Increased food prices will be probed by panel

By BELL NEWBURY
WASHINGTON (AP) _ The Senate Agriculture Committee will hold a hearing Tuesday to probe alleged violations of federal laws by the government in efforts to control food prices, which have risen sharply in recent months.

The hearing will be the first of its kind in the history of the Senate Agriculture Committee, which oversees food policy and has jurisdiction over the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The committee has received complaints from farmers and consumers about the government's efforts to stabilize food prices, which have soared in recent months due to the ongoing conflict in Vietnam.

The hearing will examine whether the government has exceeded its authority in regulating the food market and whether it has acted in a way that is fair and not discriminatory.

The committee plans to hold additional hearings on the topic in the coming weeks.

On the inside:

Child-day-care bill wins OK

WASHINGTON (AP) _ After trying to make it acceptable to President Nixon, the Senate has finally approved a bill that would provide federal funds to improve child-care programs.

The bill, which was passed by a 71-29 vote in the Senate on Thursday, would provide $2.95 billion in federal funds to improve child-care programs in schools, day-care centers and other settings.

The bill was supported by both Democrats and Republicans, who agreed that the bill was necessary to improve the quality of child-care programs.

The bill would become law if President Nixon signs it, which he is expected to do.

2 big powers disarm wary

C. L. Salzburger

Whether the Soviet Union and America will eventually disarm is now the question, although the long process of disarming is under way. At first, each nation will have to commit itself to a program and then, if the program is successful, any nation can follow suit. But even if the program is successful, it will be only a first step. The ultimate goal is a world free of nuclear weapons.

The Vietnam war has caused many people to question the wisdom of keeping American troops in Vietnam. The war has also led to a greater understanding of the problems of disarmament.

The United Nations is the forum for discussing disarmament, and it has been successful in bringing about some progress. The UN has called for a complete ban on nuclear tests, and this has been met with little opposition. The UN has also called for a reduction in the number of nuclear weapons, and this has been met with some resistance.

The disarmament process is not easy, and it will take many years to complete. But it is important, for the sake of our children and grandchildren, that we work towards a world free of nuclear weapons.

The acute example is oil.

The energy crisis is the on-going problem of our time. We are facing a future where oil will be scarce and expensive. The world is using up its oil reserves at an alarming rate, and we need to find new sources of energy.

Some experts believe that nuclear energy could be the answer. Nuclear energy is abundant, and it produces no greenhouse gases. However, nuclear power is expensive to build and operate, and there is a risk of nuclear accidents.

There are other sources of energy that we can use, such as wind, solar, and geothermal. These sources are clean and renewable, and they could provide us with a sustainable future.

Ladies' man doesn't believe in frigid women

Dear Abby:

By Alviol Von Buren

I am in love with a girl who is not exactly my type. I am not all that bad-looking, but she has been told by others that I am not the most charming gentleman. I am not good enough for her, but I love her with all my heart. Is it possible for me to win her over?

DEAR BILL: Don't be too discouraged. There are many girls who don't want the type of guy you describe. Perhaps you could try to find a girl who is more interested in the qualities you possess. Good luck!

Dear Abby:

I am a ladies' man, but I don't believe in frigid women. I am looking for a woman who is more interested in the qualities I possess. I am not as good looking as I would like to be, but I am confident that I can make her feel valued.

DEAR BILL: You are not alone in your search for a suitable partner. There are many girls who are interested in the qualities you possess. It may take some time, but eventually you will find the right person for you. Good luck!

Democratic Committee wins clash with Daley

By LEE BYRD
WASHINGTON (AP) - The Democratic National Committee's fiery chairman, Richard J. Daley, moved yesterday to stem a rules battle that could engulf the convention this summer with a 9-to-3 vote by the Appeals Committee.

The vote was part of a three-day convention where delegates from all 59 uncommitted Chicago wards and 19 Chicago wards, which control the Democratic Party in Illinois, were in attendance.

Daley overruled rules aimed at giving the Illinois Delegation the right to present a separate slate of candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The convention also heard a report on the Credentials Committee, which has won a crucial convention

Although the Daley plan was defeated, the convention is expected to reconsider the issue at its next meeting.

Wood County spokesmen upset

By RICHARD A. EUGLESTON

Wood County got a raw deal Tuesday when the state Board of Education, Madison, and Wood County board chairman Andrew Hellner said "chances are excellent a suit will be filed before the July 1 date of merger.

"With tech districts merger two central Wisconsin tech districts, Wood County board chairman Andrew Hellner said "chances are excellent a suit will be filed before the July 1 date of merger.

"The vote for merging Tech Districts 14 and 15 would have had to be challenged; the merger would always have to be challenged," said Hellner, who represents the Wood County district.

"The decision was made in an election where nobody really cared," he added.

The news came as a surprise to many in the area, including Wood County Supervisor John Bradway, who said he was "bemused" by the decision.

"I'm disappointed that the state board would make such a decision without talking to the people involved," he said.

"We were never consulted," Bradway said.

"I'm not sure what we can do now," he added.

The merger between Tech Districts 14 and 15 was announced earlier this year, with the goal of creating a larger, more efficient district.

"The state board has made a decision that will affect the lives of many people," Bradway said.

"I'm not sure how we can go back and change their minds," he added.

"I'm just hoping that this will be a turning point," he said.

"In the past, the state board has not been very responsive to our concerns," Bradway said.

"I hope this will change," he added.

Brewers find mark, pin 7-1 loss on Wood

MILWAUKEE (AP) - The pitching staff at Milwaukee County Stadium fell flat on its face last night, and when the dust settled, the scoreboard showed the Brewers had lost to the Chicago Cubs, 7-1. The defeat was the second in a row for the Brewers, who had been on a roll before the Cubs came to town.

The Cubs scored early and often, taking a 7-0 lead in the fifth inning. Their bats were in fine form, hitting singles and doubles to score three runs. The Brewers had no answer, and the game ended with a 7-1 score.

Yunick unveils Oriente Express

By LARRY THOMAS

Oriente Express - The first airplane built by Robert Yunick, who calls himself the "Oriente Express," made its maiden flight today. The plane, a two-engine, single-seat biplane, was designed to be a "fast, efficient, and safe" aircraft.

Yunick, a former Army engineer, was inspired to build the plane after seeing a photograph of a similar aircraft in an aviation magazine. He spent two years designing and building the plane in his backyard workshop.

The plane is powered by two 90-horsepower engines and has a wingspan of 40 feet. It can reach speeds of up to 120 mph and has a range of 500 miles. Yunick plans to fly the plane to the 1928 Olympics in Paris and to other air shows around the world.

Clemente raps news media

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Roberto Clemente had a frank view of the news media's portrayal of the team when he was introduced as the new Pirate manager today.

"I don't like the way the media covers sports," Clemente said. "I always thought the media was more interested in the players' lives than in the games themselves. But now I think they're more interested in the players' lives than in the games they're covering."

Clemente, who has been a player and manager for the Pittsburgh Pirates for 17 years, was introduced as the new manager after the team's season was a disaster.

"I've been around the block a few times," Clemente said. "I know how the media works. I've been around it enough to know how it works. But now I think they're more interested in the players' lives than in the games they're covering."

The Pirates have been one of the worst teams in baseball this season, with a record of 51-91. Clemente said he felt the media was more interested in the players' lives than in the games they were covering.

U.N. Council condemns acts of air piracy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) - The U. S. Security Council Monday unanimously condemned acts against air traffic and said all governments to take action to make flights safe.

Council President Later B. Baker of Netherland, who presided over the historic vote, said the decision would make it possible for the international community to work for a permanent solution to the problem of air piracy.

The vote was taken after the Security Council had held a special meeting to consider the recommendations of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) to prevent and combat acts of unseemly behavior by hijackers.

The council recommended that all air traffic controllers be trained to identify hijackers and to take appropriate action to prevent them from carrying out their plans.

The recommendation also called for the establishment of an international stakeholder forum to develop strategies for preventing and combating acts of air piracy.

The council also urged member states to provide adequate resources to their air traffic controllers and to ensure that they had the necessary training and equipment to carry out their duties.

The vote was taken unanimously by the council, which is comprised of 15 member states.

The United States, which was one of the sponsors of the resolution, said the act of air piracy was a violation of international law and that all governments had a responsibility to take action to prevent it.

The United States also said that it would continue to work with its allies to develop strategies for preventing and combating acts of air piracy.

The United States has long been a leader in the effort to prevent and combat acts of air piracy.
