Congress sends Nixon
$21.3 billion measure

By JOHN BECKELL
WASHINGTON — The House has sent to President Nixon a $21.3 billion education bill that Republicans have for months warned they would block if it contained "antibus ing" provisions.

The legislation, the first major domestic policy measure the 94th Congress has passed, has been moving toward the finish line for weeks. Nixon had indicated it was his top domestic priority.

Democrats and Republicans joined in the vote to pass the measure by a margin of 306-96. The Senate was expected to approve the bill, and Nixon was expected to sign it as soon as possible.

The measure includes a $1 billion increase in military aid to South Vietnam, a $1 billion increase in military aid to South Korea, and a $1 billion increase in military aid to Thailand.

McGovern's hurdles

WASHINGTON — The question of McGovern's candidacy has been the subject of a great deal of speculation and discussion in recent months. The question of whether the Democratic Party will nominate McGovern has been under consideration ever since the end of World War II, and it seems likely that a decision will be made soon.

McGovern has been practicing law in South Dakota since 1947, and he has been involved in political activities throughout this period. He is a member of the Democratic Party, and he has been active in its affairs as well as in those of the State and national organizations.

McGovern's candidacy has been a source of considerable controversy in recent years. Some people have argued that he is too extreme in his views, while others believe that he is too moderate. Nevertheless, there is general agreement that he is a strong candidate for the nomination, and it seems likely that he will be taken seriously by the delegates to the convention.

The success of McGovern's campaign will depend on his ability to mobilize support among different groups of voters. He has been successful in attracting support from young people, and it seems likely that he will be able to do so again in 1968.

McGovern has been a leader in the civil rights movement, and he has been active in efforts to improve the lot of minority groups. He has also been a strong advocate of economic development in the South, and he has been successful in attracting support from those who feel that the South is being left behind.

Amish school decision heartening, inconsistent

Dr. Max Rafferty, in a statement released yesterday, said he did not agree with the decision to close the school, but was heartened by the way the community handled the situation. Rafferty, who is a member of the board of trustees, said he believed the decision was made in a spirit of compromise and cooperation. He added that he was confident the community would be able to work through the issues and find a solution that was satisfactory to all.

Meanwhile, the leaders of the Amish community have expressed mixed reactions to the decision. Some have praised the school for its commitment to education and its role in the community, while others have condemned it as a threat to the Amish way of life.

The decision to close the school comes in the wake of several recent incidents that have raised concerns about the future of the Amish community. In one incident, a member of the community was arrested for driving a car, a practice that is not permitted by the community's rules. In another incident, a group of young Amish people were caught using alcohol, a substance that is considered taboo by the community.

The decision to close the school is expected to have a significant impact on the community, particularly in terms of education and social interaction. Many of the students in the school are older children who have been attending it for many years, and their families are concerned about finding alternative schools for their children.

CREDENTIALS HEARING

Charge Daley group broke reform rules

The Charge Daley group, which has been working to reform the Democratic Party's organization, has been accused of breaking rules and engaging in unethical behavior.

In a statement released yesterday, the group's leaders said they had been working diligently to bring about meaningful change within the party. They added that they had been following all of the rules and had not engaged in any unethical behavior.

However, according to sources familiar with the situation, the group has been accused of breaking several rules and engaging in unethical behavior. These accusations include violating the party's rules on representation of women and minorities, and engaging in personal attacks on political opponents.

The group's leaders have denied the allegations and said they will continue to work towards meaningful change within the party.

Hired worker force on U.S. farms rises

WASHINGTON — The number of hired workers on U.S. farms increased by 25 percent in the first quarter of the year, according to a report released yesterday.

The report, which was released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said that the number of hired workers on U.S. farms rose from 8 million in the first quarter of 1972 to 10 million in the first quarter of 1973.

The report also said that the average monthly wage for hired workers rose from $200 to $250 during the same period.

The increase in the number of hired workers on U.S. farms is expected to have a significant impact on the agricultural industry, particularly in terms of labor costs.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Department of Labor has said that it will be increasing its efforts to monitor working conditions on U.S. farms, in order to ensure that workers are being treated fairly.

Bill a ‘landmark’ in treatment of alcoholism

The bill, which was introduced by Senator William J. Simmons, was passed by a vote of 30 to 1 in the state Senate. It is expected to be signed into law by Governor James D. Oakes shortly.

The bill is a significant step towards addressing the problem of alcoholism in Wisconsin, and it is expected to have a significant impact on the lives of those who suffer from this condition.

American surgeons begin to take long, hard look at acupuncture

OU, Wis. (AP) — American surgeons begin to take a long, hard look at acupuncture, the oriental treatment for pain and other ills that some researchers believe has potential in Western medicine.

The interest stems from results of early studies that show promise in Western ailments such as headaches, arthritis and nausea following surgery. Researchers have also noted that some patients undergoing acupuncture experience dramatic pain relief.

"It's a new thing, a developing phenomenon," said Dr. William Burwell, a surgeon at the University of Wisconsin in Madison. "We're looking at it very seriously." Burwell is one of several surgeons in the United States who are conducting clinical trials on acupuncture.

Acupuncture is an ancient Chinese treatment that involves the insertion of thin needles into specific points on the body. The needles are left in place for several minutes, and the patient may experience a tingling sensation or no sensation at all.

The interest in acupuncture in the United States has grown in recent years, partly because of the success of Western doctors in treating patients with chronic pain. Some doctors have found that acupuncture can alleviate the pain of patients who have tried other treatments, such as medication and surgery.

However, the science behind acupuncture remains largely unknown, and some Western medical professionals are cautious about its use. They point out that the technology is complex and that it is difficult to measure its effects accurately.

Despite these challenges, many Western doctors are continuing to explore acupuncture as a potential treatment for a variety of conditions, including chronic pain, nausea, and even some forms of mental illness.

"We're not going to rush into this," said Dr. Burwell. "But we're certainly interested in exploring it further."

Phoebe to skin and bone beauties

DEAN ARBY: Why do we select certain exercises, diet programs, and beauty aids separately? How can we unite them into a whole program unique to us?

Dear Abby: If we don't have any faults, we wouldn't need any help. If we're not unhappy, we wouldn't want any change. If we're not dissatisfied, we couldn't be looking for anything. If we're not fat, we couldn't be dieting. If we're not dissatisfied with our looks, we wouldn't be reading this column.

DEAN: What is the purpose of exercise? What are the benefits to the body?

Dear Abby: In order to lead a happy life, you must first take care of yourself. You can't expect anything more than you give. You can't expect the best unless you are the best. If you don't take care of your body, it will not take care of you.

DEAN: Is there a proper way to skin the Phooey?

Dear Abby: The only way to skin the Phooey is to look at it and decide whether it's worth the effort. If it's not, then leave it alone. If it is, then skin it carefully and properly.

DEAN: Who was elected delegate to the convention?

Dear Abby: The delegate was elected based on the results of the election held in the community. It was a democratic process where everyone had the opportunity to vote for their preferred candidate.

DEAN: What is the purpose of a skin and bone beauty aid?

Dear Abby: The purpose of a skin and bone beauty aid is to improve the appearance and health of the skin and bones. These aids can help to reduce wrinkles, improve skin tone, and enhance bone density.

DEAN: How can we benefit from exercise and beauty aids?

Dear Abby: By combining exercise and beauty aids, we can achieve a better overall health and appearance. Exercise helps to improve our cardiovascular health, while beauty aids can help to improve our skin and bone health. Together, they can lead to a more balanced and healthy lifestyle.

DEAN: What is the role of a skin and bone advisor?

Dear Abby: A skin and bone advisor is a professional who provides guidance and advice on skin and bone health. They can help individuals to understand the importance of maintenance and the proper ways to care for their skin and bones.

DEAN: How can we stay motivated to exercise and use beauty aids?

Dear Abby: Staying motivated requires setting realistic goals, tracking progress, and rewarding yourself for achievements. It is also important to find activities that you enjoy and that are compatible with your lifestyle.

DEAN: Is there a magical way to achieve a perfect skin and bone?

Dear Abby: There is no magical way to achieve a perfect skin and bone. It requires a combination of proper diet, exercise, and skin and bone health maintenance. It is a process that requires commitment and dedication.

DEAN: What is the best diet for skin and bone health?

Dear Abby: The best diet for skin and bone health is one that is rich in nutrients and vitamins. This includes a balanced diet that is high in fruits, vegetables, lean protein, and whole grains. Avoiding processed foods and sugary drinks is also important.

DEAN: How can we stay healthy and happy?

Dear Abby: Staying healthy and happy requires a balance of physical, mental, and emotional well-being. This includes regular exercise, a healthy diet, adequate sleep, and positive social interactions. It is also important to take time for relaxation and enjoyment.
