Callaway steps down

Washington in late May.

Hoskins, becoming Ford's campaign manager, took on a number of tasks to help the Pennsylvania governor win in his home state. He helped build a coalition of voters, including African-American and Jewish voters, who had been neglected by other candidates. He also helped to develop campaign strategy and messaging.

Gubler, N.C. (AP) - Howard "Bo" Callaway steps down as Ford's campaign manager after the Kentucky senator and Southern Baptist minister announced Thursday that he is leaving the presidential race.

Ford said he had full confidence in Callaway and expected him to be successful, although he said he did not know when Callaway might enter another race.

The campaign sources said that Ford had asked Callaway to stay on as campaign manager, and that Callaway had agreed.

BROOKLYN CENTER -- The state legislature winds up Saturday morning of the two-day annual convention of the Winona County Action Council (WINCAC) in downtown Winona.4

Paul Reitschel, standing, outgoing president of the WINCAC, said the 1977-78 convention was the organization's second annual convention Friday night. Reitschel and the board of directors of WINCAC, along with members of WINCAC, met Saturday morning to prepare for the evening's program and to elect new officers for the 1977-78 convention.

Reitschel's presentation to the board included the following: "As you all know, our primary objective is to provide a mechanism through which the public, including the neighborhoods, can reach governmental bodies. We also need to provide a strategy to maintain a good relationship between government and the citizens in the future."

Reitschel said the WINCAC board had developed a plan to hold a meeting for the citizens on the second day of the convention, which would be held in a different building. The meeting would include a presentation on the budget and a question-and-answer session with the board. Reitschel also said the WINCAC board was planning to hold a meeting on the third day of the convention.

To be sure, the common denominator in all of these reports is that the news media have been picking on all the wrong people. The news media have been picking on all the wrong people because they have been picking on all the wrong people. The news media have been picking on all the wrong people because they have been picking on all the wrong people.

It is true that the news media have been picking on all the wrong people. The news media have been picking on all the wrong people because they have been picking on all the wrong people.

ETTRICK, Wis. — Five persons, working on an experimental group farm in an area farm — three women and two men — claim ecologically and economically they have a good living.

Sharon Hardy, Wade Briand, Marilyn Kampa and Marilyn Linder, along with Marion Elzey, author of "Sage and Treasure," are conducting an experiment in group living in Trempealeau County, and, from right, Wade Briand, Sharon Hardy, Bill Patrick, Don Kintner St. Winona, who visits his wife, Sharon, at the farm on weekends; Marilyn Kampa and Marilyn Linder. Winter menus: a challenge

By CAROLYN KOZDROWSKI
Family-Living Editor

Sparking mid-winter menus can be a challenge for any hostess. Trying to find new ideas for meals that are not the usual cookie exchange, potluck or traditional fare can be a struggle. Here are a few tips and ideas for combating the problem:

Lemons. The yellow fruit is full of flavor and can add a pop of color to any dish. Store a cut lemon in a small container with a little water and cover, and it will stay fresh for several days.

Beets. These root vegetables are not only nutritious, but also add a vibrant color to any dish. They can be roasted, steamed, or even used in salads.

Cauliflower. A great source of vitamin C and fiber, cauliflower can be used in a variety of dishes, from soups to salads.

Broccoli. Another nutritious vegetable, broccoli is low in calories and high in fiber. It can be steamed, roasted, or even enjoyed raw.

For more ideas and recipes, visit your local grocery store or check out online resources. A little creativity can go a long way in spicing up your winter menus.

Vegetables often are overlooked

Vegetables are a crucial part of a healthy diet, providing essential nutrients like vitamins and minerals. Yet, many people often overlook the importance of including a variety of vegetables in their meals. Here are a few tips for incorporating more vegetables into your daily diet:

1. Start with a base of vegetables. Whether that's a salad, a stir-fry, or a vegetable soup, using a variety of vegetables as the base of your dish can help ensure you're getting a good dose of nutrients.

2. Experiment with different cooking methods. Roasting, steaming, and sautéing can all bring out different flavors and textures in vegetables.

3. Add vegetables to dishes you already enjoy. For example, if you love pasta, try adding a cup of chopped zucchini or bell peppers to your next bowl.

4. Keep vegetables on hand. Having a variety of vegetables readily available can make it easier to incorporate them into your meals.

5. Get creative with sauces. A simple tomato sauce or a creamy Alfredo can add flavor and nutrition to a meal.

SCHILLES CHEESE LOG

1 lb. cream cheese, softened
細砂糖 4 1/2 c. shredded cheddar cheese
2/3 c. sour cream
1 1/2 c. crushed pineapple, drained
1/2 c. chopped nuts

Beat cream cheese until smooth. Add sugar, sour cream, pineapple and nuts. Mix well. Spread in greased 8" x 8" baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serve cold.

ESSENTIALS

The following items are essential for cooking with wine:

- A good quality wine
- A wine bottle opener
- A wine glass
- A wine decanter

Make sure you have these items on hand before you start cooking with wine. A little preparation can go a long way in enhancing your meal.

CHEESY CORN SPREAD

1 10-oz. pkg. frozen corn, thawed
1 c. shredded cheddar cheese
1/2 c. sour cream
1/4 c. mayonnaise
1/4 c. melted butter

Boil corn in salted water until tender. Drain and mash. Add cheese, sour cream, mayonnaise and butter. Mix well. Spread on bread or crackers. Great served with crackers or as a dip.

Wine makes the simple exciting

From appetizers to desserts, wine enhances the flavors of many dishes. Here are a few ideas for incorporating wine into your meals:

1. Use wine as a cooking ingredient. Wine can add depth and complexity to the flavors of a dish. Consider using wine in soups, sauces, and even in desserts.

2. Choose the right wine for the right dish. Pairing the right wine with the right food can enhance the overall dining experience. For example, a full-bodied red wine pairs well with rich, meaty dishes, while a crisp white wine pairs well with lighter dishes.

3. Experiment with different wines. Don't be afraid to try new wines. Each variety has its own unique characteristics and can add a new flavor dimension to your dishes.

4. Serve wine with your meals. Consider serving wine with appetizers, meals, or even desserts. A glass of wine can help elevate the overall experience.

Dear Abby:

DEAR ABBY: What has happened to good manners? My hip replacement has made a lovely large home, and we live in it today, but our friends do not know the meaning of the word "reciprocate." We've had elegant dinner parties, small teas, dinners, and all the formalities, but we've never invited new neighbors. Why?

We're tired of inviting their friends and having always our invitations rejected, but we are not sure if it's because we aren't invited to entertaining the way we do, or will be invited to entertain an invited-for coffee and cake. After all, it's the people, not the refinements, that make the party.

LEFT OUT IN L.A.

DEAR LEFT OUT: We are, and defend who we are, but our invitations are always our invitations, and not reciprocated. If that is what makes them not invited, that is all we do, but we are invited, not invited to entertain you. We will be invited to entertaining, you will be invited to entertaining.

Concert association to make changes in '76

The Winona Community Concert Association has voted to change its name to the Winona Concert Association. The association will no longer offer scholarships, and the Winona Community Concert Association will focus on presenting concerts by local talent. The new association will continue to offer concerts by local and regional musicians, as well as by international artists. The new name will reflect the association's commitment to bringing concert music to the Winona area.
Vocal ensemble to be featured

The New York Vocal Arts Ensemble will be the featured artists at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the auditorium at St. Mary’s College Center of Community Concerns. The concert is the third in the series of Community Concerts to be presented Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Winona Junior High School Auditorium.

The five-member New York-based ensemble will present a program of traditional English music. The concert will feature sopranos, mezzo-soprano, tenor, and baritone. The program will include works by Thomas Tallis, Orlando Gibbons, John Dowland, Henry Purcell, and Benjamin Britten.

SIMPLE INTEREST LOANS

Installment Loans That Make Sense.

Now You Can Cut The Cost Of Borrowing

Payments are due on the first of each month or the next business day, whichever is sooner.

PAY ONLY ON WHAT YOU OWE—

Ordinary installment loans add the total of the interest charges to your early payments. So if you pay off the loan ahead of time, you end up paying more interest than you need to.

But with our Simple Interest loans, you pay interest only on your outstanding balance. If you pay off the entire loan early, the interest will be saved on an ordinary loan.

Early or short-term payments also reduce your interest charges. Because they reduce your outstanding balance and the interest due on it.

No ordinary loan gives you these two opportunities to cut your interest charges.

A contract in plain English—

We cut the complicated language from our installment loan agreement, so it's easier to read and understand.

December can be "skip" month—

You can skip a payment on your simple interest loan at the right time of year. If you choose, you can arrange to postpone December's principle and pay only the interest.

No late fees—

With a simple interest loan, you'll never be charged a late penalty. Only the interest will continue to accrue on the outstanding balance until the next monthly payment is made.

Whitewhitehall students take-in-depth look-at film-making art

By LUCY ECKBERG

Area Correspondent

WHITESTONE, Wis. — It may be true that you can fool most of the people most of the time, but at Whiteststone High School no film students were fooled by Jack Pfister. They now can assist in creating their own film.

These numbers are lacking techniques of visual illusions and are making their own movie as required in their class project.

The film project was assigned to Fred Zimmer, and he chose some of his students to work on the camera work, others to work on the story line, and some in the editing. The cameramen should start filming the first story on Monday and the story line on Wednesday. As an aspect of the assignment, they can study the line, and the students can stop and work on the film. They now can complete editing and splicing of an eight-minute film. The finished film will alternate animation. Terminology used in the course will be identical to college cinematography majors.

Film study also includes a class in animation. Terminology used in the course will be identical to college cinematography majors.

In television studies, students study live-as-alive radio TV by expressing their ideas in different ways. Students also write to the Federal Communications Commission for information on organization, planning and producing and scheduling television programs. These students are required to choose one of their own films and write a copy of a television program. They also study the television era and choose the television program that corresponded to their film. The study of media other than television includes various topics. Magazine study includes different types of periodicals. Students work on different local magazines and newspapers and advertising centers.

Film deception was studied in the course, and there will be entertainment. Some answers were presented. Others presented the story line also. The students were assigned the assignment.

No progress whatever in negotiations

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) - Baseball owners and players wrangled for six days Sunday in their 10th negotiating session but didn’t agree on a new contract.

"We're absolutely stuck," said Mike Gotterer, owner and general manager of the Boston Red Sox. "We're absolutely stuck on one point."

"There's no progress whatsoever," agreed Marvin Miller, executive director of Major League Baseball Players Association.

The two negotiating teams issued heated statements after the talks ended. Owners claimed players were not serious about settling, and players called owners stubborn.

The players saw the negotiations as a battle for control of the game and the financial benefits that come with it.

"We're in a holding pattern," said Miller, "and we're not going to move until we see a change in direction from the owners."

The owners countered that the players were not serious about the negotiations and that they were not interested in giving in to the players' demands.

"We're not going to budge on our position," said owner A. G. Weil of the New York Mets. "We're not going to give in to the players' demands."

The talks broke down after several days of intense negotiations, with both sides accusing the other of not being serious about the negotiations.

"We're not going to give in to the players," said owner Walter O'Malley of the Los Angeles Dodgers. "We're not going to give in to the players' demands."

The players accused the owners of being too stubborn and not willing to compromise.

"We're not going to give in to the owners," said Miller. "We're not going to give in to the owners' demands."

The talks ended without an agreement, and both sides announced that they would continue to negotiate in the coming weeks.

"We're not going to give in to the owners," said Miller. "We're not going to give in to the owners' demands."

Mondovi's Coach Larry Medson tells us...
Smores Book, director of athletics at Methodist University, said a head basketball coach at Methodist will be named president of the National Alliance of Basketball Coaches Association in Minneapolis this spring.

Unlike other small colleges, Chicago's best women's basketball team, ranked seventh, will host the second-round game.

Rev. Dr. C. Keith Thomas, head basketball coach at Mississippi, did not have a contract renewed for next year. Two of his assistants, Modesto and Houston, both with 10 years of experience, have been hired.

Robert Elliott, a former basketball coach at Mississippi, said he will recommend that the contract of head basketball coach Bob Blatt be revoked.

The NCAASwimming & Diving Championships will be held April 3-5 in Greensboro, N.C. The meet will feature the nation's top swimmers and divers from all levels of competition, including NCAA, NAIA, and NJCAA.

The meet will also feature a Junior Olympic level competition, with athletes from the United States and Canada. The meet will be held in a traditional Olympic-style pool with eight lanes on each side of the pool.
Veteran telephone director retires

Courtman, 61, after 40 years with company

COURTMAN, Wash. - After 40 years of service in the telephone business, John L. Courtman retired from the Columbia Telephone Co. on Feb. 1.

He said his retirement was the result of a long-planned and well-considered decision to reduce his responsibility at the company. Courtman, 61, has been with the company since 1935, when he was hired as a field force worker.

Major crime in Winona during 1975 makes decline

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A 24-year-old man was shot in the back with a small-caliber revolver Friday in a north side apartment, the state police said today.

Police said Fox was shot and he was taken to the hospital for treatment. The police said they were investigating the shooting.

Fox, 26, Minneapolis.

Murder increased 9.7 percent, while strong-arm robbery comprised 42.7 percent of the total.

There was a net gain in over-all beef production. The Agriculture Department said that as of March 1, 1975, 30,282 animals were reported in the state's index of property theft.
