Nixon seeks $2.3 billion on development

WASHINGTON (AP) - In a speech today, President Nixon said he will ask Congress for $2.3 billion to aid磁 communities in developing new sources of energy.

"The initiative we need," he said, "is to make energy development a priority for our country and a means of fulfilling the need for a better world." The president said the proposal would include $500 million for research and development, $500 million for construction of new plants, and $1.3 billion for loans to states and communities for the purpose of building new facilities.

Your local leaders can go on spending it the way Washington intended it for community development.

"We leave them in trust in the hands of the people," he said, "so that they will be able to take care of their own problems." The president said the money would be distributed through a federal agency, and that the states would have to develop a plan for using it.

Nixon's $2.3 billion proposal, announced into Sunlight as part of the executive's approach to the fiscal showdown, will be counterproductive to our interest.

"We are confident they will act to cut spending, not raising taxes," he said. "We will not be deterred by the opposition to our proposals."

PCA not pressing Homer on sewers

By RAYMOND R. BUCK

MINNEAPOLIS — House Speaker Kermit Bakken indicated Tuesday that he is not actively pursuing passage of the controversial sewer bill favored by Mayor Homer J. Hadfield through the state legislature.

"There is no question that there is a lot of pressure on this bill," Bakken said. "But I'm not willing to do anything that's going to hurt the state of Minnesota."

Bakken, who is a strong supporter of Home's programs, said he is not interested in forcing the bill through the Legislature.

"I don't think the people of Minnesota are ready for it," he said. "I think they're ready for what we're doing now."
Shriver hits Nixon for killing poverty programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Economic Opportunity Act was a cornerstone of President John F. Kennedy's Great Society. This year, the administration of his successor, President Richard Nixon, is planning to kill it.

"The war on poverty was that we were going to help the poor by providing them with the training and opportunities to get jobs," said Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., the brother of President Kennedy. "But now the Nixon administration is cutting back on the program."...
They’ve been heading north toward the reservation for a week, and they aren’t stopping for anything — not even the严 (1) in the Pig Road. They’re on their way to Wounded Knee, and they’re not coming back.

But they’re not the only ones heading north. There are others, too. The police, for one. They’ve been tracking the Indians, trying to stop them from reaching their goal. They’ve been trying to stop them for days.

And they’re not the only ones trying to stop them. The military is also involved. They’ve been sent in to guard the reservation, to keep the Indians from crossing it.

It’s a tense situation. The police and the military are both on high alert, and they’re both ready to act at any moment.

But the Indians aren’t giving up. They’re determined to reach their goal, and they won’t be stopped.

They know what they’re doing is illegal. They know they’re breaking the law. But they believe in what they’re doing, and they’re willing to risk it all for their cause.

And so they continue their journey, heading north toward the reservation, ready to take on whatever comes their way.

The American public has been told that the President's plan to end the war in Vietnam would have to be approved by Congress. But the President has not yet formally requested congressional approval. It is possible that the President may ask Congress to authorize the use of military force in Vietnam. If Congress approves, the President would be able to take military action without further congressional approval.

The war in Vietnam has been going on for almost 40 years. It has cost the lives of over 50,000 American soldiers and thousands of Vietnamese. The war has also caused immense suffering and destruction in Vietnam.

The war in Vietnam is a complex and multilayered conflict. It involves not only the United States and Vietnam, but also many other countries, including China, the Soviet Union, and France.

The United States has been fighting a war in Vietnam since 1961. The United States' involvement in the war has been controversial, and it has faced widespread criticism from around the world.

The United States' policy toward Vietnam has been characterized by a series of military interventions and military campaigns. The United States has been trying to prevent North Vietnam from gaining control of the South.

The United States has also been involved in efforts to negotiate a peaceful end to the war. The United States has participated in several rounds of talks with the Vietnamese government, but these talks have been unsuccessful.

The United States' role in the war has been controversial, and there have been many debates about the war's causes and consequences. The war has been a source of great conflict and division within the United States, and it has also had a profound impact on the United States' international relations.

President's popularity spirals in wake of cease-fire agreement

Harris Survey

In the wake of the settlement of the Vietnam war, President Nixon is making a considerable popularity gain with the American people, according to a Harris survey released Friday. The public gives him 32 percent favorable, down 3 percent from the December 1972 poll.

On the negative side, the ballot between the two-thirds of the public that disapproved of the war and the one-third that approved was 79 percent to 21 percent.

The American people do their President a lot of good. Despite a recent campaign in Vietnam to a close and 62 percent for the peace terms agreed to in the Vietnam settlement. On the overall job he did in his first term in office, the public gave him 58 percent favorable, down 1 percent from December 1972.

The public is also aware of the public opinion is likely split on any issue he can make.

In rendering this appraisal, the American people see the Vietnam to a close "and 62 percent for the "peace terms agreed to in the Vietnam settlement." On the overall job he did in his first term in office, the public agreed, down 5 percent, that Mr. Nixon did not inspire confidence as a President and has not inspired a majority of the public to agree with many of the cuts, but is unwilling to criticize the public." He is experienced and smart, especially during the time he occupied the White House, because people are some.

The public agreed, 49-35 percent, that Mr. Nixon did not inspire confidence as a President and has not inspired a majority of the public to agree with many of the cuts, but is unwilling to criticize the public. By 49-35 percent, the public does not agree with many of the cuts, but is unwilling to criticize the public.

Perhaps it's the element that is the President's greatest asset. The American people are really very happy about the public policies, 61 percent to 9 percent.

Mr. Nixon, turned around the economic picture, but there was a recession in 1974. There has been a recession in 1974. There has been a recession in 1974. The American people are really very happy about the public policies, 61 percent to 9 percent.

Minnesota job-safety bill tougher than federal OSHA

By GORDON LARSEN
ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The state Senate on Monday approved a landmark law that would give Minnesota workers a stronger voice in their own workplace safety.

The bill, passed 54-20, would give workers the right to inspect their workplaces, consult with their employers about workplace hazards, and refuse to work in unsafe conditions.

The law would also establish a statewide system of workplace safety inspectors, who would be responsible for enforcing the law and conducting inspections.

The bill now goes to the House, where it is expected to pass easily.

School superintendent primary key issue on Wisconsin ballot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Milwaukee Journal-Sentinel was first to report the story.

AFL-CIO, noted that the nation-

State Sen. Robert Jauch, D-Minneapolis, said the bill was a "common-sense" approach to workplace safety.

Jauch said the bill would help ensure that workers have a "voice in their own workplace" and that employers are held accountable for creating a safe work environment.

The bill would also establish a workers' compensation system that would provide benefits to workers who are injured on the job.

The bill now goes to the Senate for consideration.

Inflation psychology still deeply imbedded

By J. C. O'DAY

Inflation psychology is deeply imbedded in the minds of consumers, according to a recent survey.

The survey, conducted by the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, found that more than 80 percent of consumers expect prices to rise in the next year.

The survey also found that more than half of consumers expect prices to rise by more than 5 percent.

The findings suggest that inflation expectations are still very strong, even though the overall level of inflation has been relatively low in recent years.

Work committee franttic in S.D.

By J. C. O'DAY

The South Dakota Senate Education Committee was hard at work last week, trying to wrap up a number of education bills.

Committee members were busy considering a wide range of issues, including teacher pay, school funding, and school facilities.

The committee held about 20 meetings over the course of the week, and members were often seen leaving the committee room with their heads down, apparently deep in thought.

In addition to teacher pay, the committee also considered bills that would provide additional funding for schools, and that would allow schools to use more technology in the classroom.

The committee is expected to continue working on these and other issues in the coming weeks, but it is not clear when they will be able to come to a final decision.
State prisoners on route home

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

From Minnesota, prisoners are on the way home from long years of imprisonment in Vietnam and other parts of Southeast Asia, finding their way back home to the states of origin.

"He was happy to be out and he looked as if he was some good news," said Mrs. Thorsness. "I'm happy to be out and I'm looking forward to the day when I can get back to normal." Mrs. Thorsness, whose parents live in La Crosse, Wis., has been held as a POW since April 1967, and was released from captivity last week.

"I'm happier than I was before," Mrs. Thorsness said.

Colleagues impressed with work done by Long

By RICHARD B. LANG

WASHINGTON (AP) - Robert D. Long, dryer, became well known as a member of the House Ways and Means Committee after he proposed that the committee should hold hearings to investigate the influence of the petroleum industry.

Mr. Long was not particularly successful in driving this matter, but with his experience in the house and his ability to think and operate on the floor, it is expected that he will be a successful member of the committee.

The hearing was set for Wednesday, and will be conducted by the committee's chairman, J. M. Lyman, who is also the committee's chief counsel.

The hearing will be held in the committee chambers, and will begin at 10 a.m. and end at 5 p.m.

Rebounding key to WSC-Augsburg game

By Bruce Closkey

Daily News Sports Writer

Green on the last day of the regular season may not have been the most important game of the year for the WSC, but Todd's night will be a memory that will last forever for the players and fans of WSC.

The Gophers, as expected, took the lead in the first half, and Todd's game was being watched by everyone, especially the players making their way to the court for the second half.

Todd's game will be remembered as one of the greatest performances in WSC history, and it will be a shining example of how hard work and dedication can lead to success.

One of the most important games of the season was played tonight at the Boston Garden, and it was a battle between the two teams that seemed destined for greatness.

The game was between the Bruins and the Gophers, and it was a must-win game for both teams. The Bruins were leading by 10 points in the first half, but the Gophers fought back to tie the game in the second half.

The game was a back-and-forth battle, with the Bruins leading by 4 points with 3 minutes left in the game. However, the Gophers were able to come back and tie the game once again with just over a minute left.

The game ended in a 76-76 tie, and it will be remembered as one of the greatest games in the history of the WSC-AA.

Lotz to coach Florida

LUCASVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Al Lotz has been named head coach of the Florida hockey team. Lotz, who spent the last season as assistant coach of the Minnesota team, replaces the late Jimmy Ostrander, who died earlier this month.

Lotz, who is 66, has been involved in hockey for many years. He played for the Minnesota Golden Gophers and later coached the team for several seasons. He has also served as an assistant coach for several other teams.

Lotz is a native of Winslow, Minnesota, and has been married to his wife, Mary, for 40 years. They have three children and 10 grandchildren.
