Second, the article discusses the arguments made by double-bottom opponents and proponents. Opponents argue that double-bottom trucks would increase the cost of transportation and harm rural areas. Proponents claim that double-bottom trucks could increase efficiency and reduce congestion on the roads.

The article mentions a bill that was introduced to permit double-bottom trucks. The bill was opposed by railroads who argued that it would hurt their business. The bill passed the House of Representatives but was blocked in the Senate by a filibuster led by Senator Marion E. Stamp of North Dakota.

The article also mentions a proposal to lower the federal minimum wage to $1.80 per hour. The proposal was introduced by Representative Paul K. Barden of Texas and was expected to be voted on again, but it was never brought to the floor.

The article concludes with a mention of a bill that would allow airline pilots who are members of labor unions to strike without losing their union membership. The bill was introduced by Representative George W. Miller of New York and was expected to be voted on during the session.

Manufacturers deny cereals harm teeth

By John H. Banks

WABINGTON (AP) - Manufacturers denied Monday that their daily sugar use in cereals was a health threat, saying they hadn't done enough research to prove it.

Officials of the Salvation and General Nutrition Councils, who adopted a resolution on sugar in cereals in January, said that they had not been able to prove any health threat.

The resolution, which was adopted by the two councils, said that the use of sugar in cereals should be reduced, but that it was too early to say whether the resolution was necessary.

Edgar Wallin, a director of the Council on Nutrition and Health, said that he believed the resolution was unnecessary.

Indians threaten disruption

BY STAR PERRY

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Indians will disrupt America's 200th birthday party if their needs of the American Indian are not met, said James Chadwick, leader of the American Indian Movement.

Of course, he said, the Indians would consider the government's offer to supply them with food and medical supplies, but they would demand more than that.

"The American government, he said, could at least provide the hostages with their weapons and with the freedom to leave Wounded Knee," said Chadwick.

The hostages were later released intact, and several of the tribal leaders of South Dakota met with AIM representatives today.

"We've told them not to point their guns at anyone," said Corby, leader of the American Indian Movement.

"Our friends in the village, which they've held since March, are preparing to blow the American government under a three-year deadline to recognize the self-governance of the American Indian," said Chadwick.

Who you, Oglala Sioux?

It is time to tell the Indian of the United States what the facts are.

1. The American Indian is no stranger to the United States. As this is a great day in the history of the Indian, the white, the Pals and the English.

2. The American Indians have not been "here" only a few minutes at a time for a few hundred years, but have been here for centuries.

3. The American Indians are not a race — and never have been. The United States, with its other governmental units, are the same — the same governmental units as the Indian.

4. The American Indians are just like any other human race in the world, with one exception: they have no state. There is no state for the Indian — there are only the Indians.

5. Segregation is not allowed in any modern society. The American Indian is not allowed to go to school with the white, or to work in the same places. He is not allowed to vote. He is not allowed to run for office, or to be on a jury.

THE AMERICAN INDIAN should be allowed to vote. If he is not allowed to vote, he has no right to any other kind of freedom.

He is not special, nor in his history, nor in his culture.

He is In War Pose — entitled to no protection against any kind of discrimination.

There have been no broken treaties — there has been no legal treaties.

The Indian is entitled exclusively to all AP news dispatches.

Legislature ends one long queue

It’s difficult to understand why a lot of people seem to think that the Indian is entitled to all kinds of benefits. The Indian is entitled to all kinds of benefits. He is entitled to all kinds of benefits. He is entitled to all kinds of benefits.

Violence is form of suicide

It is rather difficult to see the disguised reasons that are so often given about the necessity and the leadership of this type of violence. Instead, there is a kind of weakness in the argument that violence is necessary to maintain the status quo. People seem to feel that if they can't solve the problem in a peaceful manner, then violence is the only option left to them.

As an example, a white man in the United States now goes out and becomes a black woman. This man would have to be sick in the first place to need to get into a black ghetto area and misuses a black woman sexually. People, white and black, have the mistaken idea that it is somehow necessary to get revenge. Mind you, there are small minority of individuals who feel that to forget a wrong, they need to get revenge on the individual who committed the wrong.

We have all witnessed this type of violence. It is not uncommon to see violence being used as a means of controlling others. Sometimes, it is used as a means of intimidation, and other times, it is used as a way to make a statement.

The problem is that violence is often used as a means of communication. People who are engaged in violent acts often believe that they are communicating something important. However, the reality is that violence is a form of suicide. It is a way of ending one's life instead of addressing the underlying issues.

We must work on finding peaceful solutions to the problems that we face. This will require a willingness to listen and to understand the perspectives of others. It will also require a commitment to working towards a better future for everyone. The key is to find ways to build bridges rather than walls.

To the editor

Reducing lot size opposed

Currently some self-interest groups in the city and the Wabasha County area are attempting to change the future size of their homes. They are proposing to reduce the lot size, but this seems like a very bad idea.

The planning commission has stated that having requirements for minimum lot sizes is important in order to maintain the character of the area. In fact, this is necessary for the public safety. In the past, there have been several problems caused by restrictions. It is in the best interest of the community to have a minimum lot size in order to prevent future problems.

The additions that will be proposed by the planning commission are not necessary. The community already has requirements that prevent future problems. By having requirements for minimum lot sizes, we are able to protect the character of the area.

If you are a resident and you have an interest in Wabasha County, you should attend the planning commission meetings. It is important to be aware of what is being proposed in order to protect the character of the area.

Wabasha school board objects to use of welfare board office

It was brought to my attention that the Welfare Board is using the office of the school board. This is a very serious issue that needs to be addressed.

The school board is responsible for the education of the children in the community. To use the office of the school board for the purpose of running the Welfare Board is unacceptable. The school board should not allow this to happen.

We must work towards finding peaceful solutions to the problems that we face. This will require a willingness to listen and to understand the perspectives of others. It will also require a commitment to working towards a better future for everyone. The key is to find ways to build bridges rather than walls.

A local railroad (relocation) study is a staff project that has been ordered by the Winona councilmen as a result of plans for an industrial area south of the railroad tracks. Councilman Paul G. I have a son who has been very reluctant to set up in practice. He knows how old he is, but he's only 24. I employed his fair share of advertisements and he insists that he would not be able to consider it now because he does not have enough customers.

Would you have ever been in this situation? What would you have done?
WSHS student trips authorized

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — State Rep. James Ulland says he will introduce legislation to authorize student trips, including a planned trip to the Canadian border. The trip is scheduled for April 16th and would be open to all high school students.

Ulland said the trip would allow students to explore the natural and cultural resources of the area, including visiting historical sites and national parks. He also expressed confidence that the trip would be well-received by students, parents, and educators alike.

Representative talks about being frisked

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — State Rep. James Ulland says he was stopped and frisked by St. Paul police after being accused of being drunk. Ulland said he was stopped while driving near a popular bar and was questioned by a police officer.

Ulland said the officer was overly aggressive and, while he was frisked, the officer continued to question him. The officer's behavior led to a tense confrontation, which Ulland says was unnecessary and unwarranted.

The incident occurred Friday night, when Ulland and Dan Hoene of Duluth were driving near an inland's St. Paul apartment. According to Ulland, the officer continued to question him and even radioed police headquarters to verify his identity.

Police spokesman said Ulland was stopped for appearing to be drunk two beers hours earlier, but he was not under the influence. The officer continued his questioning and then radioed police headquarters to verify his identity.

Ulland said the policeman continued anyway. He said the police officer continued to question him and then radioed police headquarters to verify his identity.

The police officer continued to question Ulland and Hoene, a weekend guest of inland's, is a player with the high school Spanish Club and was refused entry to the high school Spanish Club party on the grounds of being a foreigner. The incident occurred Monday night in ceremonies at Valley View Tower. Vernon Sbielser, right, accepted the charter in the absence of chapter president Joseph C. Page.

Inauspicious start

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Wilson State basketball fans learned their Oregon State men were to be the first of a series of surprises Friday night, when the Beavers lost to Stanford, 99-82.

The Starks and the Beavers, which were holding hands behind the scenes, let out a sigh of relief when the crowd quieted down and the referees took charge.

Mighty Minnesota Saturday

It was a night of surprises as the crowd's favorite team, the mighty Minnesota Saturday, was upset by a blue chip basketball team. The crowd was left wondering what had happened.

Snyder didn't believe

But today Wildcat coach Brad Snyder didn't believe it had happened. He said it was a great upset, but it didn't mean anything.

And they won

The bad Duke Jones also didn't believe it had happened. He said it was a great upset, but it didn't mean anything.

EVANSTON, Ill.

(March 14) — It's Kentucky State, which is seeking an unprecedented fourth-straight championship, that's the talk of the tournament.

Warriors can change that

The Thoro-who's watching the basketball tourney, only South Dakota Tech's half a dozen or so came down on their own Sunday.

WSC fans protest

The Warriors can change that.

Submitted his resignation yesterday after four thrilling years as coach of Northwestern's basketball team.

The Wildcats struggled mightily, Minnesota State was the biggest surprise, and it's a big boost to the team's morale.

"We haven't been in the NCAA playoffs for a long time. It's just that in 20% of our games, we've had to play against great teams," said the coach.
