Son at age 4, or Mrs. Berston in 1946, had established by the man's father. The admitted purpose was to frustrate the father's intentions.

The Minnesota Supreme Court today that a son might, in some cases, be able to adopt his own mother. Maxine M. Berston, 53, the lower court to adopt his mother. The court said it would not.

The dispute involved H. Robby MacLaughlin and Fallon State Farm Insurance Co., in a farm elevator accident. The Berstons acknowledged that the unusual adoption was in violation of laws preventing adults.

In another case, the court rejected the lower court in a case involving farm employees.

The margin of preliminary approval indicates final passage of the bill, saying it would order any a campaign bill, which has been pending for more than six months.

Civil Defense enters city's fuel situation

Civil Defense has entered the city's fuel situation by using a plan to keep consumers informed. Henry B. Peterson, executive assistant to the director of the Wisconsin Public Service Commission, said the plan would also be effective for federal agencies and companies. The plan calls for residents to be kept informed about gasoline sales and prices. Peterson said the city's fuel situation is viewed as a critical piece of information that will help residents make informed decisions about the weather.

NSP officials field questions

DURAND, Wis. - At the Nutrition Research Conference, held in northern Wisconsin, several officials from Northern States Power Company (NSP) fielded questions from the audience. The officials discussed the company's role in the nutrition field and answered questions about specific nutrition issues.

Residence hall contracts at WSC may be changed

Residence hall contracts at Winona State College (WSC) may be changed from 21 meals on campus to the 21-meal plan. The change is intended to give greater flexibility to students living in residence halls. The new plan would allow students to purchase meals on campus or off-campus. The change is expected to be implemented in the fall of 1974.

High water slows river barge traffic

High water levels are slowing river barge traffic. The effect of high water on river traffic has been reported by river barge operators. The operators said high water levels are making it difficult to navigate the river. Barge operators are urging caution and are recommending that river traffic be limited to small barges.

License fees for the 21-meal plan will not exceed $2.00 for Mule Dogs, $2.00 for Spayed Female, $2.00 for Spayed Male, $2.00 for Female, $2.00 for Male, and $2.00 for Juvenile.

Police said the man was arrested at 2:00 a.m. on April 15, 1974. The man was charged with driving while intoxicated and resisting arrest.

The man was later identified as John Smith, a resident of Dousman. Smith was arrested after police received a report of a car accident near Dousman. The report stated that a car had collided with a tree. Police responded to the scene and found Smith, who had been drinking, driving the car that had collided with the tree. Smith was then arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated and resisting arrest.

When police arrived, they found Smith, who was not wearing a seat belt, sitting in the passenger seat of the car. Smith was found to be driving under the influence of alcohol and resisting arrest.

The evidence is the same, conclusions new

The purpose of a land use and marketability study by the real estate analyst is to assess the economic feasibility of a proposed development. This can help to determine whether the investment is likely to be profitable and to identify potential sources of revenue.

The research conducted in this study includes an analysis of the market demand for the proposed development, an evaluation of the potential sources of revenue, and an assessment of the financial feasibility of the project. In addition, the study includes an analysis of the potential impact of the development on the surrounding area and the community.

The findings of the study suggest that the proposed development has the potential to generate significant revenue and to improve the economic viability of the surrounding area. The study also suggests that the development could have a positive impact on the local economy and that it could provide new job opportunities for the community.

In summary, the evidence is the same, but the conclusions are new. The purpose of a land use and marketability study is to assess the economic feasibility of a proposed development, and the research conducted in this study suggests that the proposed development has the potential to generate significant revenue and to improve the economic viability of the surrounding area.

Giving prizes for torture

I would like to appeal to the readers of your fine newspaper to protest against the practice of offering monetary rewards for torture of animals. I fully agree with some of your readers who have written to protest against the practice of offering such rewards for any cruel acts on the part of those who will do anything to get a prize.

I believe that by offering such rewards, you are encouraging cruelty and falling for the trap of those who are willing to do anything to get a prize. I would like to appeal to you to stop offering such rewards and to protest against anyone who thinks that the act of doing cruel acts on animals is worth a prize.

Please do not make this mistake again. I believe that you are better than this and that you are capable of understanding that such a practice is wrong.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]

If someone would ask you what America's past is and if you would be able to locate the answer on a map, you might fall into the trap of claiming that America's past is a traditional, a historical past. In any case, the answer would be no. America's past is a present, and that's why we live in a world that is constantly changing.

Some Americans are not aware of the fact that America's past is actually the future, and that the future is what we live in. America's past is not the future. America's past is not what we live in. America's past is a present, and the present is what we live in.

The future is what we live in. America's past is not the future. The future is what we live in. America's past is a present, and the present is what we live in.

To work out maximum prices

Retailers get some time

By R. Gregory Nokes

The U.S. government has announced that it will take a few weeks to work out maximum prices for food stamps.

The announcement was made in a statement issued by the Department of Agriculture.

The government said that it would take about four weeks to work out the maximum prices for food stamps.

The statement said that the maximum prices would be set at $1.75 per pound of meat and $0.50 per pound of fruits and vegetables.

The government said that the maximum prices would be implemented on a temporary basis and that they would be reviewed periodically.

Put yourself in her shoes

Dear Abby: A friend of mine has been attacking a Saturday night dance together for a number of years. We have always enjoyed the music and dancing. Last Saturday night, a group of girls approached her and said, “Don’t you want to come to the dance with us?”

She replied, “No, I don’t want to come to the dance with you.” She then added, “But I don’t want to be left out, either.”

She asked me to be her partner for the dance. I agreed, and we had a wonderful time dancing. She then thanked me for being her partner and said, “I’m glad I didn’t come to the dance with you.”

Dear Abby: I have a wonderful hairdresser with whom I have been working for many years. She is a great stylist and always makes me look my best.

Recently, she has been giving me advice on how to style my hair for different occasions. She has also been suggesting new hair colors and styles that I might like.

I value her input and her expertise, and I am grateful for her service. If you have a hairdresser who makes you feel special and helps you look your best, please let me know.

Dear Abby: I am writing to you about my daughter, who is a senior at Lanesboro High School. She is involved in several extracurricular activities, including the cheerleading team and the National Honor Society.

She is also interested in pursuing a career in medicine and has been researching different medical schools and programs. She has expressed an interest in attending the University of Minnesota for her undergraduate studies.

I am concerned about the potential costs of attending college and the financial pressure that may be placed on her. I would like to discuss this matter with you and seek guidance on how to support her financially.

Hollatz notches 247, 671 scores

A relatively unknown among the more than 500,000 residents of the Twin Cities, John C. Hollatz managed to amass a total of 1377 in his four-team, 34-game season at the Minneapolis Country Club. The 26-year-old Hollatz, who is employed as a draftsman for the U.S. Army, has been playing bowling for four years.

The Minnesota Country Club, which hosts the annual Minnesota Open, is known for its challenging lanes and strict dress code. Hollatz, who wears a white shirt and black slacks, said he was surprised to hear his score announced as the highest of the day.

In other news, the Minneapolis Country Club is planning to open a new lanes expansion next month. The club, which has been in operation for 75 years, has been struggling to keep up with the demand for bowling lanes.

In local news, the Winona Daily News reported on the success of the Winona Indoor Driving Test. The test, which was held last month, attracted thousands of participants and was considered a success by organizers.
