Aides to visit prosecutor

By BROOKS JACKSON
WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. John Ehrlichman and John D. Ehrlichman are scheduled to be in Washington Friday to be interviewed by the Senate Watergate investigation committee.

Later the two are scheduled to meet investigators. Both are expected to be unavailable for the resicing committee's summer recess.

The White House said the two aides had agreed to meet.

The White House aides, who are expected to meet May 31 and today a resolution declaring it.

The two aides were among the most powerful in the Nixon administration during the Watergate scandal.

Indians ask restoration of county as reservation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indians are asking that their county be restored as a reservation. In a letter to Interior Secretary Brian D. O'Neill, numerous tribal officials from the Menominee Indians are requesting that the county of Menominee, Michigan, be returned to its status as a reservation.

They say the county was granted to the tribe in 1854 but was later dissolved under the 1934 Indian Reorganization Act and never re-established as a reservation. The Menominee have been working to have the county restored as a reservation for several years.

The Menominee tribe has been fighting to have the county restored as a reservation for nearly 50 years. They argue that the tribe has a strong connection to the land and should be able to manage it as a reservation.

The case is currently before the federal court, and a decision is expected soon.

Bill increases 1974 tax relief

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The House has agreed to a $38.5 million tax relief package for the state, which was suggested by Lucey. The committee has added $38.5 million for this year. A joint Finance Committee, chaired by Kenyon Kies, the chair of the agency, has recommended the package.

The Assembly has already approved the state budget proposal now being considered by the Senate. The Senate has added $38.5 million for this year. A joint Finance Committee, chairs by Kenyon Kies, the chair of the agency, has recommended the package.
... that Grand Old Flag — It's taken a lot the past several years. We're sorry that some people saw fit to take out their displeasure on the Stars and Stripes. Sure, we've got lots of problems. But the flag stands for an ideal that we ALL should believe in. Let's keep that ideal before us...let's fly the flag PROUDLY!!

Most federal corruption is serious

While the American people have heard many of the details of the Watergate case and even been, to some extent, bewildered, no one could fail to be impressed at the size of the Watergate case and the long time it has taken to come to light. It is hard to follow, but it is clear that the Watergate case is serious.

The Watergate case is like a dramatic crescendo of the Vietnam case. The public is now convinced that the Watergate case is serious. As a businessman in Galveston, Texas, put it: "The Watergate case is worse than the Vietnam case." This result is interesting and significant, for a number of reasons. For one thing, it shows that Mitchell was not involved.

A close to 2-to-1, 25-13, percent, those with opinions label the Watergate case as a "whitewash." The survey showed that 39-21 percent, almost 2-to-1, most of those with opinions now agree with the statement: "Doing what, Richard?"

For another thing, the public felt the same way, but by a much narrower margin. And then you gave me a ball point pen."

President Nixon, and his close associates, have been accused of writing millions of dollars in checks in the name of "the President," using them to bribe and to defraud. "We must show the American people that if they trust us with the highest office in the land, we will not betray that trust.

The new Senate majority rate corruption at the federal level to be worse in five to 10 years than it is now. This result is interesting and significant, for a number of reasons. For one thing, it shows that Mitchell was not involved.

French nuclear test plans making some political waves

The French nuclear test plans are causing concern among nations around the world, and especially in countries in the Pacific Basin. The French government has announced plans to conduct a series of nuclear tests in the Mururoa Atoll, which is located in the French Polynesia. These tests are expected to cause significant environmental damage and could have serious implications for the health and safety of those living in the region.

The International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) has expressed concern over the French test plans, and has called on France to suspend its nuclear testing activities. The IAEA has also urged the United Nations to take action to prevent the French tests from going ahead. The UN Security Council has also been called on to intervene.

However, the French government has defended its right to conduct nuclear tests, and has argued that it is important to maintain a strong nuclear deterrent to protect its national interests. The French government has also pointed to the fact that it has already conducted numerous tests in the Mururoa Atoll, and that these tests have not caused any significant environmental damage.

Despite the concerns expressed by the IAEA and other international organizations, the French government has continued to push ahead with its plans for the nuclear tests. This has led to calls for a global moratorium on nuclear testing, and for the United Nations to take decisive action to prevent the French tests from going ahead.

The French government has also been accused of using the nuclear tests as a way to strengthen its position on the international stage, and to assert its influence in the Pacific Basin. This has led to concerns that the French tests could be used as a tool to pressure other nations into accepting French demands.

In conclusion, the French nuclear test plans are causing significant concern among nations around the world, and especially in the Pacific Basin. The IAEA and other international organizations have called on France to suspend its nuclear testing activities, but the French government has continued to push ahead with its plans. The United Nations has also been called on to intervene, but it remains to be seen whether this will be effective in preventing the French tests from going ahead.

United States New York farmer learns odd habits of bison

Over the years Tucker bought, sold, and raised bison for the help of a herd man, Ted Williams. "Last summer turned out and I bought 100 head when the prices were $700 to $800," Ted said. "Tender youngster turned out to be a good deal too much, and we sold them all at the price of $500 to $600.

Tucker was cautious about the purchase, but in the end, he decided to keep the bison. "I've been raising bison for a number of years," he said. "They require a lot of care and attention, but the results can be very rewarding.

These drugs may be just as effective as DES in increasing the chances of success, but they may also have some side effects. The Delaney Amendment requires that any drug used in livestock must be proved safe and effective for its intended use.

The Food and Drug Administration will keep checking for residues of the synthetic growth hormone as of Jan. 1, and on April 25, to determine how much is actually being used. If residues are found, the drug will not be approved for use.

For corn producers in this area, a new aspect of the problem is that the blight is spreading more slowly than it did for southern corn blight. While southern corn blight has been reported throughout most areas of the corn belt, the problem, if any, will likely be localized. in individual fields.

The problem this year has been identified as Helminthosporium sativum, and tests are currently under way to determine how the blight is spreading and how it can be controlled.

Radioactivity featured in talk to farmers.

DELANO, Minn. — There is a new market for producing species based on the radioactive content of their tissues, according to Dr. Edward Pryzina, a biologist from River Falls.

"Radiation exposure can be a valuable indicator of the health of an ecosystem," said Pryzina.

"By measuring the levels of radiation in different species, we can learn about the health of the environment and the potential for bioenergy production." Pryzina mentioned examples such as using radioactive tracers in crop production or using radiation-resistant crops in areas with high radiation levels.

Twins frozen by cold, Indians

By RAY THOMPSON

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Game 1 of the American League's first-place playoff series between the Minnesota Twins and the Cleveland Indians will be played Thursday if Indians pitcher Gaylord Perry can overcome the cold.

Perry said Wednesday that the cold has not affected him and that he will be ready to pitch in whatever weather conditions there are.

"I'm not going to be out there pitching in the cold," he said. "I'm going to be out there pitching in the heat." Perry's previous appearance in Minnesota was during the 1969 season, when he pitched for the Twins.

"I think it's going to be a great game," he added. "I think it's going to be a great playoff game." Perry has a record of 15-7 against the Twins in his career.

"I think the Twins are going to have a tough time against Gaylord Perry," said Indians manager Lou Boudreau. "He's got a great record against the Twins and he's got a great fastball." Boudreau said that he expects Perry to pitch well and give the Indians a chance to win.

"We're going to have to pitch well if we want to beat Gaylord Perry," he added. "He's got a great fastball and he's got a great curveball." Perry's fastball has a speed of 95 to 100 miles per hour, according to Boudreau.
