Grand jury to probe
Patricia Hearst role

By DONALD R. TRACY
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A grand jury in San Francisco is investigating whether a 20-year-old woman named Patricia Hearst. could be held criminally responsible for her role in a bank robbery.

Hearst was named by a former associate of the bank robber as a "witness for the prosecution" in the trial of the bank robbers.

Hearst was charged with robbing the bank of $10,960, which was the amount taken.

The grand jury was investigating whether Hearst had any knowledge of the robbery or whether she was involved in any way.

The grand jury was also looking into whether Hearst had any contacts with the bank robbers or whether she had any knowledge of the robbery.

The grand jury was not looking into whether Hearst was involved in the robbery itself.

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — This middle-aged woman didn’t have to be at Chester County Hospital until January, owing to high blood pressure. This, she said, in a series of three articles. Fortunately for the patient and her husband, they have been able to control their blood.

At 1 a.m. she appeared at the hospital’s emergency room, and was admitted, to begin tests. The admission was allowed to be postponed, but many of the tests were ordered. The tests were ordered.

Many doctors charged their patients for the tests. The woman was released the next day. She was a patient of the doctor who sits on the hospital’s medical board. The woman had been a patient of the doctor who sits at the hospital’s medical board.

eral judge rejecting a defense motion to dismiss charges on allegations of illegal wiretapping and other misconduct. The judge criticized the government for violating rules in the investigation of certain evidence as order suppressed. He also directed the FBI to obtain evidence picked up by monitoring the Wounded Knee Trading Post for the defense. Two lawyers in the American Indian Movement (AIM), Richard Howell, St. Louis, Mo., and Dennis Banks, 34, Porcupine, S.D., called on Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., to give them an answer to their request for information about the impact of the government's investigation of AIM. The judge also warned Defense lawyers to be more careful in handling evidence. "The whole affair was a mixed bag—some of the FBI's actions were illegal, but others were justified. But the government's behavior is a serious threat to our system of justice."

The shift in the politics of art

As a visitor enters New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art the first object confronting him is a new advertisement, the shifting skyline of the building, and the vastness of the interior space. The advertisement, which is placed prominently at the entrance of the museum, is designed to attract attention to the current exhibition at the museum.

NOT TO LONG AGO, in an essay on the so-called "art market," the author stated: "The art market is an area of uncertainty, instability, and fluctuation." This is still true today, as evidenced by the recent rise in the cost of living. The author went on to say: "The art market is a complex system, subject to many influences. It is a system that is difficult to understand, and it is a system that is subject to change."

WASHINGTON — It looks as if there's going to be some tapes turned over and a commission set up. The president has already called up David H. Libby on Feb. 28, and David Libby has said that he will start the commission to get the tapes out. The commission has already started.

On one of the tapes there is an interesting conversation with a man named Mr. Biddle, who says that it would be a good idea to turn over the tapes to the commission. The commission has already started.

Rising power costs detailed

ALMA, Wis. (AP) — The cost of power is going up more than 15 per cent in the Alma-La Crosse area, the Amos Electric Cooperative said Tuesday.

Jim H. Wilcox, in a letter to the company's members, said that the power costs had been increasing and that the rate increase was to accommodate that.

Mr. Wilcox said that the cooperative, which serves about 1,500 people in the area, had paid out $350,000 more on power costs in the first quarter of 1974 than it had in the first quarter of 1973. The rate increase of $0.001 per kWh was to offset this increase.

The rate increase will affect all members of the cooperative, including those who do not use power for their homes or businesses.

MINNESOTA GOVERNOR WALTER FREDERICKSON added another promise to the list of promises in today's activities when he announced that the state was preparing to spend $25,000 on the purchase of an additional 200 acres of land near the Mississippi River for use as a wildlife refuge.

This year's activities will include a variety of programs and events, from fishing derbies to bird counts, and will be held throughout the state. The governor encouraged Minnesotans to participate in these events and to help protect the state's natural resources.

New activities this year include a special program for children, which will feature interactive displays and educational materials. The governor also announced that the state will be expanding its efforts to control invasive species, with a focus on the Asian carp.

In other news, the governor said that the state will be increasing its funding for agricultural research, and that he looks forward to working with farmers and other stakeholders to develop innovative solutions to the challenges facing the state's agriculture sector.

This year's activities are just the beginning of the governor's efforts to protect and conserve Minnesota's natural resources. He encouraged all Minnesotans to get involved and to help make a difference.

Caution urged in use of poisons

When spraying from nearby fields, operators can control insects and weeds on the farm and in the hayfield. Some of the most common poisons used today are cyanide, poison, and many others.

In an attempt to detect the presence of insects and weeds, operators are encouraged to use the proper tools and techniques.

The results of recently completed tests indicate that the use of insecticides in the hayfield and in the hayfield is very important.

Court rules Kent State families can press suits

Cleveland (UPI) — The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that families of the 11 Ohioans slain in the May 4, 1970, shootings at Kent State University may press federal civil rights suits against Ohio National Guardsmen and the state of Ohio.

The court decision, 6-3, declared that the 11th Amendment prevents suits against the state, but did not affect federal civil rights suits against individual Guardsmen.

The suits, filed by the 11 victims, were dismissed last October by U.S. District Judge John P. Thomas.

Bulls face most crucial contest

Country Club opens Friday

Selling of the steers was finished with a bang in Winona yesterday, as 823 head were sold for $3.23 to $3.50 a hundred at the Pacific Invitational. The top bid was realized on a number of bulls which went to the 20th Century stockyard.

The auction was held in the City Auditorium, and the proceedings were conducted by C. J. Marren, who has been handling similar sales for many years.

The prices realized were slightly higher than those obtained at previous sales, and the buyers were from a wide area, including not only the local stockyards but also the larger ones in the neighboring counties.

The sale was opened with a few words of welcome from the auctioneer, who then proceeded to the sale of the steers.

The first lot was a 900-pound steer, which sold for $3.40 a hundred. The bidding continued in this manner, with the prices gradually increasing, until the last lot was sold.

The sale was a great success, and the proceeds will be a great help to the Pacific Invitational, which is a tax-supported school.

The auctioneer expressed his gratification at the large crowd that had gathered to witness the sale, and he said that he had every reason to believe that the sale would be a success.

The auction was concluded with a few words of appreciation from the auctioneer, who thanked all those who had assisted in the sale.
