families, and birdwatchers of all levels," he said. "The festival is a great way to get people engaged and excited about conservation." This year's festival is especially significant as it marks the 90th anniversary of the Bald Eagle Protection Act, which was signed into law on May 24, 1922. "This act was a huge step forward in protecting bald eagles and other species of birds," said Banta. "It's a great time to celebrate our efforts and continue to work towards a healthy environment for all."
