Ehrlichman trial begins

By JOHN ECKLER
WASHINGTON (AP) - The Watergate break-in and cover-up, the White House scandal of 1972, was one of the more important political events in modern American history.

The investigation of the Watergate case was begun by the Senate Watergate committee, which was created in 1973 to investigate the Watergate break-in and cover-up.

The investigation lasted for several years, and was led by Senator Sam Ervin, who was the chairman of the committee.

The committee held numerous hearings and took testimony from many witnesses, including President Nixon.

The investigation resulted in the impeachment of President Nixon, who resigned from office in 1974.

Nixon evidence to be released

By LISA HAYDEN
WASHINGTON (AP) - The Washington Post has obtained a copy of the full report of the Watergate investigation.

The report, which was prepared by the Senate Watergate committee, was released to the public on July 17, 1974.

The report contains thousands of pages of evidence, including witness statements, documents, and transcripts of hearings.

The report is considered to be one of the most important documents in American history, and has been the subject of much debate and analysis.

Mayors issue Nixon challenge

By WILLIAM S. COLE
WASHINGTON (AP) - The Mayors of the United States have issued a challenge to President Richard Nixon.

On July 17, 1974, the Mayors of the United States met with President Nixon at the White House.

The Mayors presented a list of demands to President Nixon, which included increased funding for urban development, a moratorium on the construction of nuclear power plants, and a federal guarantee of public employee retirement.

The meeting was held in the wake of the Watergate scandal, which had led to the impeachment and resignation of President Nixon.

Security problem seen in detente

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) - The security problem in detente is one of the most important issues facing the United States today.

Detente, or détente, is a policy of relaxation and decrease in tensions between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The security problem in detente is the potential for conflict between the two nations, which could lead to a nuclear war.

The security problem in detente is one of the most important issues facing the United States today, and is a topic of much debate and analysis.

Board, maintenance workers agree on 13 percent pay hike

By E. GORDON DAVIS

The maintenance workers of the Winona County Highway Department have agreed to a 13 percent pay increase, the first substantial raise in 18 years for the group.

Dale Brewer, secretary of the Winona County Highway Department maintenance employees union chapter 139, said the contract also provided for an additional paid day off and more liberal medical and hospitalization coverage.

In accepting the board's contract, the maintenance employees in their original resolution to ratify the new contract, one of the maintenance employees returned to the bargaining table after a union representative returned to the bargaining table after a union representative joined the negotiations.

Brewer said that the teachers' prior increase of 1 percent over the existing wage schedule was not expected to be a springboard to higher raises, but they are hopeful that they will be able to negotiate for higher raises in the future.

The new contract, which goes into effect July 1, provides for a 1 percent increase in the first year, a 1 percent increase in the second year, and a 1 percent increase in the third year.

The new contract also includes a provision for a 1 percent increase in the fourth year, if the wages in the area do not increase by at least 1 percent.

The contract provides for a 1 percent increase in the fifth year, if the wages in the area do not increase by at least 1 percent.

The contract also provides for a 1 percent increase in the sixth year, if the wages in the area do not increase by at least 1 percent.

The contract also provides for a 1 percent increase in the seventh year, if the wages in the area do not increase by at least 1 percent.

The contract also provides for a 1 percent increase in the eighth year, if the wages in the area do not increase by at least 1 percent.

The contract also provides for a 1 percent increase in the ninth year, if the wages in the area do not increase by at least 1 percent.

The contract also provides for a 1 percent increase in the tenth year, if the wages in the area do not increase by at least 1 percent.

The contract also provides for a 1 percent increase in the eleventh year, if the wages in the area do not increase by at least 1 percent.

The contract also provides for a 1 percent increase in the twelfth year, if the wages in the area do not increase by at least 1 percent.

The contract also provides for a 1 percent increase in the thirteenth year, if the wages in the area do not increase by at least 1 percent.

The contract also provides for a 1 percent increase in the fourteenth year, if the wages in the area do not increase by at least 1 percent.

The contract also provides for a 1 percent increase in the fifteenth year, if the wages in the area do not increase by at least 1 percent.

Unmanned Soviet space lab in orbit

BRNO, Czech. (AP)— As an unmanned Soviet space lab crashed back to Earth today in a ball of fire and debris, the world wondered what it might mean for the future of space exploration.

The Soviet Union's Voskhod 2B space lab was launched last month, carrying two cosmonauts on a mission to test the effects of long-term flight on the human body.

Voskhod 2B was scheduled to return to Earth on February 15, but it crash-landed in the early morning hours today, sending a shock wave through the international community.

The Soviet cosmonauts, named Alexei Leonov and Pavel Belyayev, were expected to return safely, but the crash-landing has raised questions about the future of space exploration.

The Soviet Union's space program has been a source of pride and inspiration for many nations, but the crash-landing has raised concerns about the safety and reliability of the technology.

The crash-landing has also sparked renewed interest in the possibilities of manned space flight, as nations around the world consider their own space programs.

The world watched with bated breath as the Voskhod 2B space lab crashed back to Earth today, sending a signal to the future of space exploration.

Washington — The Senate judiciary committee voted to proceed with a 1970 subcommittee report that the late Democratic Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia had opposed to try to prove that his subcommittee had been improperly chaired by Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield.

The report, which was approved by a 12-11 vote, will be referred to the Senate Rules Committee for consideration.

The committee's report, which was completed last year, said that the subcommittee was improperly chaired by Mansfield in 1970 because it was a violation of Senate rules.

The subcommittee was formed to investigate alleged irregularities in the Senate's rules for the handling of subcommittee reports.

Byrd had been a member of the Senate majority and minority leadership for many years, and it was his belief that Mansfield was not qualified to chair the subcommittee.

The report also said that Mansfield had been involved in a conflict of interest in the case because he was also the Senate majority leader.

The committee's report said that Mansfield had improperly used his position as majority leader to influence the role of the subcommittee.

The report also said that the subcommittee had improperly conducted its work without a quorum of members.

"This is a mystery where a woman was murdered. The police have found a bullet that was fired into the victim. The bullet is still in the crime scene. The gun that fired the bullet has been found in the suspect's possession. The suspect has a history of violence and has been known to be mentally unstable. The crime scene has been thoroughly investigated and there is no evidence of any other crime being committed at the same time. The suspect is currently in custody and will be charged with first-degree murder. The victim's family is being supported by the police and social services. The community is asked to remain calm and avoid speculation."

New anti-cavity treatment taking hold in dentistry

By ELLIOTT REINHOLD
MONDAY, May 4 (UPI) — Anti-cavity treatments which put a plaster-like sealant on a tooth to prevent decay are now being used by dentists throughout the country.

This is according to Dr. Howard M. Meskin, a dentist specializing in preventive dentistry at the University of Minnesota School of Dentistry, and a former postgraduate student of Dr. John H. Mintz, head of the Dental School.

Dr. Meskin said that the sealant is used by dentists on teeth of children to stop the process of decay, and that it is also used on teeth of adults who have a high risk of developing cavities.

The sealant is applied by the dentist to the tooth, and is allowed to harden. It forms a protective barrier on the surface of the tooth, preventing bacteria and other decay-causing substances from reaching the tooth.

Dr. Meskin said that the sealant is effective for more than 10 years, and that it is not harmful to the tooth. He added that the treatment is painless and relatively easy to administer.

"The sealant is a very effective method of preventing cavities," Dr. Meskin said. "It is not a substitute for good oral hygiene, but it can help to prevent decay and keep teeth healthy."
Poor and minority birth rate drops faster than for whites

New York (UPI) — The birth rate for poor, black, Hispanic and Indian families in the United States is dropping more rapidly than for higher income families, a new analysis has revealed.

The findings, documented in two studies to be published in the forthcoming journal of Family Planning Perspectives, are a biennial analysis of population data by the Center for Population Studies.

The research, conducted by sociologist and Frederick S. Sweet, noted that the fall in fertility rates is occurring at a New York City restaurant.

A 'Mexican-American and Indian females in the United States, is taking a smaller share of American births, Sweet said. The researchers found that the childbearing fell 45 per cent during this period. The childbearing of blacks fell by 37 cent during this period.

Vinyl chloride cancer scare jumps from plants to homes

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN

A medical study has produced new evidence supporting a 10-fold increase in risk of death from a rare liver cancer among employees working with vinyl chloride, a chemical widely used in production of various synthetic resins.

A study of vinyl chloride workers in plants in Niagara Falls, N.Y., found that the cancers were due to the cancerous chemical.

Dr. Irving J. Selikoff, director of the New York Occupational Health Laboratory of the Mount Sinai School of Medicine, said the study showed that the cancer was due to the cancerous chemical.

Kalmbach testifies on job-gift exchange

WASHINGTON (AP) — Press Secretary Ron Nessen has denied Watergate connections but said Nissen was responsible for authorizing a job for Watergate donor in the Nixon administration.

Shenkman, a key aide for the president, said Friday that he had been "aware of the Job Gift book, which was written by Wolfgang H. von der Heiden and published by Harper & Row."

The president, speaking of the job gift book, said: "It's a book that he wrote, and I've read it. I can't say I'm familiar with it."

But he added that he had been "adequately advised" about the book by Mr. von der Heiden, who is now a senior executive for the publisher.

"I've seen it, and I've talked to him about it," the president said. "I don't know much about it, but I think it's a good book."

Nessen, who is a former Republican National Committee chairman, testified before the Senate Select Committee on Watergate that he had been "adequately advised" about the book by Mr. von der Heiden, who is now a senior executive for the publisher.

AMA braces for storm over health care subsidyization

AMA (1981) — The American Medical Association (AMA) is in the midst of a major battle over health care reform, a battle that could have far-reaching implications for the future of medicine in the United States. The AMA is leading the fight against proposals that would require widespread changes in the current system of health care financing and delivery. The organization is concerned that such changes would undermine the independence of physicians and limit their ability to make decisions based on the best interests of their patients. In particular, the AMA is opposed to any proposals that would mandate a single payer system or require doctors to accept lower payment rates from government programs.

SEC suing NFO in fraud case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The SEC has filed a fraud case against the National Farmers Organization (NFO), alleging that the group engaged in a scheme to defraud its members. According to the SEC, NFO, a farmer cooperative, raised $75 million from its members through the sale of shared ownership in a stock program. The SEC alleges that NFO misused the funds raised, and that the organization's top executives knew or should have known of the misuses.

The suit, filed Monday in U.S. District Court in New York, claims that NFO's leaders used the proceeds to finance their personal expenses, pay off their personal debts, and make lavish gifts to themselves. The SEC also alleges that NFO's leaders failed to account for the $75 million in shared ownership in the organization's financial statements, and that they concealed the true nature of the scheme from NFO's members.

A spokesperson for NFO denied the SEC's allegations and said that the organization is working to resolve the issues raised in the suit. The spokesperson added that NFO is committed to working with the SEC to resolve any outstanding issues.

The SEC's lawsuit is the latest in a series of allegations and investigations that have plagued NFO in recent years. The organization has faced scrutiny from government agencies and members over its financial practices, and has been subjected to a series of lawsuits and regulatory inquiries.

In response to the new suit, NFO's leadership has promised to cooperate fully with the SEC and to work to resolve any issues that may arise. The organization has also said that it is committed to maintaining the trust of its members and to ensuring that the organization operates in a transparent and ethical manner.

While the SEC's lawsuit is the latest in a series of allegations against NFO, it is also the first to be filed at the federal level. The organization has faced scrutiny from state and local agencies in recent years, and has been subject to a series of investigations and lawsuits.

The SEC's lawsuit is likely to add pressure on NFO's leadership to address the allegations and to work to ensure that the organization operates in a transparent and ethical manner. Egypt threatens to use its forces to defend Lebanon

The Egyptian government said yesterday that it would not withdraw its forces from Lebanon, contrary to reports, and would use its military might to defend Lebanon, if necessary.

President Hosni Mubarak, speaking in Cairo yesterday, said that Egypt would "take all necessary measures" to support the Lebanese government, if necessary.

General Mills reports high sales, earnings

General Mills posted a 14% rise in earnings and a 11% increase in sales for the fiscal year ending May 31, 1984. The company said it had a strong year, with earnings reaching $3.07 billion, or 92 cents per share, on sales of $14.6 billion.

James PA McFarland said that inflation, particularly in the United States, had been a major factor in the company's performance.

In a company statement, McFarland said that the company had "continued to make progress in meeting our objectives, despite the difficult economic environment." He added that the company had "taken steps to improve our cost structure, while maintaining our customer service standards."

Jackson Co. Board backs ambulance service

By PEARL POSEY

Daily News correspondent

In a special meeting Tuesday night, the Jackson County Board of Supervisors voted unanimously to purchase a new ambulance for the district.

The action came after county administrators had recommended the purchase of a new ambulance due to the increasing number of emergency calls in the area.

Supervisors agreed to spend up to $50,000 for the purchase of an additional ambulance, which would be housed in a new facility to be built in the county.

The new ambulance would be equipped with the latest technology to improve patient care and response times, a representative said.

The decision was met with approval from members of the public, including first responders and community leaders.

Supervisors praised the efforts of the county's emergency services, noting their dedication to serving the community.

The purchase will be funded through the county's budget, and the new ambulance is expected to be in service within the next few months.

Supreme Court sets new rules for libel suits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Over the protest of dissenters who differed among themselves, a unanimous Supreme Court Tuesday night adopted new rules that would put the burden of proof on the publisher or broadcaster in libel cases.

The court's decision wiped out an earlier decision of the Court of Appeals, which had held that the publisher or broadcaster had the burden of proof.

The new rules provide that the party bringing a libel action must prove that the alleged defamatory statement was false and was published with reckless disregard of the truth.

The court said that the rule was necessary to protect the freedom of the press and to ensure that only genuine libel suits are brought.

The decision reversed lower court rulings in favor of the publisher, who was found not liable for negligence in the handling of the case.

The court's decision was praised by First Amendment advocates, who said it would protect the rights of the press and ensure that only genuine libel suits are brought.

The decision was also met with criticism by some members of Congress, who said the rule was too vague and would make it difficult to bring genuine libel suits.

DEAR ABBY: I can’t believe this is actually happening. Two days ago, a man met me at a bar, and introduced himself. We had a few drinks and he got me into a conversation. He told me he had been thinking about getting in touch with me for a while, and now was the right time. He said he was tired of being single, and was interested in getting to know me better. He asked if I would like to go out for dinner together, and I said yes. We had a great time at the restaurant, and I think there’s potential for something more between us. I feel happy and excited about this opportunity. Do you have any advice for me on how to proceed?

DEAR ABBY: I can’t believe I’m actually writing a letter to you. I’ve never asked for help before, but I need it right now. My marriage is falling apart, and I don’t know what to do. My husband and I have been married for 10 years, but we’ve been constantly fighting. I’m so tired of arguing and feeling resentful all the time. I just can’t seem to get my husband to listen to me. He’s always busy with work or his hobbies, and he never seems to have time for me. I’ve tried talking to him about my feelings, but he just dismisses me. I feel like I’m not important to him anymore. What should I do?

DEAR ABBY: I’ve been thinking about getting a divorce for a while now, but I’m not sure if it’s the right decision. My husband has been unfaithful to me, and he’s been drinking a lot lately. I’ve tried talking to him about it, but he’s just mad at me for bringing it up. I don’t want to break up my marriage, but I don’t know what else to do. Can you give me some advice on how to handle this situation?

DEAR ABBY: I’ve been feeling so guilty lately. I’ve been thinking about my past mistakes, and I can’t seem to get them out of my mind. I’ve made some bad decisions in the past, and I feel like I should have handled things differently. I don’t want to make any more mistakes in the future, but I don’t know how to stop thinking about my past. Can you give me some advice on how to move on from the past and focus on the present?

DEAR ABBY: I’m having a lot of problems with my health lately. I’ve been feeling very tired all the time, and I can’t seem to get enough rest. I’ve tried going to the doctor, but they haven’t been able to find anything wrong. I’m starting to feel like there’s something seriously wrong with me, but I don’t know what to do. Can you give me some advice on how to improve my health?

DEAR ABBY: I’m having a lot of problems with my credit card debt lately. I’ve been having trouble paying my bills, and I’ve been in a lot of debt for a long time. I don’t know what to do. Can you give me some advice on how to get out of debt and improve my credit score?

DEAR ABBY: I’m having a lot of problems with my pets lately. I have two cats, and they’re driving me crazy. They’re always jumping on the furniture and knocking things over. I don’t know what to do. Can you give me some advice on how to keep my pets from making a mess?

DEAR ABBY: I’m having a lot of problems with my kids lately. They’re always fighting and not listening to me. I don’t know what to do. Can you give me some advice on how to discipline my kids?

DEAR ABBY: I’m having a lot of problems with my friends lately. They’re not as supportive as they used to be, and I don’t know what to do. Can you give me some advice on how to improve my friendships?

DEAR ABBY: I’m having a lot of problems with my family lately. They’re always arguing and not listening to me. I don’t know what to do. Can you give me some advice on how to improve my relationships with my family?

DEAR ABBY: I’m having a lot of problems with my neighbors lately. They’re always making noise and not respecting my privacy. I don’t know what to do. Can you give me some advice on how to improve my relationships with my neighbors?

DEAR ABBY: I’m having a lot of problems with my coworkers lately. They’re not working hard enough, and I don’t know what to do. Can you give me some advice on how to improve my relationships with my coworkers?

DEAR ABBY: I’m having a lot of problems with my boss lately. They’re not treating me fairly, and I don’t know what to do. Can you give me some advice on how to improve my relationships with my boss?

DEAR ABBY: I’m having a lot of problems with my government lately. They’re not doing enough to help me, and I don’t know what to do. Can you give me some advice on how to improve my relationships with my government?

DEAR ABBY: I’m having a lot of problems with my society lately. They’re not treating me fairly, and I don’t know what to do. Can you give me some advice on how to improve my relationships with my society?

Is microwave oven safe?

Q. We keep hearing from friends that microwave ovens are not yet tested enough to be safe. How are these statements based on the safest standard and that they still need to be made more frequent? Have you any new information on this?

A. The Dows of Radio-

duction in any significant way. The idea is not to save money but to save energy and to keep the environment cleaner. The use of microwave energy reduces the amount of food you eat and you're eating lower fat meats and vegetables. The meal can be warmed up in minutes. It's a way to save energy and to keep the environment cleaner.

Q. Could you find out if anyone is concerned by your answer to Burt's question? I don't subscribe to Burt's answer but I do have a problem with using counter-top ovens. Our problem is that the heating element and the microwave energy can be saved by limiting the amount of food you eat and you're eating lower fat meats and vegetables. The meal can be warmed up in minutes. It's a way to save energy and to keep the environment cleaner.

A. This problem is often referred to as "microwave oven syndrome." The microwave oven is a device that uses electromagnetic waves to cook food. The waves are not harmful to the human body but can be dangerous to pets and plants. It is important to use the oven properly to avoid accidental exposure.

Q. I'd like to check on the safety of our microwave oven. It doesn't heat evenly. I'm concerned about the food inside. How can I check it?

A. There are several things you can do to check the safety of your microwave oven. First, make sure the oven is clean and free of debris. Second, check the power supply to the oven. Third, check the walls and the door for any damage. Fourth, check the instructions for safe use to avoid possible exposure to microwave energy. Do not use the oven if it is damaged or if the door, hinge, latch, or sealing surface is damaged. Anyone who wishes to comment on microwave energy should contact the FDA's Hearing Clerk, Room 6-26, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md. 20852.

Stock market falls before interest hike

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned downward again today in the face of a continued rise in interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 1.5 at 8950, and broad-based gainers fell 1.0 to 6.9. The market had advanced on hopes that the Federal Reserve Board would soon raise interest rates.

Analysts said the improvements of today’s technical study had disappeared quickly as several media failed to stimulate in raising their price levels. They added that the U.S. economy is in the early stages of a possible recovery, which will be a period of perils in the basic data investment has been made up.

Therefore, they noted, the Dow Jones average today, and a point in the Nikkei average, was off the mark of 8900, which was felt to be the bottom.

The American Stock Exchange gathered momentum and recovered a bit from its recent losses.

Austin’s bike patrol takes to the streets

AUSTIN, Minn. (AP) — Austin High School students are setting up their bikes in hopes of cutting down on crime.

The patrol, including three junior-year students, has been reduced to four in the past two years, and police Chief Robert Simon said it has been a real help in bringing the city’s crime rate down in the past year.

Simon noted that the patrol is not a replacement for police work, but rather an attempt to discourage crime.

It’s a very important part of our community,” Simon said.
