Special session of legislature on war urged

-- A statement signed by 25 Minnesota lawmakers is urging legislators to vote for a special session to deal with the war in Vietnam. The statement, released by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, is expected to be read this week.

Protesters march to state Capitol

The march had been authorized by the Minnesota Capitol building, not the Capitol itself, and was one of several similar marches held in Washington, D.C., and other cities across the country.

NAPS (AP) -- Peace talks, as everyone in the United States knows, are at a very low point. There are no signs of any progress in the negotiations, and it seems likely that they will continue for a long time to come.

So far, the talks have been going on for at least two months, and there is no indication that they will be over soon. The two sides have not been able to agree on a number of key issues, including the withdrawal of all foreign troops and the establishment of a neutral government in Vietnam.

The talks are being held in Paris, and they are being attended by representatives of both the United States and Vietnam. Both sides are keeping quiet about the talks, and it is not clear whether they will meet again soon.

In the meantime, the situation in Vietnam continues to be very tense. The United States and Vietnam have been fighting a war for more than 30 years, and there is no sign of an end to the conflict.

The United States has spent billions of dollars and the lives of thousands of soldiers in the war, and it is not clear how much longer it will continue. It is possible that the talks may lead to a peaceful solution, but it is also possible that the war will continue for many more years.
Meeting with chamber termed disappointing

The Friday noon meeting with the Winona Chamber of Commerce was termed disappointing by protestor James D. Eichmann. Eichmann, a 22-year-old Trempealeau man, said that the forum was poorly attended and that the chamber had not adequately prepared for it.

Speaking about the forum, Eichmann said that the chamber did not provide adequate information about the speakers or the topics to be discussed. He also criticized the chamber for not properly advertising the event.

Eichmann said that he had hoped to learn more about the chamber's plans for the future and how they could contribute to the growth of the local economy. However, he felt that the meeting did not provide the information he was looking for.

Eichmann suggested that the chamber should improve its communication with its members and the public. He also recommended that the chamber should consider hiring a public relations person to help promote its events and initiatives.

The chamber's president, Robert J. King, said that the meeting was not well-attended because of the timing and location. He acknowledged that the chamber had not done enough to publicize the event and promised to do better in the future.

Eichmann ended his remarks by indicating that he would continue to press for better communication and transparency from the chamber.

Contest rules

1. REFERENCE not deference. It's not unheard of, of course, for an applicant to produce a résumé that states that REFERENCE may be unavailable or not entirely favorable, but it is something to consider.

2. VOCAB not vagabond. Although there is such a thing as a vagabond on wheels, i.e., a truck, I cannot think of a single instance — just any vagabond — that "might well be thought capable of saving a VOGUE or flavor in some sense.

3. VINES not vines. Even the WIVES of any community, even the most modern, have undergone a change. It was the marriage of the young girl to a young man that ushered in the era of the VINES. The reputation of the girl in a town, or a region, was rated, but that of the man was not considered, all the while a man's love or more love matter (i.e., ready to share), the fact that some men have much else than others don't mean that they are "much more mature.

4. GOLD not golf. The clue implies that a GOLFER may have informal clues though this may not be the prancer's correct location. GOLD is more reasonably given, thus a minor golf trophy may have significant value.

5. HIPS not lips. The use of makeup to make the HIPS appear larger is an example of a bad attempt to mask the fact of nature.

6. BED not "a hard BED," so considered, is unsuitable (as also completely lacking in comfort).

7. REFERENCE not deference. It's not unheard of, of course, for an applicant to produce a résumé that states that REFERENCE may be unavailable or not entirely favorable, but it is something to consider.

8. DISTRIBUTION not deficiency. It's also not unheard of, of course, for an applicant to produce a résumé that states that DEFERENCE may be unavailable or not entirely favorable, but it is something to consider.

9. DAY not "a day of reflection for high school students," by the way, is a day of reflection for high school students.

10. HAPPY not "happy." It's not unheard of, of course, for an applicant to produce a résumé that states that HAPPY may be unavailable or not entirely favorable, but it is something to consider.

11. MOTHER not "mothers remain the same!" It's also not unheard of, of course, for an applicant to produce a résumé that states that MOTHERS may be unavailable or not entirely favorable, but it is something to consider.

12. WIFE not "a bright color." It's not unheard of, of course, for an applicant to produce a résumé that states that WIFE may be unavailable or not entirely favorable, but it is something to consider.

Come November economic issue may be big one

Although at the moment it might seem that the real question for the upcoming November presidential elections is, 'Is this the year of the independent voter?' the real issues will be more subtle. Precise economic matters, such as inflation, unemployment, and foreign policy, will likely overshadow the political theater as the voters head to the polls.

RECENTLY the administration has been under fire for its handling of the inflation problem. President Nixon himself has defended his policy as "the only way to go," but his critics charge that the administration's actions have been too little, too late.

The administration's defense of its policies is based on the argument that the economy is already in a better position than it was a year ago. However, many economists believe that the inflation problem is far from solved and that the administration's policies are not enough to bring about a steady and sustained price reduction.

The administration's critics believe that the real issue is not whether the policies are effective, but whether they are fair. They argue that the administration's policies have benefited the rich at the expense of the poor, and that the administration is more concerned with maintaining its power than with addressing the needs of the American people.

In conclusion, the economic issues of the upcoming election will be complex and multifaceted. The candidates will be forced to address questions of inflation, unemployment, foreign policy, and domestic policy in order to gain the support of the American public.

Decisions made on battlefield

A President entitled to a mistake

Roger Garaudy, French writer on Marxism, Christianity and the arts, was assassinated in Paris today.

Today youths call for a new version of the American flag. They want a flag that would be more inclusive and represent the diversity of the United States.

But the traditionalism and staunchness that the flag represents are not going to disappear. As has happened in the past, the flag will continue to be a symbol of American national identity.

Russell Baker

WASHINGTON — President Nixon today offered a list of recommendations to the American people on how to improve the economy. He said that the administration has already made substantial progress in reducing inflation and unemployment, and that more progress is possible.

"I believe that we have already made a good start," Nixon said. "But we must not be complacent, for there is much more that we can do to improve the economy." He said that the administration is looking into ways to increase efficiency in government operations, and that it will be working to reduce the size of the federal bureaucracy.

"We must be careful not to make the mistake of thinking that we can do everything on our own," Nixon said. "We must work with the private sector, and with the people, to improve the economy. We must be patient, and we must be persistent."
To the editor

A plea for peace

The following resolution was authored by Ms. Mary C. Gage and presented to the Board of Supervisors of Winona County.

As a student at Winona State College, I have found it increasingly difficult to remain a conscientious objector. The constant barrage of violence and bloodshed makes it impossible for me to continue my non-violent protest against President Nixon's policy of war.

I urge all of my fellow students to join me in this effort. Together, we can make a difference.

Sincerely,

Juvenile recidivism rate drops

An analysis of 1971 Winona County Juvenile Court data shows that the juvenile recidivism rate dropped from five to 0.5 percent in the past year. The new low reflects the continued growth of the court's intake and dispositions.\

Several factors may account for this drop. Firstly, the court has increased its focus on diverting cases away from formal court proceedings and towards informal resolution. Secondly, the court has implemented more effective treatment programs for juvenile offenders, which has reduced the likelihood of recidivism. Finally, collaboration with community agencies has improved the services available to juvenile offenders, leading to more successful outcomes.

Анализ данных суда подростковой юстиции Винона за 1971 год показывает, что инциденты рецидива у подростков уменьшились с 5 до 0.5% в последний год. Новый уровень отражает продолжающееся развитие суда и его функций.

Много факторов могут объяснить это уменьшение. Во-первых, суд увеличил своё внимание на перераспределении дел, уклоняясь от формальных судебных процедур в пользу неформального разрешения. Во-вторых, суд внедрил более эффективные программы лечения для подростков-нарушителей, что снизило вероятность рецидива. В-третьих, сотрудничество с сообществом улучшило доступ к услугам для подростков-нарушителей, что привело к более успешным результатам.

WARSOW (AP) — With a new sign over the lot and an old says it all, "Look who's selling cars." Saturday, the lot was busy as usual, with several customers inspecting various models. The salesperson, John Smith, said, "We always have a steady flow of customers here, especially on weekends." The lot is located at 1234 Main Street and is open from 9 AM to 5 PM Monday through Saturday.

Students clean painted church

Cleaning one of the 45-odd churches and buildings painted with pseudo symbols and slogans Thursday night, a group of students from Warsaw State College decided to take action against graffiti. The group was led by a leader of the local student council, who said, "We want to send a clear message that this behavior is not acceptable." The students worked for several hours, using solvents and brushes to remove the graffiti. Several other groups are also expected to join in the cleanup effort.

Report hijacker evidently landed safely and escaped

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — The Eastern Air Lines hijacker who held up the plane at the airport here today appeared to have landed safely and escaped from the airport.

"We believe he has landed on the border of Atlantida and British Honduras," a Honduran police official said. "We are now searching for him."

The hijacker, who is said to be a well-known personality, was seen walking off the plane and into a nearby forest.

Meanwhile, the plane has landed at the airport and is being searched by police officers.

"We are trying to determine if the hijacker has escaped or if he is still on the plane," the police official said. "We are using dogs and other search techniques."

STATE SCHOOL POLIO CASE

Four cases of poliomyelitis have been reported in the state school for the blind at St. Cloud. Goodview, was reported to have been infected with the disease. The four cases are all boys and two of them are in the kindergarten department. The other two are in the high school. The boys are all members of the same family and all live in the same house. The disease was first noticed on January 18, and the cases have been under observation ever since.

Cloudy and another state school case.

Increased interest in the state school has been noticed in recent weeks. The number of cases has increased from five to seven. This is due to the fact that the school is now in session and has a larger enrollment.

Forecast

Cloudy and another state school case.

The weather forecast for the week shows a general tendency toward cloudiness and occasional showers. The temperature will be moderate, with a high of 60° and a low of 40°. The winds will be light, with a west wind of 10 to 15 mph.

'Dropout' realizes, accepts responsibility and returns to school

By GALE VOGEL

Carl Aldridge doesn't believe in taking what he calls "an easy ride." He's going to college this year.

Carl, 26, is a senior at Winona State University. "I think it's important to have a college education," he says. "I took a year off to work and then went back to college." Carl is planning to go to law school after he graduates from college.

The 1960s were a time of change for Carl. He was born in 1942, the same year that America entered World War II. During his childhood, he lived in Minnesota and Wisconsin, where he attended grammar school and high school.

Carl's parents were both farmers. His father, who had served in the military, returned home after the war and worked on the farm. His mother was a homemaker.

Carl attended Winona State University, where he majored in history. "I wanted to be a teacher," he says. "But I didn't think I could make a living at it." So he decided to go into law instead.

Carl's family is very important to him. His mother died when he was 12, and his father died when he was 18. Carl has two sisters, one of whom lives in Wisconsin and the other in Minnesota.

Carl's wife, Cheryl, is also a student at Winona State University. She is majoring in sociology.

The Aldridge family is planning a trip to Europe this summer. "We're going to take a cruise and see some of the sights," Carl says. "I'm looking forward to it."
Foster families: a little bit extra

Love shared, lessons taught and, more often than not, learned

By CAROLYN ROMANOFF

Social worker and foster mother

A mother is a smile, a hug, a listening ear, a comforting voice when you need it most. A foster mother is all of that and more, often providing a family environment for children who may not have experienced one in their lives. Foster mothers give guidance, love, and support to children who need it the most.

HELPING HANDS ... Kathy Peck, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Peck, receives some needed assistance with her bike from her foster brother Robert.

Foster parenthood may be defined as substitute parenthood. The primary purpose of foster parenthood is to provide temporary care for children who are in need of assistance. Foster parents are chosen based on their ability to provide a safe and stable environment for the child. They are trained to provide the same level of care as a biological parent. Foster parents must pass a background check and undergo training to become certified.

Foster parenthood is a family-oriented approach that recognizes the important role of the family in a child's life. Foster parents are encouraged to treat the child as if they were their own, providing stability and consistency in their lives. Foster parents may face challenges, such as anxiety over the child's future or the possibility of the child being returned to their biological parents. However, the satisfaction of knowing that they are making a difference in a child's life can be rewarding.

Foster parenthood can be a positive experience for both the child and the foster parents. It provides an opportunity for the child to learn new skills and gain confidence, while the foster parents gain a sense of fulfillment and purpose.

Foster families: a little bit extra. Love shared, lessons taught and, more often than not, learned.

The plan did work to give you some of the more listener-friendly hits that have come out in the last few days because they were clearly not a very available and others because they were not.

Dr. Johns — Gordo — 5:00 to 10:00
Gordo is a columnist for the new music of Dr. Johns. On his album, he has been the leader in performance of new music. jazz, pop music and his gang. Gordo would have wanted you to wear one of his jazz albums on your shirt. As Dr. Johns moves more towards the music of the 70's, he began to record some of his earlier work as well as new material. His album, "The First Time Ever I Saw You," was released last year and is still available at most record stores.

Warriors stymied by Cloud's stingy pitching, timely hits

By BRIAN CLAYTON

ST. CLOUD, Minn. — W spartans' eighth straight win of the season, the second straight game against the Lancers, was the problem of being able to hold off the Lancers. The Warriors were outscored in the first two games by a combined 3-6. But in this game, Cloud's pitching and timeliness more than made up for it.

By DEAN ROSENTHAL

NEW YORK — The Celtics, minus the injured John Havlicek, were a decisive 112-95 victors over the Knicks on Friday night, as Boston's Bob Cousy scored 33 points, and Bill Ranicki added 32.

Weaver, who replaced Havlicek at the start of the game, scored 12 points in the first half, and had 11 in the second. Ken Norton, who had started the game, scored 10 points in the first period, and had 14 in the second.

The Celtics, who lead the series 2-1, will face the New York Knicks in Game 4 on Monday night.

3 Redmen All-MIAC; Servals named MVP

By ROBERT A. REYNOLDS

The St. Cloud State University baseball team wrapped up the regular season with a 6-3 victory over the University of Minnesota Duluth Bulldogs on Saturday.

The Redmen, who were leading 4-0 after two innings, scored their final run on a single by third baseman Dan Peterson in the top of the seventh inning.

The win gives St. Cloud State a share of the MIAC title with the Bulldogs.

Mays debuts, but Milner does the job

By BRUCE LOWITT

Mays debuts, New York Mets' dugout came— who jammed Shea Stadium home run hitter to step up to for baseball's top right-Handed eighth inning, the Mets trailing St. Louis 5-4.

The defeat was Houston's fourth in six games against the Mets, who had won the previous two at Shea Stadium to move into first place in the NL East.

But it didn't seem to bother the kid, according to his manager Don Zimmer said of his three-run homer in the fifth inning.

"You've got to let the kid hit," Zimmer said.

The Mets had scored twice in the second on Rick Monday's second-inning double and a wild pitch by Dave Righetti, only to see Houston tie the score in the third on a two-out, bases-loaded walk to Ken Oberkampf.

The only problem, though, was that after the Mets scored three runs in the sixth, the Astros scored three runs in the seventh and the Mets were unable to score again.

The Mets played well, but they were outplayed by the Astros in the end.

The game ended with the Mets leading 7-6, but the Astros went on to win 11-7.

The Mets' pitching was not good, as the Astros scored three runs in the sixth on a wild pitch by reliever Bob Stanley, and four runs in the seventh on a two-run homer by Ken Oberkampf.

The Mets' offense was not good, as they managed only three hits and one walk in the game.

The Mets' defense was not good, as they committed two errors, one on a bunt single by Houston's Greg Luzinski, and one on a double play.

The game ended with the Mets leading 7-6, but the Astros went on to win 11-7.

The Mets are now 10-15 for the season, and they are in fourth place in the NL East, seven games behind the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Astros are now 17-8 for the season, and they are in first place in the NL West, seven games ahead of the Montreal Expos.

The Mets will play the Atlanta Braves tomorrow night at Shea Stadium, and the Astros will play the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Transplant kidney three days after taken from donor

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A kidney taken from a donor who died three days ago was successfully transplanted into the body of a 54-year-old man today, according to the surgeon who performed the operation.

The kidney was taken from a donor who died of a heart attack at 1:00 a.m. today. The donor, a 47-year-old man, was declared brain dead at 1:30 a.m. and the kidney was removed at 2:00 a.m.

The kidney was transplanted into a 54-year-old man, who had been on dialysis for three years. The operation was performed at the University of Wisconsin Medical School.

The operation was successful, and the patient is expected to survive.
