Will all combat forces be out of war by August?

By FRED H. HOPKINSON
Washington, D.C.

U.S. Defense Secretary Robert McNamara Friday threatened to withdraw the last American combat forces from Vietnam if the Communist North Vietnamese fail to make a major withdrawal by the end of July.

In the face of a North Vietnamese failure to meet the President's conditions, McNamara said he could not rule out the possibility of a third-party presidential race in November — or of a longer war.

In Vietnam, McNamara became the Democratic frontrunner — story, page 1.

Nixon appointees dissent

Court bars death penalty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today barred the federal government from executing some of the convicts or death row, saying there was no "existing general need" for capital punishment.

Nixon’s judicial appointments to the court, including the new conservative majority, have been increased by the majority’s ruling.

The Court said, however, that the President’s appointment of five new justices, including the conservative majority, was consistent with the "existing general need" for capital punishment.

Massachusetts’ new drug law in effect Saturday

By HARRY EYBERG

The state’s new drug law, which has been described as one of the toughest in the nation, goes into effect tomorrow. The law is expected to have a major impact on drug-related crime in Massachusetts and throughout the nation.

The new law will increase penalties for drug offenses and will also make it easier for law enforcement agencies to obtain convictions. It will also provide for the first time strict controls on the manufacture and distribution of drugs.

If the drug problem in Massachusetts is to be dealt with effectively, the state must adopt a comprehensive approach to the issue. This requires a commitment of resources and a willingness to make difficult decisions.

The Legislature has taken a major step forward in this regard by enacting the new drug law. The hope is that it will help to stem the tide of drug abuse and to bring about a significant reduction in the number of drug-related crimes.

Nelson against 12-foot channel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., and Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., called an urgent Congress into session Wednesday to consider legislation that would prevent the construction of a 12-foot channel in the Ohio River.

The two lawmakers, who are sponsoring the bill, said the measure is necessary to protect the environment and to ensure the continued availability of the existing navigation channels.

The 12-foot channel, which is currently under construction, is expected to reduce the carrying capacity of the Ohio River by more than 40 percent. The proposed legislation would prevent the completion of the channel and would require a new study of the navigable capacity of the river.

The bill has the support of a number of environmental organizations and is expected to be passed by Congress this week.

More and more states look to lotteries for financial help

By H. JOSEF HEBERT
Associated Press Writer

"If you live in one of the states that have a state lottery, you're in luck," says J. J. "Zeke" Giorgi, a stocky, square-jawed Illinois state representative.

"It's either a lottery or $60 million in new taxes," declares "Bingo Bob" Traxler, Giorgi's counterpart in Michigan where a 137-year-old constitutional ban on gambling is about to be lifted.

"We're getting more liberal," says Giorgi, who along with Traxler and a few others are among the state legislators in a group meetings that have been attempting to sell state lotteries to their colleagues.

"I think we're getting more liberal," says Giorgi, who along with Traxler and a few others are among the state legislators in a group meetings that have been attempting to sell state lotteries to their colleagues.

"The state of Michigan, which has only five states that have lotteries, is not expected to produce $100 million in new taxes," Giorgi says, "but we're hoping for $20 million or $30 million a year."
Irony, tragedy, an especially bitter mixture

Tragedy that is soiled with irony is perhaps the most bitter mixture of all. It can be described thus:

It is the recent death of a taxidermist, killed by a swinging boll weevil in Yellville National Forest. The town was increased to 3,000 days before he was born, and the boll weevil was killed by a boll weevil. The town is now known as Boll Weevil, and the boll weevil was killed by a boll weevil.

Boll Weevil. And so what happens when this pre-sentional public arises? A great many things—none of them pleasant. Boll Weevil is the ultimate tragedy of human death. It is too his fate to blame for the world that no one man should be able to escape.

There is a saving factor, however, since local opinion over how it may affect traffic and people is the area.

From here it looks like another concession to the Democrat's National Convention.

There is no way of knowing what will happen at the Democratic National Convention. It could end in disaster or in victory. But at least it is a step in the right direction.

Illinois House gives approval to paramedics plan

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Illinois Gov. George Ryan said this week that he would also specially trained paramedics if the plan is approved by a constitutional amendment this fall, although several requirements must be met.

The bill, which would give the green light for hospitals to use the new service, was approved by the House 120-21 Wednesday night after a two-hour debate. The Senate is scheduled to take up the bill at its next session.

Although backed by key supporters, the legislation faces a tough fight in the Senate, where a constitutional amendment is needed for its passage. The measure has been opposed by some who believe the state should be able to afford the service without relying on federal funds.

The bill would allow specially trained paramedics to be dispatched to the scene of an accident or illness in order to provide emergency care.

Northwest pilots will stage walkout Friday

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Northwest Airlines pilots set to walk off the job for three days next week are accusing the company of making "bad faith" contract offers.

The pilots, who represent the Northwest Pilot Union, said they received a contract offer from the company that included 20 cents below the going rate for a 10 percent wage increase.

"We're not going to accept anything less than a fair contract," said Jim McDonald, a spokesman for the pilots.

Farm labor knowledge is critical, USDA says

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Farm laborers are crucial to the productivity of U.S. farms. They carry a heavy responsibility in keeping the labor force at peak performance and ensuring the most effective use of labor available. According to the latest U.S. Department of Agriculture report, farm laborers represent about 10 percent of the nation's labor force and are critical to the success of U.S. agriculture.

The report highlights the importance of farm labor in various industries, including food processing, manufacturing, and transportation. It also notes that the demand for farm labor has increased significantly due to the expansion of the agriculture sector.

The report concludes with a call for continued investment in research and development to address the challenges facing the farm labor force. It emphasizes the need for more training programs and incentives to attract and retain skilled workers in the industry.

Nitrogen more effective in smaller doses

ST. PAUL, Minn. — University of Minnesota soil scientists say the most economic nitrogen applied to corn is likely to be about 100 pounds per acre, or a little over one bushel of grain. This figure is for the average yield of a Minnesota farm.

A single nitrogen application at planting time is as effective as multiple applications at various growth stages in terms of economic return, according to the scientists.

Applying nitrogen at frequent intervals increases maximum yields, but by growing corn and soybeans in combination, the economic advantage of continuous nitrogen application is less pronounced, they say.

A single nitrogen application at planting time is as effective as multiple applications at various growth stages in terms of economic return, according to the scientists.

The advantages: early harvest increases yields and reduces the need for nitrogen applications later in the growing season. The disadvantages: later applications may not be as effective in increasing yields as applications made at planting time.

The scientists recommend a single nitrogen application at planting time to corn, followed by a low-rate application at silking. This approach is likely to be more economic than multiple applications at later growth stages.

In plants where nitrogen is applied at planting time, the nitrogen is released slowly into the soil, allowing the plant to use it efficiently. This approach is likely to be more effective in increasing yields than multiple applications at later growth stages.

European corn borer a crop scourge 50 years

The European corn borer, a relatively new pest in the United States, is a serious threat to corn production in many areas. The borer is a small, brown, caterpillar-like insect that can cause significant damage to corn leaves and stalks. The borer can also lay eggs on corn leaves, which can cause severe damage to the plant.

The European corn borer first appeared in the United States in the 1930s and has since become a significant pest in many areas. The pest has been particularly顽固 in areas with warm, humid summers and in areas with a long growing season.

The borer's impact on corn production is significant, and it has caused considerable economic losses to farmers. The borer can cause significant damage to corn leaves and stalks, which can reduce crop yields and quality. The pest can also lay eggs on corn leaves, which can cause severe damage to the plant.

The Winona Legion and the Winona Optimists will be confronted with a major obstacle in their opening contest of this year's 25-team tournament which gets underway in this city over the weekend.

The Beat showing by a local

The beat showing by a local team in Winona Legion ball is not coming out of nowhere. The Legion will be playing with a roster that has had a lot of time to work together in the past year.

The game themselves will be against a team from the Twin Cities which is expected to be a strong one.

The Legion is hoping to get off to a good start and build some momentum in its opening game.

The Keg will be shortstop Har-numn for the winners with 18 allowed Knies in the scoring column for the team. The Legion will have to work hard to get a win.

The Wind-up event will be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Art's Lounge of Mankato. The event will be a fundraiser for the Keg, a local bar and grill.

Stock prices move lower

NEW YORK (AP) - Against a backdrop of continuing uncertainty over the international situation, U.S. stock markets fell further Monday as traders again focused on the Middle East tensions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 26.33 to 564.98 and the New York Stock Exchange composite index dropped 6.18 to 111.68. Both indexes have lost 200 points since April 19.

Analysts said investors were worried about future violence, the uncertainty situation, resulting from the Arab-Israeli crisis, was cited as the main reason for the sell-off in the markets today. Many analysts said today that the government's lack of stepped-up measures to curb the oil crisis was the real cause of the selling.

Ramos claims lightweight championship

MADRID (AP) - Argentinian Mando "Pampa" Ramos won the lightweight championship of the World Boxing Council in Spain on points to become the first Argentinian to win the title.

Ramos, who lives in a little black and white house in the South American country, on Monday said he was "happy" to have won the title.

"I was very happy because it was a difficult fight," he said. "I think the judges gave me the decision.

He added that he had "nothing to lose" because he was "young and strong" and that he would continue training hard to keep his title.

The fight was held in Spain, but in Buenos Aires, Ramos was cheered by the Argentine team, who were also present in the crowd.

Ramos was a former military man and had served in the army before turning to boxing. He is a former soldier in the Argentine army.

The victory was Ramos's first in his professional career and he is now expected to be the top contender in the lightweight division.

The WBC has been in existence since 1962 and is the world's premier boxing organization.

In the fight held between Argentina and Cuba, Ramos defeated Havana's Ezequiel "El Loco" Garcia in the 10th round to win the WBC lightweight title.

Ramos, 32, had fought Garcia, 30, in something of a virtual "wrestling" match, but refused to give up when the Cuban boxer apparently pulled ahead in the early rounds of the bout.

The picture was all from southern California where Ramos was born.

In the second bout between the two fighters, Ramos again defeated Garcia, this time in the 10th round, to retain his WBC lightweight title.

The WBC has been in existence since 1962 and is the world's premier boxing organization.

The victory was Ramos's first in his professional career and he is now expected to be the top contender in the lightweight division.
